Washington Not So Happy.
Parking a Cent-a-Minute.
New Life Elixir.
Surprise For Mt. Sinai.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.

NOT EVERYTHING is cheerful here. Washington, already "water-logged," complains of two extra and unnecessary inches of rain, with a probability that the 1932 rainfall will break all records before the end of October.

Officials and newspaper workers, looking ahead to the coming winter, issue a "black report." It is feared that the commissioners of the District will not be able to take care of the poverty and actual hunger, caused by the depression.

Under the law, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation cannot spend any of its funds in this District.

However, "the richest government in the world" will not admit that it cannot feed the hungry in the nation's capital.

SENATOR BINGHAM, of Connecticut, has a new parking-cash-producing-unemployment-relieving plan. When Congress returns in December he will propose that the city charge automobile owners one cent a minute, sixty cents an hour, for parking on business streets.

The unemployed will operate the system and collect the money. This will interest automobile owners who thought that everything possible had been done to tax them completely.

SINCE Braun Sequard, brilliant French doctor of the last century, began his studies in retardation of senility, many plans have been suggested for keeping off old age. Dr. Voronoff transplants glands of monkeys and other animals in the bodies of old men, and is said to have met with success.

A new and a more pleasant rejuvenation process is offered seriously by an Italian doctor of standing.

HE HAS AN "elixir of life" which he says postpones old age for ten years, adding that to the length of life. As a result of twenty years' study he offers a solution of gold, platinum, paladium, brain extract, iodine, phosphorus, formic acid and other ingredients, taken in minute doses.

It sounds like the alchemists of old. But since we know that almost all of the ninety-odd elements are contained and needed in the human body, that the lack of one metal causes pernicious anemia, it is unwise to laugh at anything.

THIS IS REALLY interesting, strange and unusual, which means that it is news.

The Smithsonian Institution will establish an observatory on that mountain in the Sinai desert which was climbed by Moses when he went up alone, and came down with the Ten Commandments.

That particular mountain, now called "Mount St. Katherine," is a desolate peak rising out of the desert almost 9,000 feet above sea level.

If the workmen that build the solar observatory are at all religious they will have some queer feelings, hammering and building on that particular spot.

RUSSIA SEEMS to have adopted a maxim quoted by Charles E. Mitchell, head of New York's big National City Bank:

"Never interfere with the enemy while he is in the process of making a mistake."

Russia believes that Japan in Manchuria is draining away her resources, money and men, and that it will take years, and many millions to carry out the Japanese program which includes suppression of Chinese rebels and brigands.

Russia will hold aloof and watch, not interfering, while Japan weakens herself.

IT MAY BE, however, that Japan possesses secrets of economical operation, including "living off the country" with which other nations are not familiar. It may truly be said of Japan that since she opened her ports and joined the ranks of so-called "civilized nations," she has been the only important nation that has made no important mistake.

While this country sent three million men and lent ten billions of dollars in the big war, Japan sent a handful of "observers" to "listen and learn."

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS, big and little, will not grieve over the "newsprint" situation. "Spot" paper was offered on Monday at $38 a ton, contract prices only $2 higher.

Canada is said to have lost important customers in the United States. Everybody wishes Canada all possible prosperity. But it perhaps would be worth while to make clear the fact that so near and good a neighbor may learn that "Buy British Only" can work two ways.

LIBBY FIGHTS QUASHING OF TRIAL

Reynolds Family Plea Opposed by Singer

International News Service.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 19.—Libby Holman Reynolds will seek "complete exoneration," through trial, of the fatal shooting of her husband, Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir to the tobacco millions.

Spurning the dramatic request of W. N. Reynolds, uncle of the dead youth, to District Prosecutor Carlisle Higgins to nolle prosse the murder indictment, the beautiful former Broadway torch singer asked today that she be placed on trial. She said:

"I want the cloud over me lifted permanently, not temporarily. It is my earnest desire to obtain complete exoneration through the trial."

DECISION DISCLOSED

Her decision was disclosed by Benet Polikoff, her attorney here, who revealed to her by telephone the move of the titular head of the Reynolds family to have the indictments against Mrs. Reynolds and Ab Walker, Reynolds' young chum, dropped because the "evidence fails to prove conclusively that Smith was murdered." After talking with Mrs. Reynolds, Polikoff said:

"The case is just where it was. There has been no change. We are going right ahead with our plans for the trial."

Libby's conversation with her attorney follows:

"Can you stand some good news?"

"Yes, of course. It's about time I had some."

"Mr. Will Reynolds has asked Solicitor Higgins to drop the case because the Reynolds family doesn't think there is enough evidence to justify the indictment."

"Oh, my God."

"It seems they want to nolle prosse the charge."

"What does that mean?"

"It means that the state may drop it now, but you might sometime again be indicted."

LIBBY OPPOSED

"I don't want that. I won't stand for it. I am innocent and

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 19.—Without mentioning them directly by name, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today accused President Hoover and former President Calvin Coolidge of holding "the specter of fear" before the voters in a desperate, last minute effort to scare them from changing administrations at Washington. He declared, in one of his most vigorous speeches:

"You have placed before you the specter of fear by the Republican candidate and the Republican speakers. You have been told that things might have been worse, and will be worse if I am elected to office.

"But I say to you, 'Yes, things might have been worse; indeed we might all of us have been destroyed. But on the other hand, remember that things might have been better, should have been better, and will begin to get better with a change of administration on the fourth of March."

FEAR OF PANIC

Striking straight from the shoulder, he added:

"To attempt to instill panic into the electorate at a time when we must all have courage and a firm belief that the American characteristic of finding

Attack on Mellon Rule May Mark Speech At Forbes Field

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, brought his Democratic campaign for the presidency into Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia today.

Met by a great crowd which gathered in the yards of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie station, and along the Smithfield Street Bridge, he was greeted by other throngs as his automobile caravan passed through Pennsylvania communities en route to Wheeling.

In Wheeling the Governor learned that Mrs. Roosevelt, who had planned to fly to Pittsburgh today, will meet him at Indianapolis tomorrow. Unfavorable weather conditions prompted her to cancel the flight for a train.

IN CHEERFUL MOOD

The Governor was in a cheery humor when he alighted from a New York Central train at 9:30 a. m. He exchanged repartee with the crowd, and was eager to know from those who greeted him, what the situation was in Pennsylvania. His first question, as he emerged from his car to the observation platform, was:

"How are things here?"

Many of those who stood below shouted:

"Fine!"

Posing for a moment for photographers, with his son James, the Governor descended a ramp from the platform to a waiting automobile.

A Democratic enthusiast leaned into the car and said:

"We're going to topple the old elephant over, Governor."

Beaming, the Governor replied:

"It looks like he is about half gone now."

The Governor was silent on the

CRASH IMPERILS P. O. WORKERS

Workmen on the new postoffice building, Seventh avenue and Grant street, escaped injury this afternoon in a double crash of steel.

Simultaneously with the fall of a 21-ton beam, on the fourth floor of the building, due, it was said, to the breaking of a clamp on a 15-ton boom lifting the girder, the boom crashed.

The girder fell about two feet and the rattle of steel still echoed as the boom crashed.

TOURS, France, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Frank Ward O'Malley, veteran New York newspaper man, died here today. He was 57.

Mrs. O'Malley said he would be buried here in accordance with a wish he once expressed to be buried where he died.

Heidelberg Beer Keg Gives Roosevelt Laugh

Nominee Interviews 'Forgotten Man' In Wheeling

From thousands in towns, boroughs, hamlets and cities in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia there came roaring cheers today for Gov. Roosevelt as he sped to Wheeling.

And Heidelberg gave him a chuckle, too.

In the West End, Crafton, Carnegie and nearby boroughs, crowds lined the streets and the corners and cheered and waved at the smiling Democratic presidential candidate, as he passed through this morning.

In Carnegie, children in the public and parochial schools were dismissed to stand outside their schools and watch the candidate speed by.

There were more than school children to greet him in Heidelberg. Opponents of prohibition displayed, for the Governor's entertainment, a wheelbarrow which held a beer barrel—but not a barrel of beer—and following this exhibit were two members of the family emblematic of the Democratic party—mules!

Almost incessant cheers and greetings followed the caravan to Wheeling.

In Wheeling thousands lined

HOOVER LACKS NEEDED VOTES

Quadruplets Born To Arkansas Woman

VANDERVOORT, Ark., Oct. 19.—(INS.—The quadruplets born to Mrs. Loftus Cook, 28-year-old wife of a woodcutter, were reported "doing well" today.

The four babies, three boys and a girl, ranging in weight from four to five and a quarter pounds, were born in the Loftus tent home near here.

The couple has four other children.

New Triplets Here Get Roosevelt's 3 Names

When triplets arrived for the home of James Henry, 36, of 7214 Butler street, disabled World War veteran and ardent admirer of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, just a few hours before the Democratic nominee for President reached Pittsburgh, there wasn't much else to do.

So the happy parents named the three for the candidate. Two boys were named Franklin and Roosevelt, respectively, while the third, a girl, was named Dela, modification of the New York Governor's second name, Delano.

The daughter arrived at 9:55 o'clock last night as the mother, Mrs. Anna Henry, 30, was in West Penn Hospital. The boys were born a few minutes later.

Henry was a supporter of Father James R. Cox, who yesterday withdrew as the Jobless party nominee for president and announced for Roosevelt.

Unemployed for more than two years, Henry receives $12 a month compensation from the government. The Henrys have four other children, Ruth, 9; Jack, 7; Michael, 4, and Mary, 3.

LA FOLLETTE TO AID ROOSEVELT

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., Progressive Republican, issued a statement today advocating the election of the Democratic presidential nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was evident, Senator La Follette said, that President Hoover would block progressive measures in Congress while Roosevelt "indicates a willingness to co-operate with progressives on legislative action to meet the extraordinary (economic) crisis." He added:

"I shall, therefore, vote for Gov. Roosevelt because I believe he offers the only immediate hope for the relief of 10,000,000 unemployed men, women and children, and 6,000,000 farmers, who, with their families, are threatened with the loss of their entire stake in our economic order."

N. Y. GOVERNOR GREETED BY LEADERS

subject matter of the speech he is to deliver at 9:30 tonight at Forbes Field.

There were intimations that he might discuss the budget and utility control. The speech has not yet been completed, and there is a possibility that it will contain some reference to the soldier bonus.

Leading the reception party at the station were Joseph F. Guffey, Roosevelt leader in Pennsylvania; County Chairman David L. Lawrence and M. L. Benedum, wealthy independent oil operator, who supported President Hoover in 1928, but who this year has switched to the Democratic candidate.

These three, together with former County Commissioner James Houlahen, Burgess William M. Turner, of Wilkinsburg, and other boarded the candidate's car as soon as the special pulled in. For a few moments they discussed with him arrangements for the day, none of which the Governor asked to have changed.

MELLON AS TARGET

Reports were current on the Roosevelt special during its overnight run from Buffalo that the Governor was planning to launch an attack on Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury and now ambassador to England.

Roosevelt is said to take the position that Mellon, as Secretary of the Treasury, failed to take proper steps to guard against the depression, and that he refused to recognize it after it had the country in its grip.

First of the candidate's party to leave the train were his daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, and Mrs. James Roosevelt, his daughter-in-law. They were met by Mrs. J. Wood Clark, vice chairman of the Democratic county committee, and were placed in an automobile directly back of that of the candidate.

Photographers had missed the two young women as they left the train, but they emerged from their automobile smilingly to pose for pictures.

A cheer went up from the crowd as the Governor appeared on the back platform. Beside him stood his son, James, the Governor's left arm hooked through the right of the younger Roosevelt. Bareheaded, and without an overcoat, the Governor stood for a moment acknowledging the greeting, then descended the railed runway to take his place in the first car of the automobile caravan, an open machine.

RIDE PLEASES

He declined the offer of an overcoat, which one of the party attempted to throw about his shoulders. He asked the chauffeur:

"How far is it to Wheeling?"

The Governor appeared pleased at the prospect of the ride through the Pennsylvania and West Virginia hills.

Seated with the Governor in the leading car were Guffey, Benedum and Lawrence. The latter left the party at Washington.

A squad of Pittsburgh motorcycle police headed the parade, joined later by a patrol of state police who escorted the Democratic candidate to the state line.

There was no formal welcome to the Governor, the arrangements calling for a minimum of social activity and a maximum of hard campaigning. The Governor was introduced to only a few of those at the station, but will meet a number of leaders when he returns here this evening.

SHAVER IN PARTY

Joining him in Pittsburgh were Clem Shaver, of West Virginia, former Democratic national chairman; Bruce Kremer, national committeeman from Montana; Homer Cummings, Democratic national chairman in the closing days of the Wilson administration, and Breckenridge Long, assistant secretary of state in the Wilson administration. They traveled to Wheeling with the campaign party and will return to Pittsburgh for the meeting tonight.

With Guffey, Lawrence, Houlahen, Benedum and Turner at the train were many active Democrats, including Patrick T. Fagan, B. B. McGinniss, James L. O'Toole, Jr., Walter Jones, Twing Brooks, James Kirk, and a women's delegation which, in addition to Mrs. Clark, included Mrs. D. B. Trampton, Mrs. Carol Miller, Mrs. Turner, the Misses Ida and Pauletta Guffey, Mrs. John P. Killeen, Mrs. David L. Lawrence, Mrs. W. T. Hurtt, Mrs. T. T. Quaill and Miss Julia Ellis.

En route to Wheeling, where Gov. Roosevelt spoke at 1:30 p. m. in the Island Stadium, he made brief halts at Canonsburg and Washington, Pa.

BRIEF STOPS

The route of the trip was as follows:

From Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Station along Carson street to Main street, Crafton boulevard, Oakwood Park Bridge, Noblestown road, Main street, Carnegie; Glendale, Heidelberg, Bridgeville, Canonsburg, Washington, Claysville, West Alexander and Wheeling. The return trip is to be through Wellsburg, Steubenville, Imperial, Carnot, Coraopolis, Neville Island, McKees Rocks and Pittsburgh.

The party plans to arrive here at 4 p. m. and halt at the Pittsburgher Hotel until evening, when the party will move to Forbes Field.

Special police details, headed by Assistant Superintendent Ben Marshall, and the state highway patrols, met the Governor City traffic men, over 40 of them, guarded the throng at the station, and nearly 100 are assigned on special traffic duty at Forbes Field tonight.

How Times Have Changed -:- By QUIN HALL

54 SENTENCED IN LONDON RIOT

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Fifty men and four women, arraigned in police courts today for participation in yesterday's unemployment riots, were sentenced to pay fines of 40 shillings each or to spend two weeks to one month in prison.

Thirty of them were sentenced at Lambeth Court, where crowds of unemployed gathered this morning. Police pressed them back from the courthouse and there was no disorder.

Yesterday's disturbances came up in the House of Commons when Home Secretary Sir John Gilmour, answering a questioner, said the demonstrations were organized by a Communist body known as the National Unemployed Workers Movement. It was estimated that 10,000 persons participated. Sir John said the police, despite great provocation, acted with admirable restraint.

BENEDUM TAX CASE PUSHED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The $80,000,000 income tax case against M. L. Benedum and F. B. Parriott, Pittsburgh oil magnate, entered its second day today before the Board of Tax Appeals. Government counsel and John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential nominee, and Montgomery B. Angell, attorneys for the defense, estimated it would take three weeks to finish arguments.

Yesterday's session was given over to Roy F. Godfrey, public accountant, who presented statistics compiled in connection with an audit of the Tex-Penn Oil Company dissolution in 1919 and its reorganization when it became the Continental Oil Company. The government is seeking to collect $80,000,000 taxes on the transaction.

BERNIE JOKES, HIDES GRIEF

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(INS.)—Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Anna Ancel, 70-year-old mother of Ben Bernie, well-known orchestra leader.

Bernie, known as "The Old Maestro" on the radio and stage, flew from Chicago to New York Monday night to be with his mother before she died. He reached her bedside only a few minutes before she passed away.

Bernie fulfilled his regular radio engagement last night, "wisecracking" in his usual style, so that radio listeners were unaware of his grief. George Olsen's band took the place of Bernie's, which remained in Chicago.

Mrs. Ancel never failed to listen in to her son's broadcasts, and Ben never went through a radio program without saying something to her or dedicating a song to her.

'Balking Camera' Keeps Hoover In Rain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—A camera refused to cooperate today with a photographer and President Hoover.

The Chief Executive stood, head uncovered, in a drizzling rain for a series of pictures with a delegation from the convention of the National League of District Postmasters.

As Mr. Hoover was returning to his office, a photographer ran after him calling out that he had failed to "get a picture" because of difficulty with his camera.

Smiling, the President returned to stand with the postmasters for several minutes more, but the camera again proved balky and Mr. Hoover finally returned to his office—the photograph untaken.

Atterbury for Hoover, He Tells Employes

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—In a statement which he said answered inquiries from some employes "as to the wise policy to follow," Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, last night said:

"I expect to vote for Mr. Hoover and to work for his re-election. I believe that result to be in the best interest of the country.

"All of our employes are, of course, at liberty to vote as they think best.

"Mr. Hoover is in no way responsible for the chaotic economic condition of the world nor its reaction on our own country.

"We are slowly but surely recovering the ground we have lost. Industry is picking up, carloadings are increasing, confidence is being regained, and unemployment is decreasing.

"This is being accomplished under the leadership of President Hoover. This program, exercised through various agencies created upon his initiative, is showing good results. If permitted to continue under his guidance, I am convinced it will bring back normal conditions."

the streets as the Governor's car moved to the McClure Hotel for a luncheon with Democratic leaders. Roosevelt admirers pressed about his car and made it difficult for him to descend. He posed with a 2-year-old baby, Ruth Ann Bell, and a miner, Jeno Santanetti, who paused on his return home from work to tell the presidential nominee that he was working for $1 a day.

The miner, hands and face grimy, pushed through the crowd to reach the Governor and extended a hand. A spectator yelled:

"There's one of your forgotten men, Governor!"

TALKS WITH MINER

The crowd cheered as Roosevelt smiled and asked:

"How are you?"

The miner answered:

"I ain't got nothing."

"No work?"

"Six days this summer, that's all."

As the Roosevelt car pulled into the McClure Hotel at Wheeling, boys went through the crowd handing out bills which called upon the Governor to reveal his stand on various tariff duties, and especially the bonus. This was said to have been the work of the Ohio County Republican executive committee.

All along the route children were dismissed from school for a few minutes to greet the speeding caravan. To all the Governor waved a greeting, often removing his hat to his admirers and repeating:

"How are you, how are you!"

MET AT STATE LINE

At West Alexander, near the state line, a West Virginia reception committee met the party. Mr. Guffey and Mr. Benedum gave up their seats in the Governor's car to United States Senator M. M. Neely and H. G. Kump, Democratic candidate for Governor in West Virginia.

At Washington, Pa., the press about the Governor's car was so great that the caravan was delayed a few minutes. Cheers brought smiles to the candidate's face and he shook hands with many.

At Claysville this was repeated. Here former State Senator George B. Sprowls met Roosevelt.

As the parade of cars moved through the countryside farmers and their families would appear on their porches and wave greetings to the nominee.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

Sunday papers in the United States, give the Republican nominee a total of 145 potential electoral votes in states where he had obtained a majority of the Hoover-Roosevelt poll ballots.

This 145 includes the 47 of New York and the 26 of Ohio and the nine of Kansas and the six of Colorado that are not given to him in other straw votes. The Hearst newspapers' poll, therefore, is giving Hoover everything that the straw vote tests as a whole say he is entitled to. The 145 votes now to his credit still leaves him 121 to go for a bare majority of the 531 total.

The 145 includes all New England, New York and New Jersey, Ohio, Kansas and Colorado. Add to that, Delaware's three, Pennsylvania's 36, Michigan's 19, Indiana's four, Illinois' 29, Iowa's 11, Montana's 4, Idaho's 4 and Wyoming's 3, all states where he has shown some recent pickup, and it would give him 123 additional for a total of 268. That would put him over. But wait a minute.

Nothing has developed as yet to warrant even remotely the conceding of Illinois to Hoover. Without Illinois, but with all of the other states mentioned, he would be 27 short.

His home state of California could not even save him in that situation, for it has only 22. And despite the optimistic talk of Republican leaders about the California situation, the poll returns and other developments have failed thus far to indicate wherein the California revolt against Hoover has lost its momentum.

It will take a lot of paper and pencils and head-scratching to work out the answer of where the electoral votes are coming from to put Hoover across.

3,100-Hour Dancer Sues for Divorce

Chester Jackson, marathon dancer, and member of the team known as the "Sweetheart Couple," of 107 Aaron avenue, Overbrook, has filed suit for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Virginia C. Jackson, of 315 Harding boulevard. He charges desertion.

They were married December 6, 1925, and separated October 23, 1926. Jackson danced 3,100 hours in the marathon, dropping out last Wednesday. His partner was Miss Ethel Rodgers.

Garner Visits N. Y. To Plan Radio Talk

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(INS.)—Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, went to New York today on an unannounced trip to confer at Democratic headquarters on organization matters.

It was expected that final arrangements will be made soon for another national radio speech by Garner.

Roosevelt Favors Smith's Hotel On Trip Here

Gov. Roosevelt did Al Smith a favor in Pittsburgh today.

The Democratic presidential nominee served to focus attention on the Pittsburgher Hotel by setting up his headquarters there.

The Pittsburgher is operated by the Knott Hotels Corporation. And one of the directors is Alfred Emmanuel Smith.

they know it."

"Then you want me to demand a trial?"

"That's exactly what I want and nothing less. I am entitled to complete exoneration."

Smith's uncle, also co-guardian for the boy who was to receive a $20,000,000 inheritance, wrote Solicitor Higgins that the relatives "would be quite happy if it should be your decision to drop the case."

His action came, it was revealed, after the Reynolds lawyers had advised they were unable to find any evidence which would justify them in joining prosecution of the indictment and after he had read the telegrams sent to Libby by Smith at various times when they were apart after their secret marriage.

CABLE QUOTED

One, from Paris, sent to the Broadway torch singer while she was appearing in a show, read:

"Why return now? Meet you later—but suicide is preferable. This is the last cable. Good-bye. Love."

The cable, in the light of other missives, was generally interpreted as meaning Smith preferred suicide to continued separation from the alluring singer.

On the same day, he wrote:

"Darling Angel:

"I would gladly come home if you were not going on with the show. I'll gladly give up this trip or anything I have to devote all my time to be with you if you would do the same for me.

"If I get to the point where I simply cannot stand it without you another minute, well, there's the old Mauser with a few cartridges in it.

"I guess I've had my inning. It's time another team went to bat."

GUN ENDS LIFE

It was "the old Mauser with a few cartridges in it" that snuffed out Smith's life last summer in his palatial home here, at the end of a party.

Again, Smith wrote Libby:

"If I thought we have to go through life being separated like this, I'd kill myself."

From London, just before he undertook a trans-continental flight to Hongkong, he wrote:

"I really have been ill without you. I have really been sick in bed for two days. I don't know what's the matter, but I never felt more like dying in a long time."

GOV. ROOSEVELT JEERS G. O. P. 'BOGIES'

Wheeling Speech Hits 'Fear' Campaign By Hoover

answers to problems will bring us back on the upwards trail, is a method of campaigning which does little credit to leaders still at this time entrusted with the welfare of the United States."

A crowd estimated at 10,000 gave Gov. Roosevelt a tumultuous reception today when he arrived at Island Stadium. Despite the threat of rain, the stadium was filled to capacity and the crowd spilled out over the baseball diamond.

Delegations from Eastern Ohio and Pennsylvania joined West Virginia Democrats in escorting Roosevelt to the stadium. The marchers carried placards reading, "Herbert Hoover's Middle Name Should be Straddle," and "In Hoover We Trusted and Now We Are Busted." Before Roosevelt launched into his attack on President Hoover he was presented with a plaque by the Young Peoples' Democratic Club of West Virginia University. Hale Watkins, president of the club, said the plaque was presented to Roosevelt "as a token of our confidence in his leadership."

JEERS FALSE 'BOGIES'

Roosevelt said he refused to believe that the American people "can be made to fear false bogies," and he asserted that the choice which the voters have on November 8 is between "restored order and dangerous drift, between constructive planning and the forces of mismanagement."

After reviewing various proposals which he has made during the campaign to restore prosperity, Gov. Roosevelt emphatically declared he would "never advocate a tariff policy which will withdraw protection from American workers against those countries which employ cheap labor or who operate under a standard of living which is lower than that of our great laboring groups."

ANSWERS HOOVER

He replied to President Hoover's declarations that the Democratic tariff policy would result in the further loss of American trade with foreign countries, by saying:

"We now have a strangulation of that very trade under the tariff system of unsystematic and unscientific tariff walls set up by the log rolling that created the Grundy tariff."

Roosevelt said that when the voters carefully consider the "complete inaction" of the Republican leadership at Washington for the last three years during the economic storm, their answer to the "specter of fear" must be:

"No, we are not afraid of a change."

He said things might have been worse had it not been for the Federal Reserve System and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation both of which he insisted "are the result of the constructive foresight of the Democratic party and its leaders."

The Democratic presidential nominee expressed conviction the American people are ready for a change of administrations — "a change that will put into practice the lessons which we have had to learn through our trials and troubles."

'HALF BOOM, HALF BROKE'

Driving home the point that the nation cannot endure "half boom and half broke," Roosevelt said:

"The Hoover administration forgot these facts; encouraged speculators, strangled foreign markets by indefensible tariffs and accomplished nothing for agricultural communities, depressed already to the lowest point in modern history."

He said he had suggested a program for the rehabilitation of agriculture, for placing the railroads on their feet; that he proposed to curb the exploitation of hard earned savings, and that he had a definite program for fair control of public utility and public service. He added:

"The Democratic program is practical and I pledge to you that it will be carried out with speed and dispatch."

Roosevelt said that the last time he was in West Virginia "the smoke was coming out of factory chimneys after eight years of Democratic administration at Washington." An admirer yelled:

"We'll all be happy and prosperous when you are President."

Roosevelt in 3 Legion Posts Despite G. O. P.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 18.—In one short sentence Gov. Roosevelt today replied to charges of Congressman Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, who had attacked the Governor's statement that he was a member of the American Legion, Roosevelt said:

"I am a member of Lafayette Post, Poughkeepsie, N. Y."

The Governor's son, James, added that the membership was based on the nominee's service as Assistant Secretary of the Navy under President Wilson.

The Republican National Committee released in New York, a letter to the Governor from Johnson, who argued:

"As you were not in the military or naval service during the World War, and do not hold an honorable discharge therefrom, you cannot be a Legionnaire."

The Governor had asserted such membership in a letter to a war veteran who inquired his stand on the bonus and other questions.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Officials of the hall of records of the New York Department of the American Legion said today that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is listed as a member of three Legion posts in this state.

Representative Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, in a letter released last night through the Republican National Committee, challenged a statement by the Democratic candidate for President that "I am a legionnaire."

The New York headquarters of the Legion listed the posts to which Mr. Roosevelt belongs as follows:

Fort Orange Post No. 30, Albany.

Montgomery Post No. 429, Rhinebeck.

Lafayette Post No. 37, Poughkeepsie.

WIFE'S LORDLY ATTITUDE IRKS 'HE-MAN' CULBERTSON

BRIDGE EXPERT OUT TO REGAIN LAURELS

Again in Tournament Play to Assert Superiority

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"Nothing worse can happen in a home than for a wife to feel she is superior to her husband—in anything."

This was the thoroughly "he-man" explanation put forward today by Ely Culbertson for his decision to re-enter tournament bridge despite his "permanent" retirement last winter.

Culbertson, originator and master of the controversial approach-forcing system of contract, returns to tournament play October 26 when the crack teams of the country meet for the coveted Vanderbilt cup.

WILL OPPOSE WIFE

He will head a team, while his wife, until now his capable partner in every match of importance, will play against him as captain of an opposing team.

Asked point-blank if this indicated the seed of professional rivalry had at last intruded itself into the hitherto harmonious Culbertson menage, the bridge master broke down and told all.

"When I retired after my match with Sidney Lenz last winter I announced that I was through with tournament play. And I meant it. But something has happened.

"There is a growing feeling around the country that my wife is a better bridge player than I am. This cannot be allowed to continue. I am forced out of my hard-earned retirement by the biological urge to prove myself superior. I have the birthright, as a man, to reaffirm my superiority over the opposite sex whenever it appears to be threatened."

"FEELS SUPERIOR"

Culbertson was asked whether Mrs. Culbertson participates in the "growing feeling" that she plays a better game. He said:

"She hasn't said so in so many words. She is very modest. But there has been inference and innuendo. I fear that she is beginning to feel superior. That will never do. Tell the husbands of America for me never to allow their wives to feel superior in anything. Nothing worse can happen. Nothing can more quickly break up home and happiness."

But of course, Culbertson added, his home is still intact and happy. He is merely taking "necessary precautions." He said:

"I am perfectly willing to concede that Mrs. Culbertson is the world's best woman bridge player and a far better teacher than I am. I will even admit her to be the second best player in the world. But that is as far as I will go."

He was asked:

"And what if Mrs. Culbertson should happen to beat you in the Vanderbilt cup match?"

He answered:

"That is something I have never thought of."

Cagney's Leading Lady!

MARY BRIAN . . . . SHE'LL PLAY OPPOSITE JIMMY CAGNEY

Miss Brian, the actress who'll play opposite Jimmy Cagney, thus relieving Carole Lombard, who was "suspended" because she thought the part didn't fit her. She's been reinstated on the payroll.

CAROLE SHUNS CAGNEY PART

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 19.—(INS.)—Carole Lombard is back on the Paramount payroll today, and she will not play the role of a "phony actress" opposite James Cagney, who has just returned to work after a salary argument with his studio, in which the studio was announced winner.

Miss Lombard herself blithely announced her return to the Paramount payroll after four days' detachment, explaining:

"And I'm not going to play that part either."

Friends of Miss Lombard declared that her objections to working in the Cagney picture were based entirely on the fact that she did not believe the role offered her would be a good one for her to accept. They said she had no objection to working with Cagney, despite the fact that he is none too gentle with his leading ladies.

Mary Brian was reported slated to play the role instead.

MENJOUS AGREE TO DISAGREE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Separation of Adolphe Menjou, screen star, and his wife, known in motion pictures as Kathryn Carver, was announced today by her attorney, Milton Cohen. She is recuperating from a nervous breakdown in a hospital here.

Cohen said she probably will file suit for divorce shortly, and a property settlement is being arranged. He added:

"Mr. Menjou is interested in his work and she is interested in hers. The separation is an amicable one."

They were married in Paris in May, 1928. She formerly was the wife of Ira Hill, New York photographer.

The Menjous recently spent several months in Europe after a temporary separation, and, Cohen said, decided on a permanent parting on their return.

Largest Ship's Name To Be 'Normandie'

PARIS, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—The largest ocean liner in the world, which is to be launched at St. Nazaire on October 29, will be named the Normandie, it has been announced officially.

The craft will be 1,020 feet long and more than 60,000 gross tons.

PASTOR POSED AS SLEUTH, JURY TOLD

Love Poems and Notes Go Into Record at Poisoning Trial

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—A rooming house operator, Mary Potts, testified today in the Rev. S. Althea Berrie's trial on a charge of murdering his first wife, that the former Cumberland Presbyterian pastor stayed several times at her establishment under the name of "Mr. Stephens."

County Attorney Phil K. Oldham, pointing to the preacher's 19-year-old bride, whom he married less than two months after the first Mrs. Berrie died, allegedly from poison, demanded:

"Did you ever see this girl with him?"

The witness replied:

"I wouldn't be sure."

POSED AS SLEUTH

She said she learned the true identity of "Mr. Stephens" when his picture appeared in the paper, following his second marriage last May.

Mary Bradshaw, a restaurant cook, said the 52-year-old preacher told her he was a detective. She said:

"I lived at the rooms. I saw him there just once with a woman. I didn't see her, but I heard a woman in the room."

Over defense objections love poems and notes, which the prosecution declared Berrie wrote to the 19-year-old Sunday School teacher before his first wife died, went into the record.

County Attorney Oldham read a few of the verses to the jurors. One contained the line, "Some day we'll be as one," and continued it would be "'ere long."

LOVE POEMS CLIPPED

John Wolsey, former chief of police, testified some of the notes appeared to have been mutilated or clipped at the ends. Wolsey added:

"Berrie said he had clipped the poems or part of them."

Detailing what he said he learned in questioning Berrie, Wolsey said:

"They (Berrie and his bride) were riding over Braggs Mountain one day. They talked about talk that he had poisoned his wife.

"He said he cut the notes off, took them out of the trash can and burned them.

"He said he had written some notes which were totally destroyed."

Wolsey quoted extracts from one of the notes as "I cannot live without you," and "we cannot live this way."

Prisoner's Death Traced to Drinking

An autopsy revealed today that Frank Donohue, 48, no home, had died of stomach disorders, believed due to excess drinking, according to a Coroner's report.

Donohue died in the Allegheny General Hospital where he had been taken twice by police, it was reported. Arrested on a drunkenness charge, he was treated at the hospital and returned to the station. He was removed again to the hospital when he became ill at the police station, police said.

FATHER JAILS EDDIE ALLEN'S BROTHER

Youth Arrested for Creating 'Terrible Disturbance'

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—William W. Allen, 21, brother of "Eddie" Allen, acquitted of the slaying of Francis A. Donaldson III, friend of his sister, Rose, was arrested today at his Merion suburban home at the request of his father, Horace Allen, police said.

Officials declared the senior Allen asked that someone be sent to the house to get William, who was "creating a terrible disturbance."

Allen was arrested twice recently on charges of operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor. He was free in bail.

'Big Bill's' Auto Just a Name Plate

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—All that former Mayor William Hale Thompson needs now for his automobile is one motor, four tires, a top, a radio, one windshield, a horn and some seats. The machine, stolen October 6, was recovered by police last night. All of the parts listed were missing.

LENORE ULRIC QUITS HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Lenore Ulric, emotional actress, and her husband, Sidney Blackmer, stage and screen player, have separated. The actress, last night in confirming the report that her lawyers were drawing up a separation agreement, said:

"Love cannot compete against a 3,000-mile separation."

Blackmer is in Hollywood.

Miss Ulric denied that a divorce would follow, or that she would ever marry again. She said:

"I married because I thought it would be possible to make a success of it. But love doesn't thrive among show people when they are forced by their careers to be separated by many miles."

Miss Ulric is appearing in a current Broadway production.

Film Actress Keeps Cash as Ransom Plot Is Foiled

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The long, sinister tentacles of an underworld kidnaping ring reached out to untie the Hollywood purse strings of Lillian Roth, screen star and "blues singer."

This was revealed today when investigators learned that Herman Rutstein, Dorchester businessman who was kidnaped and held captive on demand of $40,000 ransom for six days, and his brother, living in Newton, are cousins of the film actress, who started her stage career at the age of 6 years.

Investigators further learned that demands were to be made upon Miss Roth in the event the negotiations with the Rutstein family failed. The rescue of Rutstein and the arrest of his alleged abductors in a raid Sunday on a Nantasket Beach cottage, thwarted the plans of the organized gang.

Five other men and two women were being sought as members of the kidnaping ring, which police and federal agents believe may account for more than 25 kidnapings in New England alone.

Federal men were working on the case under a new postal law, passed as a result of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, which makes mailed ransom demands a heavily penalized offense.

District Attorney William J. Foley announced that a special session of the grand jury would be convened to act on the three already captured.

Plan Roller Rink In Market House

Permission to remodel the second floor of the Diamond Market House for roller skating has been granted by the Council's Finance Committee. A number of elevator shafts will be changed or removed.

WHITE ORDERS STOCK PROBE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—A campaign speech charge by Lieut. Gov. William G. Pickrel last night that "careless handling of millions of dollars of Ohio investors' money" led to collapse of the Continental Shares, Inc., today resulted in an announcement by Gov. George White that he would direct the Attorney General to investigate.

In a statement, the Governor said:

"If stock transactions paralleling methods revealed in the Insull collapse have cost Ohio investors millions of dollars, punishment must be invoked."

Pickrel, speaking in behalf of Gov. White, said the record of David S. Ingalls, Republican nominee for governor, as a director in Continental Shares, a $114,000,000 corporation, "proves his unfitness for public office."

Continental Shares, a $156,000,000 investment concern, was founded in 1926 by Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier. Its holdings include large public utility, steel and rubber interests.

Court Orders Bell Here for Sentence

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today directed a writ of habeas corpus be served on the superintendent of the United States Industrial Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., to bring Tony Bell, of Uniontown, into court here for sentence on October 28. He was convicted on charges of impersonating federal prohibition agents and conspiracy.

Bell is now serving a three-year sentence in Chillicothe for similar offenses.

He achieved notoriety during the trial for the murder of Jack Donahue, of which he was acquitted.

DEMPSEY RIDES TO GLORY AS RODEO STAR

Cheers of N. Y. Crowd Greet Ex-Champion In Cowboy Role

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Jack Dempsey, the renowned nose buster, has revealed himself as a bronco buster.

Wearing a 10-gallon hat and a dashing bandanna, Jack gave 15,000 rodeo fans at Madison Square Garden an unexpected treat last night when he rode in the opening parade, along with the cowboys and cowgirls of the wild and woolly West.

Even before his name had been announced through the huge amplifiers at the top of the Garden, the crowd had recognized their fistic idol, and the former world's champion heavyweight swept off his sombrero as he grinned at the cheering thousands.

Back in his box, Dempsey blushed modestly when congratulated on his cowboy proficiency, and said:

"Well, I kinda like this stuff. I was born on a ranch out in Colorado, you know.

"It was near the little town of Montrose, and I used to get a big kick riding at the county fairs they had there every year.

"There were a bunch of us kids who used to hang around the fairs. We thought we were pretty hot. The country is full of wild burros out there. And every Sunday afternoon we used to round up a bunch of them in the town corral and try to ride them.

"We tried to get the bucking one—and could they buck? They could!"

Dempsey revealed another hitherto unsuspected chapter of his past when he said:

"You know, I started out to be a jockey once. Worked hard at it, too.

"I used to get in the races at the same old county fairs. But then I got too heavy."

He grinned as he indicated his huge frame.

"When I began to grow up it soon was easy to see I wasn't cut out to be a jockey."

Dempsey plans to remain in New York most of the winter, where he has taken up residence at the Warwick Hotel. He is going into a vaudeville act in Long Island today.

Asked if he did any bronco busting during his recent stay in Reno, the ex-champion smiled and said:

"No, I just went through the routine performance. Got a divorce."

One more question was put to the former champion:

"Are you going to marry again?"

And again Dempsey grinned as he said:

"Well, I haven't any prospects in sight just now."

PASTOR'S WIFE HURT IN CRASH

Mrs. Vera Miller, 35, wife of the Rev. Dr. Theodore Miller, who succeeded the late Rev. Dr. C. Wallace Petty as pastor of the First Baptist Church, was severely injured early today when her automobile crashed into a tree in avoiding a collision with another machine.

She was taken to Mercy Hospital where it was stated she suffered a probable fracture of the left leg, and lacerations to her scalp and body.

The crash occurred in Wilkins avenue, near Beeler street, as Mrs. Miller was returning to her home from accompanying her husband to a railroad station. Mr. Miller, located en route, was returning to the city today.

State, Federal Aid Sum Here Exhausted

State and federal relief funds, sole support of the destitute in Allegheny County outside of the city, will be exhausted tonight.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association, it was learned, will reach the end of its allotment of $322,211 for October with the issuance of the last food order today. No lapse in relief will occur, however, because of the confidence of local leaders that state officials will make further funds available.

ROYAL WEDDING STIRS COBURG

COBURG, Germany, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—In the first royal wedding to be held in Republican Germany, Princess Sibylle of Saxe-Coburg today became the wife of Price Gustaf Adolph Oscar, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Sweden.

The simple civil ceremony was performed in a room of the ancient Coburg castle in the presence of a glittering array of nobility and townsfolk. Tonight's festivities will be gay, but only a forerunner to the ceremonies planned for tomorrow when the religious wedding service will be performed in the old St. Moritz Church.

Guard Marion Nixon From Revenge Plot

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—District Attorney Buron Fitts said today a guard has been placed about the home of Marion Nixon, film star, and Edward Hillman, Jr., her wealthy sportsman husband, because of threats they have received in connection with their recent identification of an alleged robber.

Buster B. Bevill, serving a term in Folsom Prison for forgery, was identified as the robber who held up the star on a train near Pasadena, taking jewels valued at $7,500.

Virginia Dawes Admits Breaking Engagement

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(INS.)—"Jack is a nice fellow, and we're still friends—but I do like Jimmy."

With these words, Miss Virginia Dawes, 19-year-old adopted daughter of former Vice President and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, admitted today she has broken her engagement to Ensign John Gardner Tennant, U. S. N.

The "Jimmy" in the case is James Martin, who is working his way through Northwestern University as a gasoline station attendant. Virginia, who also attends Northwestern, was seen wearing Martin's fraternity pin.

When Jimmy was informed that Virginia had confirmed reports that her engagement to Ensign Tennant was broken, he said:

"Gee! That's swell! She's my best girl—that's why I'm taking her to lead the ball with."

Carnegie Built Fortune On Depression Plunge

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—While employed as a division superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the Pittsburgh area at $2,400 yearly, Andrew Carnegie had an annual income of almost $50,000, it is revealed in Burton J. Hendrick's "The Life of Andrew Carnegie," published today.

This was in 1862, and the revelation comes from the future ironmaster's report to the federal authorities in connection with the income tax then levied for war purposes.

Carnegie had then been in the United States only 14 years. His first job was at the bobbin-wheel of a cotton mill, where his weekly wage was $1.20.

It was Carnegie's adventurous and imaginative plunge in the depression of 1873-75 that made him the multi-millionaire he eventually became, Hendrick points out. When other magnates were retrenching at every step, Carnegie was building great steel works. He saw the dawn and development of Bessemer steel and soon was the outstanding man of wealth on the western hemisphere.

Hendrick relates an amusing story of the sale to the Morgan group of the Carnegie Steel interests. The consideration was $400,000,000. A year or so later Carnegie and Morgan crossed the Atlantic on the same steamer. Carnegie told Morgan he had made a great mistake when he sold out to the latter's group. Carnegie said:

"I should have asked you $100,000,000 more than I did."

Morgan replied:

"You would have got it."

OPPOSE HOOVER, LABOR URGED BY NORRIS

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Senator George W. Norris called upon labor to oppose the re-election of President Hoover in an address last night which vigorously criticized "unrelenting administration opposition" to the Norris Anti-Injunction bill and accused the "Republican machine" of falsely claiming for the Chief Executive credit for its enactment.

The independent Republican Senator from Nebraska was making his second address in behalf of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for the presidency. Said Norris:

"If President Hoover at any time during this fight had wanted to pass this legislation so he could honestly claim credit for its enactment into law, one hint from the White House and the fight would have been ended."

CURBS COURT POWER

The Senator's address was devoted entirely to a discussion of the legislation he introduced, and its enactment. The Anti-Injunction bill, passed in the last session of Congress, curbs the power of courts in issuing injunctions in labor disputes, outlaws the "yellow dog" contract forbidding employes to join unions; and provides for a trial by jury in contempt cases not occurring in court. The Senator said:

"This act has been heralded as a new declaration of liberty for the toiling masses of the country. It has sometimes been referred to as the second emancipation proclamation.

"The most astounding thing, however, which has ever been said about this legislation appears in the Republican campaign book, just issued. This gives credit for the passage of the legislation solely to President Hoover. Among the things for which credit is given to Hoover in this campaign book is the following:

"'Approval in the face of forceful opposition of the bill outlawing the yellow dog contract and providing relief from the use of injunctions in labor disputes.'

'FAR FROM TRUTH'

"I can hardly believe that this claim has the approval of the President. It is far from the truth. It is so far from what is fair and honest in a campaign that I can hardly believe any man who has any instinct of common justice, truthfulness or honor would make the claim before the people that Herbert Hoover was the guiding genius who placed this law upon the statute books.

"It will be noted this claim in behalf of Mr. Hoover that he approved this bill in the 'face of forceful opposition' indicates in plain language that he made a victorious struggle in behalf of labor and that he did it in the face of 'forceful opposition.'

"The real truth is that the dangerous and 'forceful opposition came from the Hoover camp. It would be no more untruthful to say that the very sub-committee which framed the bill was opposed to the legislation. 'Forceful opposition' was brought to bear from the close political associates of Herbert Hoover.

FOUGHT BY HOOVER

"There would, of course, be opposition from the representatives of special interest and corporation lawyers, but if the President of the United States had been friendly, this opposition would have been of but little consequence and the bill would have become law in the same session in which the bill was reported to the committee.

"The only opposition that counted—the only opposition that was effective—was the opposition of the Hoover administration.

"If we had had the support of President Hoover, it would have been put on the statute books three years ago."

Plane Pilot Held In Fatal Boat Crash

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Charles Haney, student pilot, today was placed under $2,000 bond to await trial on October 24 on manslaughter charges resulting from the death of Walter Truett, 38, struck by Haney's seaplane.

Truett died last night from injuries suffered when he was knocked from his boat by the plane as it was taking off in the Kanawha River here. The plane was wrecked.

Shields Addresses Wilkinsburg Voters

Discussing the issues of the campaign and the personalities of the candidates, Mark Shields, political editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, yesterday addressed the Wilkinsburg League of Women Voters in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel.

Last night he spoke before the professional women's group at the College Club. October 25, Mr. Shields will speak before the students' assembly of Carnegie Institute of Technology in Carnegie Music Hall at 11:30 a. m.

Patterns 719, 704 and 717
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Here's the grandest array of adorable animals we've seen in a long time. What tiny tot wouldn't love the teddy bear or the cunning pussy, included in Pattern 719? A doggie that can bow-wow all he wants without disturbing anyone the least bit, and a soft cuddly bunny completes Pattern 704. The comical giraffe in Pattern 717 has a very, very long neck and the chubby chick boasts lots of fine plumage. Turkish toweling, some cotton, and a bit of dabbing with India ink will do the trick for these.

Each of these Transfer Patterns is 15c. (45c for all three.) Send coins or stamps (coins preferred.) Please write very plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and NUMBER of each pattern ordered.

The choice of a smart, sensible and economical fall and winter wardrobe becomes very simple with the aid of THE NEW ANNE ADAMS PATTERN CATALOG. SEES PROGRESS IN RAIL STUDY

The viewpoint of railroads on the controversial subject of truck competition, inland waterway competition and taxation was presented last night at the Purchasing Agents' Association meeting in the William Penn Hotel by R. P. Forsberg, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company. He said:

"Our American railroads do not object to any form of transportation economically justified and in the public interest, but there is no place in our economic structure for a transportation service which, unable to bear its proper share of costs, finds it necessary to rely upon a subsidy to which we, as taxpayers, must all contribute.

"I, however, have an abiding faith in the sense of fair play and sportsmanship of the American people and I believe that when they awaken to the real meaning of the present intolerable situation of the railroads that proper and just remedies will be applied. To me one of the most hopeful signs in this respect is the recent appointment of a commission composed of some of our most distinguished and outstanding businessmen, former President Coolidge acting as chairman, to make a study and report of the status of the railroads of the United States."

Community Votes To Admit Autos

ISLESBORO, Me., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—The citizens of Islesboro decided yesterday they wished to permit automobiles to invade their island community from which they had been barred by act of the State Legislature for more than 20 years.

In a special town meeting they voted 145 to 115 in favor of petitioning the Legislature to repeal the anti-auto law which has given the fashionable summer resort the distinction of being one of the few places in the world which did not welcome motorists.

HEARST BONDS TO BE RETIRED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—As evidence of its strong current financial position, Hearst Publications, Inc., which is owned in its entirety by Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., will retire on November 1, a block of $1,000,000 of 1932 serial maturities on the issue of first mortgage and collateral trust 6¼ per cent gold bonds.

In addition to the retirement of the $1,000,000 par value bonds, Hearst Publications, Inc., will also distribute on November 1 semi-annual interest payments totaling $531,250 on the outstanding issue as of that date.

Funds to meet the 1932 maturities and bond interest have been placed on deposit with the Anglo-California National Bank of San Francisco, trustee under the indenture.

Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., and affiliated companies have made an impressive showing throughout the depression and stand out as shining examples of farsighted and capable management.

As recently pointed out by Dean Carl W. Ackerman, head of the Columbia University School of Journalism, in a detailed report submitted to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of that institution, newspapers as a whole have been better managed than banks, industries and government and there have been no financial losses to large bodies of individual investors. Newspapers, Ackerman's report discloses, have been singularly free from speculation.

EXPERT LAUDS GERMAN FILMS

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(Universal.)—Warning that German movie producers are threatening the domination of Hollywood by their solution of the language problem, Louella Parsons, motion picture editor and critic, arrived yesterday on the French liner Ile de France.

Miss Parsons spent five weeks on a survey of film studios in Berlin, Budapest, Vienna, Paris and London. She was most impressed with the progress of the UFA studios in Berlin. She said:

"They are making pictures in French, English and German by simply using different casts and the same sets. After a scene is shot in German, they do it in French and English. It is a process which is cheap and doesn't take much time.

"Hollywood has been content with dubbing—that is, bringing in foreign artists to double for English-speaking players in voice only. It will have to learn Ufa's method or surrender its world markets."

Coming out of a theater in Berlin, related the critic, she and her husband, Dr. Harry W. Martin, were hissed by a mob of onlookers because they were wearing evening clothes.

Girl Gets Term For Slaying Man

Clara Thomas, Negro, 20, of 411 Weyman place, Tarentum, who admitted she had gone swimming armed with a revolver, today began serving two to 10 years in the workhouse, following her conviction of second degree murder before Visiting Judge C. M. Culver, of Bradford County.

She shot Walter Lowery, 35, of East Deer Township, in Tarentum, July 25, when he followed and attempted to embrace her.

$28,000 For Roadway Extension Approved

A $28,000 oppropriation to continue work on the Mt. Washington roadway extension from the Liberty Tunnels to South Tenth street, had been affirmed today despite negative votes of Councilman Robert Garland, Charles Anderson and P. J. McArdle.

The job is being done with city forces. The three dissenting Councilmen declared the work could have been completed long ago had contractors been employed.

FIVE MEN HELD AS BANDITS

Five alleged members of a holdup gang, rounded up by police last week, were held for court, two others were discharged and another held for further investigation today by Magistrate John J. Sweeney.

Detective George Franz read an alleged confession of the defendants which implicated them in 11 robberies, among them the holdup of Harry Heck's store, 1614 Lowrie street, Saturday.

Those held and the addresses they gave were Frank Staggert, 21, 2423 Arlington avenue; Leo Augustyniak, 21, 505 Arlington avenue; John and Mike Homer, 1 Newton street, and Mike Kranack, 304 Forward avenue. Dominic Calaprese, 24, 302 Forward avenue, and John Hopchuk, 23, 337 Four-Mile Run road, were discharged for lack of evidence. Charles Langel, 21, 917 Pine alley, was held for further investigation.

Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

A lady from Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days, but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat, too."

To take off fat—take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.

LOG CABIN SYRUP

"I ask you—fellow citizens—I ask you!"

"IS there any issue more important than economy? It's serious—I tell you! Politics is serious anyway. One of our best politicians took it so serious they called him 'Pickle face'. The only time he ever smiled was when an admiring voter tattooed the statesman's face on his arm. Then the voter got fat—and the tattooing stretched a smile on the statesman's face.

"But getting back to my issue of giving you more for your money—Orange American Gas is one gas that puts any ordinary regular gasoline back in the class of dry cleaners. Orange American Gas makes milestones look like picket fences. It's as smooth as a son-in-law's approach for a loan—and repair bills just fade out of your life. It's the regular gasoline that rates 12% better than U. S. Government motor gasoline specifications, PLUS exceptionally high anti-knock rating. Yet it sells at no extra cost!

"Try a tankful of this Orange American Gas. If it don't go ahead of everything I've said, I'll never make even an election promise again. Vote the Economy Ticket—Orange American Gas."

RECORD CLAIMS SCANNED BY COUNTY

A record number of investigations, totaling 589, and involving 6,230 properties, were made during the year ended September 8 by the Allegheny County Board of Viewers, according to Chairman W. M. McJunkin in a report today.

The board does not tabulate the total of all benefits assessed or damages awarded, but as the city set aside $1,200,000 in 1932 as a funding loan to pay damages and contractors' claims and the county provided $1,026,000 as an estimated reserve for road damage claims, the extent of the work involved is obvious.

Of the cases disposed of appeals were taken in 436 cases. Only 76 unfinished cases from September 8, 1931, to September 6, 1932, remain on the books.

In addition to holding 703 separate claims hearings, the board also had scheduled readings to permit them to make proper awards, held 528 exception hearings, and handled 502 reports.

The large amount of state highway work in the county made the work of the Board of Viewers especially heavy, it was stated.

The county pays all property damage resulting from state highway improvements. The county reserve fund does not include damages sustained by major bridge improvements, such as followed the construction of some new bridges.

The damage claims filed against the city each year because of improvements is heavy. The funding loan of $1,200,000, authorized by City Council, was only provided for recently by bond issue.

Sea Scout 'Bridge' To Be Held Saturday

Fifty-two Sea Scouts and their officers will receive advancements when the Sea Scouts of the East Boroughs Boy Scout Council holds its first Bridge of Honor Saturday night in the scout base, foot of Ann street, Oakmont. Lee Callahan, Philadelphia, regional sea scout director, will represent the national boy scout headquarters.

Sunday Donation Day At St. Rita's Home

St. Rita's Home for Infants, 70 Tannehill street, will hold its donation day Sunday. There are 140 children in the home. Some will present an entertainment for the guests.

Pick Your Frock

From This Special Group To Go with Your New Coat

$16.75

This street model in bronzy green, Patou blue, gold or gray; its scarf ends trimmed with dyed squirrel.

A bridge frock, with gold embroidery on black or navy combined with Patou blue. And with silver embroidery on gray combined with Patou blue.

This model is especially effective in taupe gray, the top in vivid Patou blue, and the sleeves embroidered in rubytone seed beads and silver . . . Also in other combinations.

Looking for an inexpensive under-coat frock? Then you are just in time, for here is an event that has been planned to give women the later mid-autumn fashions and colors in that very sort of dress.

The dresses range from simple street models, to those with metal embroidery running up and down the sleeves to distract bridge opponents. And the colors include new intense and serene shades, and combinations that give new zip to this matter of contrast.

The three models sketched give some idea of what we mean, and there are three others of the same fine, semi-rough crepes, at this special price.

Wool Scarfs

$2.00

They call themselves scarfs . . . but the new woolens, the new twists and turns they take, make them more a part of your costume than merely something to keep your neck warm (although they do that to perfection). Knitted scarfs with spreading ends of transparent velvet—demure cravats of wool lace—imported knits, wool challis, etc.

A Deal with the American Woolen Company Provides an Unmatchable Boys' Overcoat Sale

3 to 10 Years $6.95

11 to 14 Years $8.95

15 to 20 Years $11.95

We made up a committee of five of the country's leading boys' clothing buyers, and together approached the American Woolen Company—the largest manufacturers of woolens in the world—with a proposition to buy their short lengths of fine overcoat materials. They were more than willing . . . since we were asking for lengths for which they had no use . . . pieces too short for men's overcoats, but just right for boys'! Many fabrics represent values up to four and five times what we paid for them! We cleaned up the entire lot at a price that has never been matched for such qualities.

The rest was easy. The job of making the coats went to one of our best makers of boys' clothing. With our large, combined order, we were not only able to command concessions in the making, but get the refinements of tailoring and finish found in better grade garments. The result . . . boys' overcoat values the like of which you've never seen before!

Fabrics—fleeces, diagonals, tweeds, llama fabrics,

ROOSEVELT, FORD -:- Olsen, Calloway, Lopez Music -:- ON AIR TONIGHT

Democratic Nominee's Talk At Forbes Field Rally Broadcast on WCAE

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking from Pittsburgh, and Henry Ford, appearing in support of President Hoover's candidacy, are scheduled to be heard over coast-to-coast NBC networks including WCAE tonight.

Gov. Roosevelt's address, delivered before a mass meeting at Forbes Field, is scheduled to go on the air from 9:30 to 10 o'clock. One of three major campaign speeches to be broadcast within a week, Gov. Roosevelt's remarks are expected to deal with the Democratic stand on the bonus question. The broadcast is heard under the auspices of the Democratic National Committee. His next radio address, broadcast from St. Louis, is listed for Friday night, followed by another from Baltimore next Tuesday night.

Mr. Ford

Mr. Ford, making one of his rare appearances before the microphone, is scheduled to speak at 8:30 p. m. for 15 minutes under the auspices of the Republican Radio League. The broadcast originates at the industrialist's home in Dearborn, where an NBC microphone has been installed especially for the occasion.

Immediately preceding Ford on tonight's radio schedule, Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, speaks under the auspices of the Republican National Committee over KDKA from 8 to 8:30.

William E. Benswanger, of the advisory board of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society, speaks over WJAS tonight at 6:30 in behalf of the organization's membership campaign now under way. Mr. Benswanger, a patron of music for 20 years, is a past president of the Musicians' Club of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Chamber Music Society. At the present time, in addition to his activities in the baseball world, he is the Pittsburgh correspondent for Musical America.

Program Pointers

Johnny Hamp, opening the new "Chatterbox" night club at the William Penn Hotel tonight, makes his bow to the KDKA audience with a half-hour dance presentation at 11:30 p. m. In Pittsburgh for a limited time, Hamp and his orchestra will be heard twice daily over KDKA, replacing Lloyd Huntley and his Isle o' Blues Orchestra. The opening tonight, in addition to the dance rhythms, includes a floor show featuring Jaresco and Lydia, dance team, in their first Pittsburgh appearance; Genevieve Tigh, soloist with Ben Bernie, and the Reynolds Sisters, dancing stars of "Crazy Quilt."

Mr. Hamp

Ward Wilson takes KDKA listeners for a mythical walk along Broadway, injecting his versatile impersonations, tonight at 7:15.

An all-orchestral concert of varied selections ranging from popular and folk songs to classical compositions is presented by Josef Pasternack and his Melody Moments orchestra on KDKA at 6:30.

Two of the most famous excerpts from twentieth century operettas, "Vilia," from "The Merry Widow," and "When You're Away," from Victor Herbert's "The Only Girl," are Virginia Rea's featured solos on WCAE at 9 p. m. The Revelers offer their version of the new "All-American Girl" and "Lawd, You Made the Night Too Long."

The life of St. Francis of Assissi is dramatized during the "Sheer Romance" presentation over an NBC-WJZ network from the studios of KDKA at 6:30. Ancient a capella chants by a choir from St. Paul's Cathedral under the direction of the Rev. Carlo Rossini are musical highlights of the program.

Ruth Etting sings "Maybe, Who Knows" and "Night When Love Was Born," and Nat Shilkret introduces a new number, "Please," from the film, "The Big Broadcast," on WJAS at 10.

Ex-Gridiron Stars On Seals Program

Brief football talks by an all-star array of former Pitt players, all of whom have received All-America mention, and by two members of the present Panther lineup mark the Trained Seals sports revue on WCAE tonight at 6:45. A resume of the Pitt-Army game also is listed on the bill. Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is master of ceremonies.

Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, discusses the latest political developments during his weekly talk from the studios of WCAE tonight at 6.

A special program for the children is presented under the direction of Jane A. White, assistant curator of education at Carnegie Museum, on WCAE today from 5 to 5:30.

The harmonizing Lawson Sisters and Sheetiron McGinty are featured with an orchestra directed by David Levin and Pat Haley, master of ceremonies, during the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air at 11 p. m.

Speaking from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, flashes the latest news to WCAE listeners at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:20 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

McNamee Evens Score With Wynn

RADIO GOSSIP

Graham McNamee has evened scores with Ed Wynn . . . Remember? Several weeks ago Graham's tongue slipped and he pronounced the word "gasoloon" on Wynn's Fire Chief program, and ever since he's been the target for innumerable digs from Ed Wynn . . . Sooooooo . . . The other night Wynn's lisp went wrong and he said "grassoline." Now the comedian is ready to let the whole matter drop—but Hack Wilson gets into the whole business with the comment that Wynn is probably trying to "plug the client's product mow and mow" . . . and so it goes.

Mr. McNamee

Warren Colston portrays Calvin Coolidge in the "March of Time" dramatizations . . . Bobby Brown, director of the "Myrt and Marge" shows is back at the studios following a nervous breakdown and a seven-weeks' rest . . . Harry Frankel, who heard Ward Wilson imitate him as the Old Singin' Master, has decided to record one of his broadcasts and see how they really sound . . . Rumor has it that Fannie Hurst may join the Home Circle celebrities on the air soon . . .

More than 794,000 copies of those state tributes written by Bruce Barton for the "Parade of States" programs have been sent out in response to requests since the program went on the air last October.

George Rector, the famous restaurateur, once studied to be a lawyer . . . Before Harry Horlick was 15 years old, he made a concert tour of Russia as a child violinist . . . Cliff Soubier collects crystals . . . Art Jarrett's mother was May Powers, an actress well known to playgoers a generation ago . . . Harriet Cruise, the "Parade of Melodies" soprano, knows her contract bridge . . . She holds several trophies for her prowess at the game . . . Freddie Martin and his orchestra have moved into the Post Lodge on the Boston Post road for the winter . . .

Billy Weixel's playing at the Villa Royale this week . . . Stuart Buchanan, who plays the title role in "The Story of Omar Khayyam" on WJAS, had a prominart part in that film, "70,000 Witnesses" . . . and Lindsay MacHarrie, "Hassan" in the series, was seen with Ruth Chatterton in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" and the recent picture, "The Phanton President."

One of Patti Pickens' fans recently sent her a school of variicolored goldfish in a bowl with reflecting sides.

It Is a Girl's Own Personal Affair If She Smokes

Is it simply terrible for gals to smoke; have girls just as much right as the big boys to "enjoy their weed?"

C. F. M. is all het up on the subject. So het up, in fact, that when he went to the neighborhood theater the other night he didn't see a speck of the show. Because he was so busy watching the femmes around him, to see how much and how often they lit up.

According to him, they lit up plenty. So here he is busting into this department with blood in his eye, to tell us all about it and ask what this world is coming to.

Are you for him, or agin' him?

"My dear Miss Martin:—

"May I take up some of your time with something I have on my mind?

"Last night my sweetheart and I went to a little neighborhood theater to enjoy a show. We sat in a loge. The seating capacity of this loge is 14. There were 12 women, young, middle-aged and old and two men in it. I was one of the men.

"The over-indulgence in cigaret smoking on the part of these women was something terrible.

"There were 11 of the women who smoked. My lady doesn't indulge. I tried to determine whether I was in a hop joint or a theater. It got my goat. They all smoked at about five minute intervals.

"In fact, I devoted most of my time to watching them, to see just what they did do.

THINKS IT'S OUTRAGEOUS

"But here is the kick. This morning my sister was horrified when she read an article in the paper about a baby eating 17 cigarets. She thought it was dreadful.

"But I told her not to be alarmed; that it was perfectly all right; that the baby in all probability acquired its excellent (?.?.?)taste from its mother.

"What do you think of all this smoking by women, anyway? I think it is outrageous.

"I'd like to hear from some of the rest of the gang, about what they think of it.

"C. F. M."

So you couldn't enjoy the show because you were so busy checking up on the smoke factory? How sad! But let me ask you one, sonny. Did you count up on the other gent, too, to see how much he smoked? Or would you have been disturbed at all if the 11 femmes who smoked had been men?

PERSONAL AFFAIR

I'll gamble you wouldn't. You probably would have thought it was their business, and paid no attention to them—just as many a woman who doesn't like smoke has learned to pay no attention to men when they make the air around her so thick she can't breathe. And don't kid yourself, big boy! That happens, plenty of times.

Smoking is just like eating chocolate or spaghetti. It's mighty bad for you if you overdo it, whether you're a man or a woman. But whether you're a man or a woman, doing it or not doing it is your own personal affair.

That's my answer to C. F. M. What's yours?

Do you think all femmes who smoke should be shot at sunrise?

Or do you think they have as good a right to smoke as the boys have?

By FAY KING

For 48 hours a faithful dog, enduring pain, hunger and thirst, in vain tried to attract the help of motorists who sped by on the fine road.

At last a couple came along who saw, understood and investigated. They found a wrecked car below, with the master and another dog—now dead.

A little poodle pranced into a grocery store. Being cute, its antics seemed playful. But the grocer understood them for what they were—great distress. He sent a boy with the dog, who found the dog's aged mistress hurt and in need of help.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

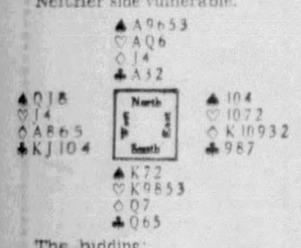
Psychic Bidding

Psychic bidding in ordinary Bridge is a rather weird and wonderful thing, but in match play it approaches the status of the supernatural. Results are scored through this method of bidding which often seem unbelievable to the other participants, and while probably a great percentage of these bids fail miserably, there are many occasions when top scores are made.

The following hand, which was played in the recent Individual Masters' Tournament, resulted in an absolute top for the North and South team, due only to one rather astonishing bid which was inserted by North.

North—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1 ♠	Pass
2 ♡ (1)	Pass	3 ♣ (2)	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠ (3)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—It is a question here whether two hearts or two spades should be bid. Two hearts is chosen because South knows that his partner likes all possible suits shown.

2—This is a bid which defies explaining. North deliberately refuses to show support for the hearts, and instead of this bids a three-card suit headed by the Ace. The object could not have been the usual one of stopping a lead, as it would seem that the diamond lead was the logical one to stop. However, it is impossible to criticize this bid as it certainly worked havoc in the ranks of the enemy.

3—Again North refuses to show support for partner's suit. Instead of this he bids for game in his own suit, knowing that the support he will receive will not be tremendous. Actually he receives the maximum he has a right to expect.

The play developed in quite a natural way from the standpoint of East. His diamond Opening was taken by his partner's Ace and the suit returned. Confronted with the choice of a third lead, East saw no necessity for hesitating, and immediately led a heart. This, of course, enabled the Declarer to take three rounds of hearts and eventually discard two losing clubs on the long hearts in Dummy. East was rather disgusted at the conclusion of the hand, since it is quite evident that without the club bid his normal shift, after taking the second diamond, was to clubs, in which case the contract could not possibly have been made. He was even more disgusted later when he discovered that only at his table had four spades been made. At the majority of tables the hand was played at four hearts and was defeated 1 trick, due to the club lead through South.

As I have said before, the reason for the three-club bid is not exactly evident, but the result it gained was certainly all that could be desired.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION

East, Dealer, bids one club, which South overcalls with one spade. What should West bid, holding between 1½ and 2 honor-tricks, no Raise and no biddable suit?

Answer: Holding 1½ to 2 honor-tricks over an intervening bid, without a Raise for your partner's suit or a biddable suit of your own, one notrump should be bid with a stopper in the opponent's suit.

Without this stopper, a pass is the best procedure, with the intention of entering the bidding later if the partner rebids.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Blame Your Personalities on Your Endocrine Glands

When the newspapers printed the story of the 6-year-old boy who was more than six feet tall and had to wear a size 25 shoe, nation-wide interest was aroused. Though not common, such freaks of nature are occasionally met everywhere in the world. They are caused by an abnormality in the so-called "ductless glands."

Dr. Copeland

Certain glands in the body make up what is known to scientists as the "endocrine system," and the activity of these glands determines why one person is short and another tall, one fat and another lean. A recent statement issued by the United States Public Health Service sets forth the claim that these organs are the "glands of personality," that they influence intelligence, complexion, emotions and other personal qualities.

Some of the body glands have ducts and others have none. The salivary glands and kidneys are examples of glands with ducts. The endocrine, or ductless, glands have no ducts or external passageways, but discharge their secretions directly into the blood. For this reason they are often referred to as "glands of internal secretion."

Every ductless gland has its own work to do, and each secretes a different substance—a sort of chemical that, when carried by the blood stream, stimulates certain organs to activity.

The substance secreted by the thyroid gland, called "thyroxin," differs from the secretion of all the other ductless glands and is concerned with the physical and mental development of the body. Other important ductless glands are the "parathyroids," the "suprarenals," the "pituitaries," the "thymus," the "pineal" and certain parts of the pancreas.

You are all familiar with the thyroid gland located in the front part of the neck. Enlargement of this gland is known as "goiter," and the gland is intimately connected with physical and mental growth. Of course it operates in close association with the entire chain of endocrine glands.

There is a great deal that remains unsolved about the thyroid gland and its function, but it is known that when there is a deficiency in the work of this gland in infancy a disease known as "cretinism" occurs, while a similar deficiency in adult life is known as "myxedema."

The parathyroid glands, from two to four in number, are located behind the thyroid gland, and their chief purpose appears to be to regulate the amount of lime in the blood and tissues. When they are injured, a disturbing disease known as "tetany" occurs.

The pituitary gland is concerned with growth and height. Its disturbance results in giantism, obesity and other abnormalities.

The adrenal glands have to do with the maintenance of muscle tone and blood pressure. They are said to be the organs of "courage or fear," and "fight or flight."

It is only after many years of patient and careful research that some of the secrets of the endocrine glands have been discovered, but enough is known to prove that these glands are of great significance in maintaining health and happiness. It is hoped that within the very near future additional information will be acquired for the benefit of mankind.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Thank You Notes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I was recently married in Reno, and after the ceremony was over, the minister who married us presented me with a package saying that it was a small gift from himself and his wife. Both the minister and his wife are very good friends of my husband's parents, and I had previously met the minister's wife, but I do not know either of them very well. Should I address my note of thanks to Mrs. C alone, or to both of them? If the former is correct, should I thank the Rev. C also in my letter?

2—My husband and I spent a week-end at a certain resort, intending to stay with his sister, but we found that she was not at home. We went to a hotel, and the man who owned the hotel happened to be a former classmate of my husband's at college. He and his wife invited us to dine with them at the hotel that evening, which we did. The next day when my husband went to pay the bill he was told there was no bill. Of course, before leaving we both thanked the couple for their hospitality, but I am wondering if it is necessary for me to write a note also, or were our verbal thanks sufficient? If a note is necessary, to whom should I address it, and how should it be worded? We do not want to be too effusive.

K. K.

Apparently you and your husband are such delightful people that friends enjoy doing charming things for you, and so it is especially important that you hold onto the gracious habit of writing notes of appreciation for these kind gestures. Few things that we can do give more pleasure to our friends, or bind them more closely to us. Especially if we write such notes at once, so that we capture the first glow of the kind thought or deed.

1.—And this wedding gift of the minister and his wife was such an especially charming and thoughtful gift that, yes, you should write a note of appreciation, as soon as ever you can, addressing it to the wife of the clergyman. In your note you thank both of them, warmly and enthusiastically, for their kindness, telling them how touched you were by their plan for your happiness, thanking them for their thought, and then chatting informally about the gift itself.

2.—Not only is it "necessary" that you write a note of thanks for this exceptional generosity, but it is imperative that you do so. Verbal thanks for such a gesture are not enough, for under the circumstances, it would seem too casual.

Don't, I pray you, be held back by such worries and fears that your note will be "too effusive." One thing that is the trouble with the thank-you notes of most people is the fact that they are not articulate enough. In life, it isn't usually that we thank too much; it is that we don't thank enough. Let your sense of gratitude, of appreciation, bloom luxuriantly; give it the sunshine and care of words, glowing words. And, as Theodore Roosevelt used to say, "Make your words work." To my mind, effusiveness isn't such an unattractive quality as niggardliness is.

So let your words come forth from the heart, dear lady, and let such gloriously kind people know that you appreciate, fully and deeply, their generosity, their kindness.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Mauve powder and blue-pink rouge form a charming make-up combination for the fair-skined woman whose hair has whitened into a silvered crest. Green powder can be worn by blondes, but only at night; artificial light gives it an interesting luster and, strange to say, a delicate coral lip tint isn't at all bad with it.

Fatigue isn't always the result of overwork; it is often due to laziness. Lungs suffering from lack of fresh air, muscles crying out for exercise, digestion sluggish, and you're all pepped out. Women who live dull lives, who have no enthusiasms, who stick in the house day and night, are always tired. Give them change of scene and wholesome stimulation and they come to life.

Fingernail biting isn't going on any more. Years ago it was a common habit. The secret of suppressing the nibbling impulse is the weekly manicure, freedom from hangnails. To avoid these painful shags and shreds, apply olive oil every night to the cuticle, or rub in some of the cold cream that remains on the hands after giving the complexion its customary basting.

The finger wave hasn't put the marcel out of business, not yet. Many women prefer it because it takes less time than that tiresome drying with hot air. Operators are more skillful, waves wider and looser, more natural in appearance.

Very bad habit, standing with the weight of the body on one foot, one hip and one shoulder lifted. It is a strain on the spinal column, and that's bad because upon the natural position of the spinal column depend gracefulness and anatomical perfection. A simple rule of posture is to keep high that spot which is located between the breasts.

how to DAMP-SET your wave

by BEATRICE MABIE

OFFICIAL HAIRDRESSER

UNITED ARTISTS STUDIOS

When I recently discovered damp-setting, the amazing way to set any wave in two minutes, Hollywood thought my secret too good to be true. Now the same stars say it is too good to keep, and damp-set waves are seen on every movie lot!

Damp-setting saves many hours in beauty parlors. Holds even the lightest finger wave for weeks. Keeps hair fastidiously clean, with all the lustre that follows a fresh shampoo! And it's so easy to do!

All you need is a tuft of cotton or tiny sponge for a "pat" and about an ounce of Danderine. (If you have no Danderine at home, any druggist has it for only 35c a bottle.) Then, just pat the Danderine on your hair between the waves. Don't rub, and never have the pat really wet.

That's all you do! But do it weekly and damp-setting will always keep a ripple in your hair. And never any grease, for Danderine's solvent action lifts it all off—giving your hair a glorious new sheen you never believed possible!

JUST THREE STEPS IN DAMP-SETTING: (1) Comb your hair as you usually wear it. (2) Pat on Danderine between the waves. Do not rub or have the pat too wet. (3) Pat backward where the waves go back; forward where they swirl toward cheeks and forehead. In two minutes your wave is rewed; your hair is beautiful, lustrous, clean!

FAT GIRLS PLAY ALONE

There's no question about it, the slender girls, those with slim figures, are the popular ones. Fat girls are out of the picture.

But why be fat? There's no good reason for it now. Not when you can lose excess fat safely, surely and pleasantly.

A famous laboratory, working with specialists in weight reduction, has perfected a system which makes fat disappear in a few short weeks.

It is called the Harvin System and may be obtained at a Dow Drug Store. Simply ask for a package of Harvin Salts. Take half a teaspoonful of them in a glass of water every morning and follow the Harvin Plan of Eating. Then watch fat melt away.

Harvin Salts hasten slenderness by stimulating sluggish glands—the cause of 80% of overweight. They also help by ridding your intestinal tract of waste and impurities, and by correcting excessive acidity.

Harvin Salts are as pleasant to take as an after-dinner mint and the Harvin Plan of Eating allows you to have the foods you enjoy most. Even sweets are not denied. Yet your weight is under scientific control at all times.

Start this pleasant way to a slender figure today. Ask at all for a package of Harvin Salts. Only 59c for a six weeks' treatment.

Hit that COLD a Knock-Out Blow!

Don't Merely Tap It!

Many cold remedies merely tap a cold. They don't "put it out for keeps." That's why colds keep coming back and why they often develop into something serious. A cold should be knocked out "cold" and not merely played with.

A Cold Calls for a COLD Remedy!

A cold (or grippe) calls for a COLD remedy and nothing less. A preparation that's good for half a dozen things besides colds simply can't be as efficacious a cold remedy as you want. Many popular preparations taken for colds are really worse than taking nothing at all because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

A cold calls for internal treatment because a cold is an internal infection. Local or external applications at best are only temporary relief. They don't reach the seat of the trouble and they don't prevent the infection spreading within the system.

Every requirement of a cold remedy is met in Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It is distinctly a cold remedy. It is internal medication and it does the several things necessary to kill a cold. First, it opens the bowels, gently but effectively—the first step necessary in relieving a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it tones the entire system, which is the final touch in expelling a cold and which also fortifies against further attack.

Thus, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is quick relief—thorough relief—complete relief. Anything less is only temporizing with the cold and inviting serious complications.

The use of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine imposes no penalties. It is non-narcotic and absolutely safe to take. It produces no bad after-effects—does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim. It acts swiftly, effectively, but harmlessly. It is, and has been for years, the standard cold remedy in practically every civilized country on the globe.

Make it YOUR Safeguard!

At the first sign of a cold, turn to Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. A few of the tablets taken in time will usually expel a cold overnight and thus avoid the danger of the infection settling in your system. Every drug store in America sells Grove's Bromo Quinine in handy, pocket-size boxes, cellophane-wrapped.

You Can't Use Fast-Working Soaps for Colored Things

BUT they hadn't tried the New Oxydol then!

• Now there's a soap that soaks out dirt double quick and still is kind to hands, safe for colors and dainty things.

It's called Oxydol. Turn the hot water in your washtub, sprinkle in some Oxydol—then you'll know why this soap can do so much and still be safe. Quick as a flash, every particle of Oxydol has dissolved into thick, long-lasting suds—50% more suds.

Those extra suds are the secret of easy washing, of cleaner, whiter clothes. Weak, watery suds that fizzle away are worse than wasteful—they let the dirt fall back on the clothes so you have to rub it out. But Oxydol's richer, thicker suds soak it out and keep it out so clothes are gleaming clean and fresh.

Use Oxydol in your washing machine. Use it for dishes. It won't ball up or leave a scum. And those richer, livelier suds cut grease like lightning—then rinse off quick so dishes are sparkling clean. Remember, too, that Oxydol makes thick, clean smelling suds in any water, and all water turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or dishes.

Ask your grocer today for one of the big bull's-eye packages that will save you so much time and money and work. You'll bless the day you learned its name.

DR. KOENIG DIES IN EDGEWOOD

Dr. Adolph Koenig, 77, died yesterday at his home, 118 West Swissvale avenue, Edgewood. He was born in Switzerland and was brought to the United States when an infant. He attended Tarentum Academy, University of Louisiana and Bellevue Hospital Medical School, now the New York University.

He had practiced medicine in Pittsburgh since 1880, serving as resident physician at West Penn and Allegheny General hospitals, and Roselia Foundling Asylum and Maternity Hospital.

Dr. Koenig was on the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh as professor of materia medica and botany from 1885 to 1903, and physiology from 1903 to 1911. He was editor and publisher of the Pittsburgh Medical Review and the Pennsylvania Medical Journal, and had been connected with the State Department of Health.

He was a member of the Western Pennsylvania Botany Society, president of the Allegheny County Medical Society in 1897, and the Medical Society of Pennsylvania in 1905.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon.

TILT OVER POLL IN HOMESTEAD

There is to be a new polling place in the Second Ward of Homestead, but the decision was not reached until after a long discussion before the commissioners' meeting yesterday.

Leo A. Riordan, chief investigator for the county, declared that a gross fraud was being perpetrated. He said that many of the names on the petition opposing the change were phantoms and some of the signers were registered in two or three districts. He declared:

"I am surprised that a lawyer would come in and try to put anything like this over on the commissioners."

Attorney P. H. McGuire, representing the petitioners took issue with Riordan, saying:

"I am here representing bona fide voters and this man is basing accusation on his suspicions.

On McGuire's assurance that a corner location, 501 Second avenue, could be obtained, the commissioners voted to make the change.

GANGSTER GUN FOUND IN RIVER

A huge magnet today picked up one of the revolvers believed to have been thrown into the Monongahela River near the north end of the South Twenty-second Street Bridge by the John Maug robber gang.

The river is being dragged by James F. Fike, of Uniontown, who recovered the revolver in the John Donohoe slaying, assisted by River Patrolman Charles Snyder.

According to an alleged confession by one of the members of the Maug gang, five revolvers were thrown into the river, one of them the gun used in shooting to death Constable Vernon (Port) Moses, of Ross Township, last May.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

There are going to be more musical events sponsored by the fashionables this winter than ever before. Society folk have always been liberal sponsors of the arts, but this winter, with so little to divert their attention, they're even more enthusiastic.

This musical event I'm talking about is even going to have society girls as ushers. The Music Guild of Pittsburgh is the organization, and its first concert this winter will be on Tuesday, November 1, in the Y. M. and W. H. A., Bellefield avenue.

That evening the Guild will present Oscar E. Del Bianco, conductor, and his string ensemble, in the first of a series of six concerts. Mr. Del Bianco, a pupil of Dvorak, has conducted the Symphony Orchestra of Naples, the Opera of the National Theater in Rome and the Royal Opera of Cairo, Egypt, just to mention a few of his achievements.

The ushers for the opening night, who are also in charge of the ticket sale, include Mrs. Malcolm Hay, Peggy Berger, Barbara McDonnell, Patrice Kelly, Margaret Reilly, Betty McCane and Betty Curtain.

Selling Tickets

The list of patrons and sponsors includes such names as Ernest Hillman, Mrs. George J. Willock, Mrs. Thomas Phillips, of Butler, who has always been a patron of music; Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller, Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger and the Oliver Kaufmans.

The president of Carnegie Institute of Technology will be a patron, and so will Mrs. James R. House, Mrs. H. Edwin Pollock, Mrs. James Bennett Kelly and Mrs. Edward McCrady.

I might add that that Music Guild is a co-operative, non-profit organization, founded to foster the best in music.

Stone Betrothal Announced at Luncheon

Announcement is being made today of the engagement of Miss Betty Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Stone, of Davis avenue, to William Gillespie Jones, son of Mrs. Rebecca Jones, of Cohasset street. The engagement is being made known at a luncheon given by Mrs. George E. Morcroft, of Dawson avenue, Bellevue, in honor of Mrs. Stone, who is leaving next week for St. Petersburg, Fla., to accept a position as contralto soloist with the First Congregational Church there. Miss Stone is an accomplished pianist and has served as her mother's accompanist during many of her recent appearances.

Music Classes Launched at Arnold

Important experiments in musical instruction, stressing the discovery and development of musical talent through class instruction have been launched at Arnold School, fashionable boys' preparatory school, in Braddock avenue, announces Mrs. Mary West Floyd, supervisor of music at the school.

Added as a course at Arnold on the theory that music appreciation is necessary for youth to enjoy the finer things of life, stress is being placed on teaching the student to know how to listen to music. It is through this instruction, Mrs. Floyd said, that the oftimes hidden talent of the student is brought to the surface.

In addition to the regular class work Mrs. Floyd has organized a Senior School Orchestra which will furnish music for a number of the school's social events. A senior school girls' club has also been organized and numbers 12 voices. In the Junior School a number of toy orchestras have been formed.

Tuesday Musical Club Honors President

Mary Jones Sherrill's reading of "The First Mrs. Fraser" was by long odds the outstanding feature of the Tuesday Musical Club president's day in Memorial Hall yesterday.

When Mrs. Sherrill reads she is always worth hearing, but when she chooses so delightful a work as the St. John Ervine play as a medium for her art, it constitutes an event. Roy Shoemaker and Virginia Brown Wilharm presented a Brahms sonata for violin and piano and Mrs. Elmer W. Flaccus, beginning her second year as president of the club, made a gracious little speech.

There were some lovely decorations on the tea table, chiefly flowers from the gardens of members. The tea cakes, too, were home products, having been made by the members of the tea committee. Pouring were Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. H. Talbot Peterson, Mrs. Edward B. Lee, Mrs. W. C. Dierks, Mrs. F. F. Rohrer, Mrs. William Scott, Mrs. D. M. Clemson and Mrs. James Stephen Martin.

Mary Ziegler Married In Church Ceremony

Today another autumn wedding, a most interesting ceremony, although small, took place here. Miss Mary R. Ziegler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Ziegler, of Neville street, is the bride, and the bridegroom is Lawrence B. Whit, of New York.

The ceremony took place yesterday in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wine-red traveling suit, trimmed in beaver, and a hat to match. The only attendant was Edwin S. Whit, of New York, brother of the bridegroom.

Mr. Whit and his bride are now in New York from where they will sail tomorrow on the Stuttgart for Europe. While abroad they will meet Mr. Whit's mother, Mrs. Bertha B. Whit, of New York.

After visiting Paris, Biarritz and the Riviera, they expect to return in late November to the States, and will live in New York.

The bride is a graduate of Wilson College, and the bridegroom of Dartmouth.

Seton Hill Ball Opens School's Fall Season

On Friday evening the autumn social season will open at Seton Hill College with the annual ball of the Alumnae Corporation. Miss Frances Little, of Ebensberg, president of the alumnae, will lead the grand march at midnight. WINTER COLOR SCHEMES FEATURE NEW REDS, BRICK AND WINE

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—When fashion news from Paris lists red at the top of fashionable new colors, it means not only the old familiar reds we are accustomed to, but dozens of other new hues as well. There is a whole new family of colors with red as a basis—reds mixed with browns, with blues, with yellows. French stylists who have been working for months on winter color schemes have managed to find enough reds to suit any type of woman.

ONE OF the most popular reds right now is one which verges on rust. It is called brick, and though somewhat similar to the rust of last season and the henna of seasons before, it has a certain grayed quality that makes it more wearable than either of these two.

BRICK IS THE color used by Lyolene for the coat-dress in today's sketch. The material is the old familiar serge, woven in a finer and softer texture than the old-fashioned serge, but having the same old reliable diagonal lines in its weave and the same old sturdiness.

THE ENTIRE dress is cut like a fitted coat—double-breasted fastening, two-seam sleeves, mannish collar and all. There is a single softening touch in the little white guimpe tucked inside the collar, made entirely of Irish crochet. The belt fastens at the back through a loop of brick-colored galalith, and there are brick-colored buttons.

ANOTHER TYPE of red—one which is so blue that it is almost purple—makes the Mirande dress at the left, of diagonal jersey. All the trimmings are in the same reddish-violet tones—the velvet bow at the neck, the velvet belt and the silk braids outlining the wide arm-eyes.

2 It polishes well and safely—with complete freedom from grit.

3 It prevents bleeding of the gums the safe way—by keeping them healthy, and avoids using dangerous astringents. Frequent bleeding no dentifrice can cure. The dentist should be consulted.

4 It is economical because it gives greatest protection. All Squibb Products are sold at the lowest price manufacturing costs permit. Their use is true economy.

5 It combats the germ acids that cause tooth-decay.

Don't be careless about your teeth. There's too much at stake. Visit your dentist at regular intervals. And brush your teeth at least twice every day with Squibb Dental Cream.

Compare the new 25-cent tube of Squibb Dental Cream to other well-known dentifrices sold at the same price. For family use, the over-size tube at 40 cents provides even greater economy. At all good drug stores.

Women's Press Club Told Of Jobless Party's Trip

Amusing and intensely interesting sidelights on the Jobless party's trip to the Pacific coast were related to members of the Women's Press Club and their guests yesterday by Clarence E. Grundish, Pittsburgh newspaperman. He told of all-night rides that were made to save hotel bills and of Father Cox's leading the singing as they rode. Speaking of Father Cox's withdrawal in favor of Roosevelt, Mr. Grundish said he believed the priest never hoped to be elected, but that he had in mind a movement that might in future years develop into a major party.

Roosevelt-Garner Club To Hold Party Friday

The Wilkinsburg Women's Roosevelt-Garner Club will have a card party in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel on Friday evening.

Man About Town

Count Alexander Hochberg, who was betrothed to Princess Eleana (until she married another), is Munichin' with Barbara Hutton, who has pursued him all over the Continent . . . Jane Wyatt, social registerookie, will have her first big part in the due soon "Chrysalis" play . . . It's a girl over at the Frank B. Jordan, Jrs. . . . The John J. Murdock, Jr.'s., anticipate an heir . . . That woman who inserted a public notice in the Trib's "Agony Column" on Oct. 7, begging for anything "but the river," still is jobless . . . She is a most competent exploiter and fairly well known . . . The Jose Iturbis (he's the keyboard magician) are melting, and Collette d'Arville is marking time patiently.

The Stage Society, a new theater group, will soon produce a play for a three-week run . . . It won't name the author or the play title—to confuse the critics, who won't know whether it's by O'Neill or Anne Nichols . . . Is this a plot? . . . Vernon Duke, the "Walk a Little Faster" composer, is courting a Park Avenue Russian baroness . . . Ruth Nichols, the aviatrix, and Clarence Chamberlin are plotting something between soup and demi-tasse daily . . . Pat Sullivan, who is running for re-elect Assemblyman, and Elinor Smith, flier, are whew!

The wife of one of the local deputy commissioners was barred from sending sex literature via the mails . . . It's a girl over at the Vincent Martinis . . . Lucy Brander, author of "Rock-a-bye," spends $25 daily feeding stray cats . . . Hollywood previews indicate that Lubitsch's "Trouble in Paradise" or Borzage's "A Farewell to Arms" will be voted the year's ace . . . The best dressed dolls in town dunk their cake in java at the LaRue, a tony rendezvous on Park Ave . . . Peggy Rich sassed a witness for her husband's divorce trial in a Broadway spot the other sunup—and almost wound up in a hospital . . . Toscanini, who has memorized his entire repertoire, tells intimates he won't study any more to preserve his failing eyesight . . . Olive Borden, once a star, is now a model.

Virginia Field, the much photo'd fashion model, and Fred Tons, wealthy Californian, are tuning the wedding chimes . . . Marion Benda, former "Follies" dolly, recently merged to a German businessman, is in a Switzerland sanitarium plenty low . . . Myrtle Cahill of the Park Ave. set and one of the better-looking chorus boys Have It Bad . . . Leeta Couldrey, Texas concert canary, and J. Fitzroy, wealthy insurance man of Dallas, will be sealed soon . . . D'Annunzio Cohen, versifier, now on a movie mag staff, has done a play exposing the inside of the film magazine racket . . . It's a son at the F. P. Press' . . . The exact double of James J. Walker is the chief engineer at 142 Vth Ave. . . . Ray Perkins wonders if you know that this is the time of the year when freshmen suffer from coeds in the head.

An orchid to the Automat for its generosity and kindness in turning over (daily) left-over rolls, pies, etc., to the B. E. F. boys camped on Riverside Drive . . . An orchid to Ann Ronell's "Willow Weep for Me" tune . . . Tamara at the Russian Kretchma, plenty lovely . . . And a salute for the major thrill at the Rodeo—the wild bull-tossing . . . If you are seated in a lower box, be careful, and by all means don't wave a kerchief or anything. They come right at you!

Mrs. David Dows, wife of the Nassau County Sheriff, is Havana-bound to identify jewels thefted from her 3 years ago . . . Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, who is very, very gravely ill . . . The Mystery League selection for November is "The Mardi Gras Murders," by Gwen Briston and Bruce Manning . . . For a loud laugh ask their intimates if they've seen the insulting interchange of letters between Arthur Somers Roche, the author, and Dick Knight, the attorney. They are classics in venom . . . Subtract 40 from all pier numbers and get the street on which it is located . . . Pier 65, frinstance, is at 25th Street . . . (Aren't I the one, tho'?)

When Hendrik Willem Van Loon had to decide to give his new "Geography" tome to either the Book of the Month Club or the Literary Guild, he tossed up two lumps of sugar—one marked "L" and one "B," and let his dog decide . . . It sniffed "B," so the Book of the Month got it . . . Mrs. Frank Vanderlip, who is arranging those "Community Sings" at the Town Hall, confesses that she seldom goes to recitals . . . She thinks nice people should sing, if even badly, instead of listening! . . . The new gag is a movie tagged "Virgins of Bali," not shown publicly, but a sexy South Seas sinema being shown around town to tourist agents . . . Add Romances: Eddie Elkins and Dagmar Nordstrom, charming Park Ave. dvorcee.

Ruth Chatterton is being guarded, sans publicity, after a serious threat . . . Ramon Novarro insists upon singing at all parties and brings along his music! . . . Jesse Lasky, who will make 8 flickers for Fox, is so bent he dwells on stiff advance fees . . . Joe Stevens, chairman of the exec committee of the Atlantic Beach Club, has approached 10 men with the plan of putting up $10,000 each to keep the club from collapse . . . Walter Thornton, who engages the gals for those mag and billboard ads, and Judith Dolan, the perfect "miniature" model, are on fire . . . The Mayfair in the Ritz opening was strained by the throwing of coins at Mary Lewis, the opera star, who obliged with a song.

It's a girl at the Len Smiths . . . Philco is plotting to sponsor a flight to Rome by Commander George R. Pond, who flew to Australia with Kingsford Smith . . . The Fred (Equipoise trainer) Hopkins are Thinking It Over Seriously . . . Hotels, apartment houses and office edifices will meet the expected higher city tax by dismissing and laying off additional employes . . . Wynne Gibson and Arthur Lubin are veddy, veddy voom-voom.

Durante Big Success in Movies

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19. Still following his nose towards Hollywood fame and fortune, Jimmy Durante draws one of his biggest assignments to date in "Pig Boats," story of American submarines and their intrepid crews.

Long scheduled by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, this picture goes into production next week with Robert Montgomery starring and Jack Conway directing. Walter Huston also is slated for the film.

Jimmy Durante

As time goes on, Jimmy Durante occupies an increasingly important place in the cinema sun. He is unexcelled as a laugh-getter and in "The Wet Parade" he showed he can do dramatic scenes as well.

What sold him more than anything else, however, is the way he took "The Phantom President" right away from George M. Cohan. That, considers Hollywood, was quite a trick.

DOUG FORGETS GUN

Rather amusing, that oversight of Douglas Fairbanks. In his rush to get away on the hunting trip, he forgot his elephant gun. They had to ship it air-mail to Vancouver, where it just made connections with a boat bound for the Orient. Doug, incidentally, is still in Shanghai. Most recent word the studio had of him was a cable requesting all the football scores.

Eric Von Stroheim has reached the last scene of his picture, only a week over schedule. With more than 20 reels of film to be cut down to nine or less, it still may be a little early for shouting. When he does finish, Von tells me he will take a vacation, maybe to Vienna. His future plans are uncertain, but Fox has bought his story, "Her Highness." It's a drama with incidental music.

Doug Fairbanks, Sr.

Wallace Ford and M. G. M. are calling it quits . . . For more than a month, Sammy Lee has been rehearsing a musical comedy sequence for "Cavalcade." It will last three minutes on the screen . . . Samuel Goldwyn will call it "Cynara" after all . . . The Marquis De La Falaise spends hours on the set these days watching Connie Bennett act . . . Walter Catlett's son, Richard, has a job as prop-boy at the R-K-O studio.

First-aid to any horror picture, Bela Lugosi has been signed to play the leader of the tribe of "beast men" in Paramount's "The Island of Lost Souls."

What with "beast men" and a "panther woman," this film almost classifies as an animal picture.

When H. G. Wells wrote it, the title was "The Isle of Dr. Moreau."

DOE DOE GREEN PLAYS THE ANGEL GABRIEL IN "GREE N PASTURES," STAGE SUCCESS WHICH IS NOW ON TOUR

Academy Shows Will Open Saturday

Beginning this week new shows coming into the Academy will open Saturday, it is announced by George Jaffe, manager. Under the old schedule new shows opened with a Sunday midnight performance. There will be no change in the usual daily matinee and evening performances and the Sunday midnight shows will be continued.

Yiddish Puppeteers Here Friday

Yosel Cutler and Zunie Maud, Yiddish cartoonists and humorists, will present their marionette show in Pittsburgh for the first time Friday evening, October 21, in the Theresa Kaufmann Auditorium. This team recently ended a tour of Germany, France and Russia. Political satire and terse humor are portrayed by their puppets.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Tickets are on sale today in the Nixon boxoffice for the Ed Wynn radio broadcast to be given next Tuesday evening from the stage of that theater, for the benefit of the Welfare Fund. Tickets to all parts of the house are priced $1, even, there being no admission tax since it is a charity affair. There will be no reserved seats, excepting boxes, and only the capacity of the house, 2,400 seats, will be sold. Boxes will be auctioned before the night of the broadcast. Heretofore Wynn has departed from the city in which he has been showing and has gone to New York to put on his radio program. The broadcast in Pittsburgh, the proceeds of which will be for the relief of unemployment, will be the first deviation from the comedian's routine in this form of entertainment. Graham McNamee, who acts as Wynn's "stooge" before the microphone, will arrive in Pittsburgh Tuesday to participate in the radio event. There will be no performance of the Wynn musical show, "The Laugh Parade," Tuesday, but there will be an extra matinee Friday afternoon.

Baker Moore, who will play a gay philanderer in "The Vinegar Tree," comedy to be presented in the Pitt next week by the Edwin Vail Players, is far from a graybeard, but his own stage experience goes back to the time when theatrical seasons were seasons. Until three years ago he put in his good 40 weeks a year, the traditional length of a season. They were spent as winters in productions in New York and on tour, with stock claiming his services spring and fall.

* * *

After years of waiting, Ed. H. Siegal, of the Irene Kaufmann Players, is going to be a coast guard soon. When he was a youngster, Ed., on graduating from high school, "ran away to sea." He shipped as deck hand on a tramp schooner, but he wanted to be a coast guard. So, at every port where the old sea-scudder stopped, he tried to join the Coast Guard service, only to be rejected because of his youth. The jolly tars who were his messmates kept discouraging him about coast guarding and advising him to shun that ol' debbil, the sea, altogether. After thinking it over for 10 months, during which he watched the rolling waves roll, he took their advice. And now he is to be a coast guard after all. He has been cast for such a role in "Out of the Sea," the Don Marquis play to be put on by the I. K. S. Players in the Theresa L. Kaufmann Theater, October 25 and 26. The author will be among those present.

Henrietta Crosman Signs With Fox

Henrietta Crosman, one of the stars of the American theater, has signed a contract with Fox Film Corporation and is due at Movietone City November 1. Her first assignment under her new contract will be announced shortly. Miss Crosman, who was born in Wheeling, W. Va., made her stage debut in the early nineties in the sensational stage drama of that time, "The White Slave." Her best known plays are "One of Our Girls," "Mistress Nell" and "Sweet Kitty Bellairs." More recently Miss Crosman was co-starred with Frederic March in the screen version of "The Royal Family."

Red Finds Favor in Hollywood

Hollywood's been seeing red lately—for Joan Crawford's first appearance in a red-top jacket, one of her purchases from Europe, has brought forth a bevy of red-clad girls, the vogue varying from red velvet hat bows to scarlet coats of military variety.

Speaking of The Stars

Both Lionel and John Barrymore were opposed to becoming actors in early youth. John once earned his living as a newspaper cartoonist, while Lionel studied in Paris and started out to be a portrait painter.

Joan Crawford ran away from home to become an actress because her father, who was a theater owner, did not want his own daughter to go on the stage.

Buster Keaton owns an encyclopedia of more than 18,000 gags and jokes that he has collected during his career as a comedian.

Clark Gable was relieved of the first extra job he ever attempted, a Pola Negri picture directed by Ernest Lubitsch, because he was suffering from a severe case of camera fright.

Uncle Names Tech Instructor in Will

Harry S. Hower, head of the physics department of Carnegie Tech, was named a beneficiary in the $500,000 estate of his uncle, Frank B. Hower, whose will was filed in Buffalo yesterday.

The entire estate was left the widow for life and on her death Hower will receive a bequest of $7,500.

Politics

Lee Tracy plays a crusading congressman in "Washington Merry-Go-Round," opening in the Warner Friday.

Violinist

Albert Spalding, violinist, is scheduled to play in Carnegie Music Hall Friday evening. He will initiate the Art Society's concert series for the season.

Five 'Starlets' Cast In RKO Picture

Five of the prettiest starlets on the RKO lot went into the cast of the RKO Radio production, "Man and Wife," in which Irene Dunne and Charles Bickford have the leading roles. They are Mary Mason, Sandra Shaw, Eleanor Post, Phyllis Fraser and Betty Furness. All the girls have been given minor parts by J. Walter Ruben, the director, as a step toward winning their acting spurs in films. Others in the cast of "Man and Wife" are Gwili Andre, Eric Linden, Charles Middleton and Brooks Benedict.

'Goldie Gets Along' Damita Movie

"Goldie Gets Along" has definitely been decided upon as the final title of Lili Damita's newest starring picture, it is announced by J. G. Bachmann, who is producing the film for RKO Radio Pictures release. Besides Miss Damita, the cast includes Charles Morton, Sam Hardy, Lita Chevret, Nat Pendleton, Arthur Hoyt, Reginald Barlow, Henry Fink, Del Henderson, Leonard Stillman and Walter Brenon.

Dinehart Borrowed For Fox Film

Allan Dinehart has been borrowed from Fox by Charles R. Rogers to play the featured heavy role in "The Devil Is Driving," final title for the production previously called "Metropolitan Garage." Other additions to the cast of this Paramount picture include George Rosener and Guinn (Big Boy) Williams. Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson have the romantic leads.

Newcomers Confused By Film Jargon

One of the most confusing experiences of the newcomer to the Hollywood film studios is listening to the language, the professional jargon, which is spoken there, and learning it. The stage has its own dialect, but it is simple compared to that of the cinema. This is because making pictures is as much an electrical and mechanical process as a dramaturgical process. The argot of the technicians is added to that of the actors and directors.

County Controller.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

Justice

PATROLMAN PAT RYAN listened to the story of Tony Vacqua. The boy explained that he hadn't hit the other kid first. On the contrary, the other boy had walloped him first. Patrolman Pat Ryan laughed. Then he knocked both boys' heads together.

"Gwan home," he said. "Forget it. I'm not going to molest either of you. Justice is justice" . . .

And that's the way Pat Ryan went through life. He was a humane cop. Perhaps he didn't stick to the letter of the law all the time. But the law is sometimes needlessly severe. So Pat Ryan often acted as judge as well as cop.

He was a big Irishman, this fellow. Big and broad. He wasn't oversmart. But he was well liked. Which is probably why he reached a lieutenancy, and went no further.

But this story is not about Patrolman Pat Ryan. It's about the kid, Tony Vacqua. I don't think you'll like him as well as Pat Ryan, but a story is a story . . .

Tony had come of a good Italian family. His mother had raised three sons and five daughters. The girls had married respectably, and two of the boys had taken medical courses. Tony was the only one left.

And he was a bad boy. When he told Pat Ryan that the other kid had hit him first, Ryan knew he was lying. But the offense was minor. And the kids were so scared that Pat had let them go free.

When he was 16, Tony was a first-class hoodlum. When he was 17, he was doing penance in Sing Sing for a poorly planned holdup. And, when he came out, he was as tough a baby as you ever met.

How he met Florence, I do not know. All I do know is that he wasn't in her class by a long shot.

Somehow, she fell for him. Fell hard. And Tony must have liked her, too, for he married her. Like many of the Latin race, Florence believed that the greatest joy of married life came in having lots of babies. So, no matter when you entered the Vacqua household, you'd always find an infant in the crib.

After the first year, she must have known that Tony wasn't the man for her. When he was peeved, Tony thought nothing of punching her until she fell in a crumpled heap on the floor. And often he whacked the babies for making too much noise.

But Florence stuck to her bargain. She didn't whine. She didn't cry. The only time she ever made a scene was on the day that Tony kicked the crib over when the newest baby cried. She threw a soup lable at him that day. And Tony almost killed her . . .

They had seven babies in all when Tony started to become a big shot. It happened almost overnight. Men began to come to the Vacqua household. They talked in whispers with Tony. And money was passed. Big money.

It's funny how sudden success changes a man. Especially a man like Tony. He had a car now. A big car. And four men accompanied him wherever he went. He seldom came home. He had a big apartment uptown. The old place was good enough for Florence and the babies. But not for Tony Vacqua.

Florence was no longer good enough for him, either. To him, she was something old and useless. A relic of the past, when luck wasn't so good.

So, on his rare visits home, Tony Vacqua would taunt her. He would tell her that he was worth plenty now. He had lots of money. And she wasn't going to get any of it, see? He didn't want her any more. There was a blonde baby uptown. A girl who appreciated a big shot like Tony Vacqua.

Florence said nothing. She just sat and listened. She felt badly, of course. No woman can listen to stories like that without feeling a sensation of jealousy and disgust.

Florence cried sometimes after she left. She felt that she had done all the hard work and someone else was getting the ease that belonged to her. One year went by. Then another. And another. And all the time Tony taunted her. Told her that he didn't care any more. That he wanted to divorce her.

She stood it as long as she could. Slowly, but surely, she knew, she was going mad. Fear and jealousy were driving her crazy. And then, one afternoon, Tony swaggered in for the final time.

Florry," he said, "I'm gonna take the kids with me. They oughta get a break outa life. I'm gonna take 'em uptown to the apartment.'"

Florence stared at him. She didn't say anything. Then she screamed. A violent hysterical scream. Tony quickly clapped a hand over her mouth. The scream died. He stepped away.

"So that's the way you feel, eh?" said Tony. "Well, let me tell you something. I got it all fixed up with a guy to testify in court that you ain't a fit mother to take care of the kids, see? You'll be lucky if you don't go to jail, when I get through with you. So wise up."

Tony was standing near the window when he said that. He stood looking down at his brightly polished car and his bodyguards. Florence opened a drawer in the parlor table. A loud report followed. Tony turned. There was a frightened look on his face. He wanted to say something. He never said it . . .

Lieut. Pat Ryan stood in the parlor. The body was still on the floor. Gently, he asked Mrs. Tony Vacqua to explain how it happened. She told him. Tony had been standing with his back to the window. A car had passed by slowly. A single shot rang out. Tony had fallen.

"Then," said Lieut. Pat Ryan, "the shot came through the window?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Tony Vacqua.

Lieut. Pat Ryan examined the window. It was closed. There were no bullet holes in it. He asked Mrs. Tony Vacqua more questions. About Tony. About his treatment of her. About his attitude toward the children. She told him everything. Even to the fact that he had come to take her babies away.

"Then," concluded Pat Ryan, "this window was open when the shot was fired." Florence was about to say something. "It was open," said Pat Ryan again.

"Yes," said Florence. "It was open."

"Death," wrote Lieut. Pat Ryan, "due to person or persons passing in car, who fired one shot through the front window, where victim was standing."

"Don't take it too hard," he said. "Remember, justice is justice."

Irene Dunn, Dix To Co-Star

Irene Dunne, who is shortly to be seen in "Thirteen Women," is to be co-starred with Richard Dix in "The Ace," which will go into production following the completion of Miss Dunne's latest starring vehicle "No Other Woman." This will be her second co-starring appearance with Dix, for it will be remembered that she rose to stardom following her immediate success at Sabra Cravat in Edna Ferber's "Cimarron."

Norman Foster Signs Five-Year Contract

Norman Foster has affixed his signature to a five-year contract with Fox Film Corporation and his first role under this new document will be the juvenile lead in "Pleasure Cruise," which Sidney Lanfield is to direct. He has also been cast for the leading juvenile role in "The Giant Swing," the screen version of W. R. Burnett's story, which is to also feature Ricardo Cortez.

Film Taboos Fallacies

There is no "boxoffice poison."

The often held opinion that certain types of pictures will not be accepted by the public is a misconception, which serves as a bugaboo to the motion picture industry.

So believes Ernst Lubitsch, one of the leading directors of the screen.

"Entertainment is the only item which affects the success or failure of a motion picture," says Lubitsch. "If a picture is excellent, it will be popular regardless of its type and setting. If it is bad, it will fail despite the same things.

"I have heard it said that the public does not want costume pictures. That is nonsense. Personally, I believe a costume picture would be a huge success right now if it were good."

Boots Mallory, Dunn Get Lead Roles

James Dunn and Boots Mallory have been selected for the leading roles in the new Fox picture, "Handle With Care," which David Butler will direct. El Brendel will also be featured with Buster Phelps and George Ernest, child actors, and Victor Jory, in important roles. Dunn and Miss Mallory have just completed "Walking Down Broadway," under the direction of Erich von Stroheim.

WASH OUT YOUR K-I-D-N-E-Y-S— SLEEP FINE

No More Getting Up Nights

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's it. Now you must not let these acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That is why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of water a day. Let them fail and you know it. Your appetite goes back on you, so does your pep, your sleep, and your nerves—your back hurts, your ankles and feet may swell up and you feel crabby and tired.

Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go those acids. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of this getting-up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want it. © (93)

WRIGLEY DOLLARS GOING TO WRIGLEY USERS

Wrigley's Real Aid To Health.

By MISS MINT

Are you dieting—trying to reduce, or are you on a particular diet, for your health's sake? Then, try chewing Wrigley's when you have that "all gone" feeling. You'd be surprised just how satisfying that piece of Wrigley's will be. It overcomes that sensation of weakness and aids in the observance of your diet rules.

Mrs. Udin Cohen, Second Street, Elizabeth, Pa., uses Wrigley's P. K.'s when the "pangs of hunger" assail her, and says it's "very refreshing," and most satisfying for anyone trying to diet.

There seems to be unanimous approval of Wrigley's for use after smoking, too—but how's this for an outstanding compliment?—W. H. Collingwood, 242 Edward Ave., says, "America's greatest mixer—Wrigley's." Thanks, Mr. Collingwood, glad you received the Wrigley Dollar—and on your birthday, too!

Many others received dollars, yesterday, among them: PHILIP K. FLAGG, 530 Clemesha Avenue; DOROTHY McGOUGH, 439 Jucunda Street; C. R. Cox Retirement to Aid Roosevelt

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

What effect will the withdrawal of Father James R. Cox as a presidential candidate, together with his appeal to his followers to vote for the Democratic candidate, Franklin D. Roosevelt, have on the balloting next month?

That question was asked many times yesterday afternoon following the withdrawal of the pastor of Old St. Patrick's. It was answered in various ways, usually dependent upon the political affiliations of the questioner—who in every case had ready his own reply.

The truth is that the withdrawal will have more effect than those who have derided the candidacy of Father Cox will admit. His mere withdrawal would have been of value to the Democratic party, even though it had carried no plea that Cox's jobless followers vote for Roosevelt.

What Father Cox did in pulling himself out was to close an outlet for the disaffected vote, all of which Roosevelt needs if he is to be elected. That was the chief contribution, and no inconsiderable one. What makes the prospects of the Democratic party bright this year is that there is an atmosphere of discontent throughout the country, an attitude of voting against the "ins," and using as an instrumentality any means which comes to hand.

Father Cox and his candidacy provided one outlet for this sentiment. Norman Thomas provides another, and the Communist group a third. Each such outlet jeopardizes Roosevelt's vote rather than Hoover, as only a few of those who vote for Thomas would have voted for Roosevelt had business conditions been better. They are the protest voters who would not have voted for Roosevelt under any conditions.

First Inclination Now To Vote for Roosevelt

But many of those who would have voted for Father Cox now will go to Roosevelt, some will go to Thomas, a few even may go to the Communist candidate, Foster. But none, practically, will go to Hoover.

Each avenue of protest which is blockaded does that much to assist Roosevelt.

In normal years, in prosperity and good times, the country usually votes Republican in national elections. States which elect local Democratic candidates, such as New York, turn to the Republican candidate for the presidency. Therefore, when the Democrat wins, as politics now stands, it is through the votes of dissatisfied citizens who seek a means of reproving the Republican leadership.

If this process is diffused it may through spreading out, lose its effectiveness in overturning an administration. It is a protest, but a negative one. There were followers of Father Cox who intended to make such a protest. They were out of patience with Mr. Hoover; they had been enthused by Father Cox, and would have voted for him, realizing as every one did, that he had no chance for election.

Now their first inclination will be to vote for Roosevelt.

This is not specious reasoning, not partisan palavering. It may be that Father Cox would not have gotten many votes, though he certainly had enjoyed good audiences in many places. But of those he would have received, few or many, the preponderance will go to the Democratic candidate rather than to become sprayed into another vote column.

And with the situation as uncertain as it is in Allegheny County and through Pennsylvania, no single vote is negligible.

Bonitz Not Responsible For Pennsylvania

Appointment of Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh brick manufacturer, as assistant to Senator Felix Hebert, Eastern Republican campaign manager, does not mean, according to local interpretations, that Mr. Bonitz has become responsible for the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania. That burden continues to rest on the shoulders of State Chairman Edward Martin and his original sponsor, W. L. Mellon.

Bonitz, who first attained note in the Malone mayoralty campaign of 1929, later contributing liberally to the Brown-Davis campaign of 1930, occupies a peculiar role in local and state politics.

Of his own authority, he can directly deliver no vote but his own. He admits it. He has not come up through the gradations of ward politics, though always interested in the game, energetic and liberal. He has not always been hand-in-glove with the Mellon management of politics, though as a big business man and the associate of other big business men he has been conservative.

He played an important part in fusing the Liberal-Democratic campaign of 1930, endeavoring to defeat Gov. Pinchot.

His influence comes through relations with smaller leaders who stand in the front line while he remains in the background. And through them he has been and can be effective. There have been times when local luminaries affected to put not too high an estimate on his position in the political picture.

But apparently Bonitz in his time in New York, where he has been for several weeks, has made a definite impression on the national leaders of the party. His connections with businessmen and financial leaders is considered important.

It would not be the first instance that a Pittsburgher had gone beyond the municipal line to get proper recognition.

SCHOOL SYSTEM GROWTH CITED BY AARON

Board President Tells Of Advances Made, Budget Savings

Growth of Pittsburgh's public school system during the past 21 years he has been a member of the administration body was outlined in a statement issued last night by Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Public Education. It was pointed out the board has spent $235,000,000 in the 21 years.

Personal relationships have played no part in influencing the conduct of the board's business, Aaron states briefly. He says:

"We have not used our official positions to reward our friends nor punish our enemies. The theory upon which the affairs of the School District have been conducted may seem cold blooded to those who have special favors to ask, but it has worked out to the lasting benefit of the public and the public's children. In private business personal relationships play an important part, but not so in public business properly conducted."

FINANCES EXPLAINED

Touching on present financial affairs of the board the statement says:

"Our budget appropriation for 1932 was cut approximately from $15,600,000 to $15,300,000 before adoption in November, 1931. Notwithstanding these appropriations, expenditures have been further reduced during the year to less than $14,500,000. The budget appropriation for the ensuing year as now prepared calls for expenditure of $14,936,290, which probably will be reduced in committee.

"Expenditures for 1933 will be less than for any year excepting perhaps one, since 1926."

Although the board is eager to make a tax reduction and has sought every possible economy toward that end, Aaron declares it will not reduce the tax millage if such a move threatens to unbalance the budget. He states:

"To disregard the facts that stare us in the face, to delib-

COUNTY SCORNS $1.50 CLAIM

C. C. Stewart today abandoned his plans to collect $1.50 which Allegheny County has owed him since 1913.

Stewart, who has a farm in Plum Township and doesn't come into the city often, didn't try to collect the fee until yesterday. And Commissioner C. C. McGovern, suspicious, led the movement which refused Stewart's request.

The $1.50 was owed Stewart for his services as a constable in Plum Township in the September primary of 1913. When he was driving his wife into the city for jury service yesterday he thought it would be a good idea to collect the fee at the same time. And he brought along the certificate which vouched for his services at the polls.

AWAIT REPLIES ON RATE CUTS

Withholding action on communications from the Peoples Natural Gas Company and the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania refusing rate cuts at present, Council today was awaiting statements from other utilities. All have been invited to join in amicable rate slash reductions in keeping with lowered living costs.

Invitations have been sent the Pittsburgh Railways Company, Equitable Gas Company, Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, West Penn Power Company and several others, President John S. Herron said.

As soon as all the answers are received City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt will be instructed to negotiate with the utilities for possible cuts.

Powerful Anoa Kills Huge Antelope But Fears Small Porcupine

Frank Buck, who brings 'em back alive, has just captured two anoas—rare pygmy water buffaloes—in the Celebes, and is bringing them back to this country. One of them is a rowdy, and has been nicknamed Little Tough Guy.

CHAPTER V.

Shortly after my return to Singapore, I turned Little Tough Guy, our rarin', tearin', midget buffalo, loose in a fenced enclosure at the compound that I used for grazing bovines, antelopes, deer and other grass-eating animals—a piece of ground covering about four acres. Then I did a job of lassoing on him. I got two separate nooses around his neck, three boys grabbing one rope and three grabbing the other. Each gang pulled its rope out straight until it was held taut at right angles with the animal's body. The two ropes, stretched out in one long line prevented him from charging at anyone and enabled the boys to walk him up and down the lot. The idea was to show him who was boss and to tame him down sufficiently so that he could be led out into this enclosure from his stall without a riot resulting each morning.

These boys succeeded only for a short time in manipulating Little Tough Guy in this fashion. Inside of fifteen minutes he was dragging all six of them all over the lot. It finally took ten boys weighing altogether about 1,200 pounds to hold his mere 200 pounds of bristling muscle.

HUNTS TROUBLE

After working with him for about two weeks we got Little Tough Guy to the point where he would submit—not too graciously—to being led out of his stall. This was not a regular box stall, but one that was merely marked off by a few stout bamboo poles.

In one of the adjoining stalls I had a full-grown Indian nilgai buck, a fine specimen of this largest of all Asiatic antelopes. Little Tough Guy decided he didn't like this animal, which, with its doe, shared the fenced-in grazing ground with him. Or perhaps my Celebes roughneck resented the fact that the antelopes were permitted to roam at will while he, Little Tough Guy, was tied with a heavy rope to a stake.

At any rate, more than once L. T. G., on being led out, would lower his head as he passed the buck and, edging over, try to get at him, much in the manner of a scrappy bantam cock looking for a fight. This got to be such a habit with L. T. G. that we had to make a practice of leading out the buck and his doe first.

My rowdy from Celebes was certainly willing to concede plenty of height and weight to the antelope, for this nilgai, in addition to towering over him—it stood five feet at the shoulder-mark—weighed about 350 pounds. Little Tough Guy looked ridiculous beside him, almost giving the impression that he could walk right under the nilgai's belly.

ATTACKS ANTELOPE

The buck and doe discreetly kept their distance. They remained as far away from where Little Tough Guy was tied as the fences of the compound permitted. This did not prevent L. T. G. from eyeing them wrathfully by the hour and snorting his disdain at regular intervals.

One day as I was working around the compound I heard one of the boys frantically calling. Waving me toward the enclosure, he breathlessly shouted that the anoa had snapped his rope and was attacking the buck.

I made for the lot on the run and arrived in time to see the pygmy buffalo, head lowered, lunge at the antelope, which prepared, like the capable fighter he is when aroused, to meet the charge face to face. The anoa, to avoid the nilgai's formidable horns, swerved to one side and, hitting the buck amidships with a tremendous butt, raised it right off the ground. These strangely contrasting combatants were at the far end of the lot. As I made for the scene (yelling to the boys to join me) Little Tough Guy poised himself for another assault.

The nilgai, in self-defense prepared to do a little charging himself. It looked like a head-on collision between a big

COACH FEE SET AT $1.55 WEEK

Definite weekly membership fee of $1.55 today had been set by leaders of the Association of Communities as preparations were going forward to establish citizens' co-operative bus transportation in opposition to the existing 25-cent fare.

The fee was announced last night at a closed meeting of business and civic leaders of the Wilkinsburg district in Penn-Lincoln Hotel. At the same time leaders reported plans were being made to call a mass meeting to organize the membership of the first unit of the association.

With unlimited transportation available to members, the cost per bus ride will be lowered in proportion to the individual's demand for service. A member using the buses twice daily for six days weekly will pay approximately 13 cents a trip. Use of the membership for 16 rides weekly will reduce the cost to less than 10 cents.

The first bus, expected to arrive next week, will be used in the membership drive to show prospective members the riding comforts to be available, it was said.

New York to Run Right at Least In Banking Hours

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Bankers are telling politicians how to run New York.

From now on we can expect good government between nine and three.

Situation is tough and the Gulf Stream ain't heating it up any. Bankers say the 1933 budget must enter the ring to defend the featherweight championship.

The budget resembles a skinned artichoke. But the bankers are still calling for less gasoline and more brakes.

By saving a little there, whittling a little here and economizing a trifle along the edges, we expect to be able to grab the doorknob without being bitten by a wolf.

We've massed the 1933 mortgage down to half a billion. That's pure unalloyed 24-karat economy. Bankers are trying to bring the Tammany tiger back alive.

Otherwise when our next mayor greets you on City Hall steps, his furniture will be out there with him.

'VICTIM' JAILED BY SLEUTH IN YOUNGSTOWN

Second Body Found by Altoona Police in Alleged Fraud

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 19.—State police today were preparing to bring Berdie C. Fetter, 50, "the victim" in the alleged insurance hoax, back from Youngstown, O., where he was arrested last night after police had arrested his wife, Myrtle, 39, of Hollidaysburg, and Ross A. Barclay, 40, an insurance agent, of Altoona.

The latter two were charged with robbing a grave of a body with intent to defraud an insurance company.

OTHERS ARRESTED

After questioning Mrs. Fetter today, police took into custody Martin Dively, 38, and James Irvine, 28, both of near Hollidaysburg.

Assistant District Attorney Robert J. Puderbaugh and Coroner C. C. Rothrock said Barclay admitted participating in the alleged conspiracy.

Police said they had discovered a second body in the alleged hoax. A body taken from a cemetery proved too badly decomposed, police said, and the plotters went to another cemetery where they obtained the body, found in the burned shack.

Fetter, the alleged victim of a blast which ripped his Scotch Run cabin last Wednesday, was arrested by Detective Lieut. William Reed in a Youngstown flop house last night, because, the detective said, he "looked funny."

WAIVES EXTRADITION

Today Fetter signed an extradition waiver and said he hoped he could talk to his lawyer before being turned over to state police.

Last Wednesday Fetter was seen around the cabin and that night the shack was blown to bits. In the ruins of the cabin firemen found a badly charred body. Fetter's auto was found near the shack.

Mrs. Fetter identified the body as that of her husband, police said. When it was being prepared for burial, J. Lyster Laughlin discovered an incision made by an undertaker who had enbalmed the body. He notified state police and, after an investigation, Mrs. Fetter and Barclay were arrested.

Two insurance policies totaling $5,000 with a double indemnity clause for accidental death, had been taken out on Fetter's life, Corp. J. J. Conwell, of the state police, said. Conwell said the body burned in the cabin had been stolen from a cemetery.

Razing of Bridge To Cost Only $1

It will cost the county only $1 to raze the old Boston Bridge, connecting Versailles Borough and Boston. The contract was awarded yesterday to J. B. Ancarana, lowest of nine bidders. Other bids ran from $2,000 to $15,341. The successful bidder will be required to post $20,000 bond.

Two boys escaped from the Pennsylvania Industrial School at Morganza early today. They are James Christ, 16, of Erie County, and Andrew Piszuk, 16, of Somerset County.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 19.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Say, you talk about a city, this Buenos Aires is as big as Chicago, as live as Paris, beautiful as Beverly Hills and as substantial as Claremore, Okla. Like all countries, the president is just in from day to day. He may be on the same plane with me going out. I have met 'em going and coming down here, so much that the traveling man you meet is not a drummer. He is an ex-president escaping to the brush somewhere. To be unemployed nowadays is terrible but it's not as bad as it is to be employed if you are working for the people.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

Urge West View Idle Get Borough Work

A special committee to investigate the alleged failure of a contractor to give work to West View unemployed on a public project was appointed at a meeting last night of Borough Council.

The committee was appointed following charges before Council this week that only two or three men from West View were employed on a $125,000 sewer project for which R. D. Thomas, Jenkins Arcade, holds the contract. Thomas, it is said agreed to employ jobless borough residents.

The committee was expected to meet with Thomas today to iron out differences.

HOOVER TO WIN, BONITZ SAYS

Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh brick manufacturer, just named assistant to Senator Felix Hebert, Eastern Republican campaign manager, returned home today with the prediction of a "safe majority" for President Hoover.

He said:

"At Eastern headquarters I found great enthusiasm over reports coming from all sections of the country, particularly since the President's Des Moines and Cleveland speeches."

Asked about his own duties as an assistant to Senator Hebert, Mr. Bonitz said:

"I have been assigned to Eastern headquarters in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York. I have not been given any specific duties, but will work for the success of the Republican party along any line that Senator Hebert may, from time to time, suggest."

TREATY RUSHED TO FOIL INSULL

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 19.—In a sudden flurry of activity, the Greek government today took steps to ratify the extradition treaty between this country and the United States, which has an important bearing on the status of Samuel Insull, indicted former utilities magnate.

The treaty awaits only the physical exchange of documents before becoming effective. When this has taken place, the United States will be in a position to ask Insull's formal extradition.

Meanwhile, Insull is standing by, literally "twiddling his thumbs." He revealed today that he has heard nothing from his legal advisors in Paris or Chicago for the last 48 hours.

SALON OPENING IN HOTEL

The Chatterbox, the second supper and dancing salon established here by Joseph Urban, will be opened tonight in the Hotel William Penn. Rivalling his celebrated Urban Room, in the hotel, the Chatterbox will have mural paintings bordered with crystal and crimson and relieved by masses of gold.

All furnishings, especially elaborate, were also designed by the Viennese-American artist. The dance floor is sunken, with indirect, iridescent illumination. The floor show, to be a feature of this winter's entertainment, will have an exotic setting of its own.

Stenographer Wins $5,000 Damage Award

A verdict of $5,000 damages was awarded Miss Evelyn Unks, 23, stenographer, of Millvale terrace, Shaler Township, by a jury in Common Pleas Court, against Frank Svoboda, of Peralto street, for injuries. On September 27, 1930, at Ninth street and Duquesne way she was hit by Svoboda's car, suffering a fractured skull, she testified.

Terribly Sick From Gas, Acid. All Ended Now

Mrs. R. M. Converse of Erie, Pa., says, "I was always tired out and troubled with a lot of gas. Every night I would be awfully sick. I began using ACIDINE and it did me much good. I surely am feeling fine now—tired feeling and gas and acid all gone. I am a changed woman."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy, starchy foods that cause trouble. ACIDINE stops burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, ends gas, headache, sleeplessness from acidity and helps digest starchy foods and meats.

Don't run chances of dangerous painful troubles from acidity. Get ACIDINE today from your druggist and note quick relief from sourness, pain and belching. You can eat, drink and smoke as you like. Maker guarantees results that satisfy you or money back.

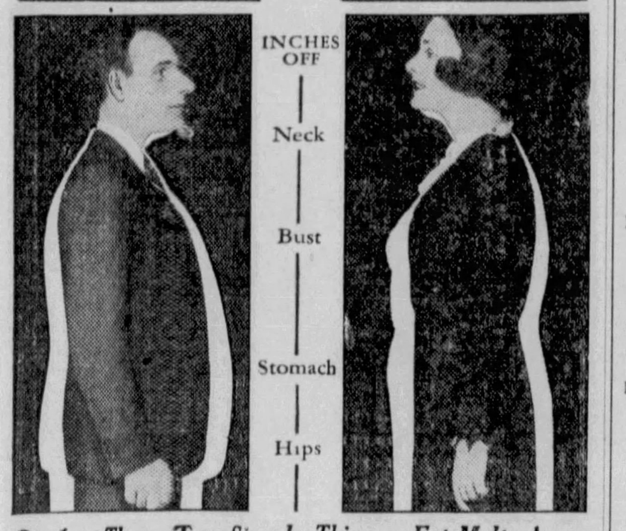
Simple to Lose a Pound of Fat a Day on a Full Stomach



Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on butter, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent, not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

PITT ENDS SHOW CLASS

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Transfer Costly to Pitt. Luck in Common Names. Pro Gridders Come High. Cubs After Frederick. Surgeon Saves Pitcher. Two Cue Titles Sought.

NAVY GAME CAUSES WEST POINT SHIFT

THE SHIFTING OF last Saturday's game with Army from the Yankee Stadium in New York City to Michie Stadium at West Point cost Pitt a pretty penny. The paid attendance was 18,000 at $4 a throw, meaning a total gate of $72,000, with Federal tax deducted. That's not to be sneezed at in these times, of course, and besides Pitt had a comfortable guarantee, but the latter sum would have been exceeded greatly by the Panthers' share on a percentage basis if the game had been played in the Metropolis, with a much larger crowd assured.

Maj. Phil Fleming

The reason why the game was moved never has been published. It was all perfectly regular, and Army's action was within the agreement. The Cadets are permitted to play only four games away from their own field during a season. When Maj. Fleming, graduate manager, signed a contract with Pitt for games in 1931 and 1932, Army was already scheduled for three appearances abroad this year—against Yale in New Haven, against Harvard in Cambridge, and against Notre Dame in New York.

...ITY OF relations with Navy being resumed was ... and that involved a fourth trip. So while the ...ied Yankee Stadium tentatively as the scene of ...l. Fleming, with the consent of W. Don Harrison, Panther athletic director, inserted a special clause.

This provided that in event of a meeting of Army and Navy being arranged for this year, the Panther game must be played at West Point in compliance with the Military Academy regulations prohibiting a fifth contest abroad by the Soldiers. It was not until the Navy ... had been clinched that the Pitt game was transferred to the Point.

THE ...ONEST THREE names in the city directory are the ... Southern California football team, now preparing for the big annual battle Saturday with Pop Warner's Stanford eleven. They are Jones, Smith and Brown. Howard Jones is head coach, and Capt. Tay Brown and Ernie Smith form a great pair of tackles.

Jones says he never had a better duo of tackles in all his coaching experience, and won't concede that even Duke Slater had an edge on either of them. Slater was the Negro star who made the second all-America team under Jones at Iowa. Smith's kicking ability gives him added value. Kick-offs—conversions—field goals—he does 'em all.

IT HAS BEEN figured out that Tim Mara, owner of the New York Giants football team in the National Professional League, pays his players more than Col. Jacob Ruppert pays the New York Yankees, the highest-salaried baseball club in the world. ... from the angle of amount paid ... game. On that basis, Red Cagle ... be Ruth beaten for earning ... Cagle gets $650 per game for playing with the Giants, whereas when it is figured that Ruth takes part in about 180 games a year, counting exhibition events, the Bambino's income per game on his $75,000 annual salary is $417.

Johnny Frederick

...T-HAND HITTERS are under a ... at Wrigley Field in Chicago, and ... bosses therefore have confined their ... order largely to swatters of the opposite type. For a long time, Charley Grimm was their only south-side swinger, but this year they added Johnny Moore and a turnover flailsman in the person of Mark Koenig.

Evidently, the Bruin chiefs intend either to change their system or remove the left-center bleachers, where a background of white shirts has aided the home club's right-hand side-arm pitchers in fooling visiting left-hand batters. For they're said to be trying to swing a special deal for a port-side clouter in the person of Johnny Frederick, Brooklyn outfielder, who made six home runs as a pinch hitter this year to double the former major league record.

LEG TROUBLE KEPT Frederick on the bench the greater part of the 1932 season, but it is expected he will be as sound next year as ever, and the Chicago club, according to reports, would like to make a deal for him.

Nothing short of a good pitcher will tempt Max Carey to let Frederick go, those on the inside declare. Max would trade in a minute for Guy Bush, but if the can't get Bush he may insist on getting Charley Root or Pat Malone.

THE SUCCESS OF George Pipgras on the mound for the Yankees this year makes Burleigh Grimes feel hopeful of regaining his old form after the operation he is to undergo during the winter for the removal of a troublesome appendix. Two years ago, Pipgras was on his way out of the majors. Under Bob Shawkey in 1930 he tried so hard to hold his job that he overdid it. He exerted himself so greatly on every pitch that he was throwing himself off balance and stumbling, finally tying up his muscles. One set was pulling against another. There was no coordination. His fast ball looked like Herb Pennock's slow one, and his curve was just a wrinkle. He was about to be dropped when he was stricken with appendicitis. That looked like the end of George's pitching days, but after his recovery Pipgras found to his surprise that he again could throw a ball without a strain. The muscles were loosened, an easy, carefree motion brought back co-ordination, and this year the fading right-hander of two years ago was up near the head of the class again with 16 games won against nine defeats.

A COLLEGE ATHLETIC captaincy may turn out to be an empty honor after an earnest star has spent his sophomore and junior years working his way to it. The fate of three young men at the University of Wisconsin offers a case in point. They are captains of sports teams no longer in existence.

These three were elected leaders of the hockey, tennis and wrestling outfits. Then Wisconsin, for the sake of economy, suddenly discontinued the three sports.

ALLIE WOLFF, former Penn State football and boxing star, has become head coach of the grid team at Textile High School in New York, and is only the second man to hold that post in the school's 12 years of football. John B. Meehan, whom Wolff succeeds, and who is not related to Chick, was head coach for 11 seasons and part of the present campaign. He resigned recently on doctor's orders. Allie served as Meehan's assistant for two years.

Augie Kieckhefer

UNDER THE CUSTOMARY divisional system, elimination play was started in the various parts of the country this week for the right to compete in the annual tournament at Chicago in December for the world professional pocket billiard championship. Four men will go right into the final tourney without being required to qualify, by reason of having won the first four places last year. They are Ralph Greenleaf, defending champion; George Kelley, Edwin Rudolph and Andrew Ponzi. A feature is the attempt of Augie Kiechefer to become the holder of two world cue championships. Already wearing the three-cushion crown, Kiechefer decided to try a comeback at the pocket game, and he will fight it out with Pasquale Natalie and others in the Chicago division eliminations. Augie has not played the pocket game since 1917, when he unsuccessfully challenged Frank Taberski for the title.

FEWER BARGAIN BILLS BENEFIT TO CLUBS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pirate officials today expressed deep satisfaction over the decision of the major leagues to return next season to the longer schedule which was abandoned this year. William Harridge, president of the American League, announced last night that the races of 1933 would start April 12 or 13 and would end October 1. The 1932 campaign ended September 25. The early closing date brought many complaints.

Pirate President William E. Benswanger was one of those who led the fight to go back to the old plan. Benswanger contends, and with much justification, that the shorter schedule brought too many doubleheaders.

TOO MANY BARGAINS

The collapse of the Pittsburgh club after it had played three consecutive doubleheaders in New York in the heat of mid-summer was partly blamed on the schedule. Had the longer draft been in effect, some of the bargain bills might have been eliminated. Speaking on the decision to change back to the later closing, Benswanger said:

"The Pittsburgh officials are all glad to know of the change. During the world series the National League magnates held a meeting at which time it was informally agreed to stand up for the longer schedule. Apparently the American League owners have concurred informally in the same action. All that remains now to be done is to get the official sanction at the joint meet, and this, of course, is a foregone conclusion.

"Manager Gibson and the rest of us connected with the Pirates were peeved over the schedule of last season. We feel our club was affected by the strain of bad jumps and too many double bills. The next playing card should bring better satisfaction all over the two major leagues."

DREYFUSS MISSED

It was recalled that both of the major wheels have been having plenty of kicks on their schedules since the late Barney Dreyfuss gave over the task of making the charts. In all the years the dates were supervised and selected by the long-time Pittsburgh owner, both leagues were satisfied.

The Pirates, owing to many Sunday jumps placed on the club, have to stand a more rigorous travel test than any of their contemporaries.

Gibson and his employers held a long conference yesterday relative to deals and other important matters. There were no new developments in the conference, Benswanger stated.

President Benswanger and Vice President Watters and Manager Gibson, of the Pittsburgh baseball club, will be special guests of the Variety Club at the weekly luncheon of the organization today.

WINDSOR BUYS LOCAL SKATER

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 19.—Cameron Proudlock, left wing on the now defunct Pittsburgh Yellow Jacket hockey team, was sold yesterday to the Windsor Bulldogs as the business of loaning and renting Pittsburgh stars got under way at the meeting of the International Hockey League here.

The London Tecumsehs put in a bid for Gordon Frazer, defense ace, but E. Whitehill, the Pittsburgh representative, did not have the authority to enter into a deal in Frazer's case.

The league moguls drafted a schedule for the 1932-33 season calling for 20 games at home and abroad for each club instead of the 24-game card in effect last season.

Braves Get Star From Coast League

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Officials of the San Francisco Seals said yesterday the Boston Nationals had drafted Arthur (Mike) Hunt, hard-hitting right-handed outfielder.

The Boston club took advantage of the new draft rule, effective this year, permitting drafting of a player after four years experience in a league of lower classification.

An Honest Fight

Two jugilists were scrapping,
Intent on wealth and fame.
The customers were napping,
The fight had grown so tame.
And presently a fan arose
And socked another on the nose.

And at this unexpected poke
A thrill ran through the crowd.
The sleeping customers awoke
And clamored loang and loud
They turned their backs upon the ring
To see a pair of strangers swing.

Two lumps walloped with a will
In crude, uncultured strife.
They lacked a boxer's poise and skill
But they were true to life
The rooters roared in keen delight—
They knew it was an honest fight.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MOST NON-POLITIC U. S. PRESIDENT—Zachary Taylor (1784-1850) became a popular favorite as a result of his brilliant victory over the Mexican general, Santa Anna, February 23, 1847. Within a month thereafter, a Whig convention in Iowa nominated him as its candidate for the presidency. He would have been the candidate and nominee of the opposition party, too, had not the Democratic leaders succeeded in stemming the tide in a last-minute frantic effort. Taylor, whose mature years were passed in the military service of his country, admitted that he never had voted in his life and that he never had allied himself with any political party. He held no views on any political topics and the Whig party which nominated him failed to issue any electional platform that year. He was elected and served from March 4, 1849, to his death in 1850. A FOREIGN NATION WITHIN THE U. S.—The Yaqui Indians have taken refuge in Arizona, fleeing from Mexican retribution for a rebellion against the government. Their capital is a little village near Tucson, Ariz., called Barrio Pascua. The Yaquis were notorious as the Bad Boys of Mexico, but, since they settled as squatters in the United States, they have been behaving in an exemplary fashion. They elect their own ruler and their tribal council for the settlement of their disputes. They speak their own language and fly their own flag. THE LIFEBOATS—The lifeboats of the "Rex" are driven by an arm-pedal arrangement in the operation of which every occupant of the boat can participate. The hand-power so developed is transmitted to a small propeller.

TOMORROW: A CHAMPION BRIDESMAID.

TECH MAY START JERRY O'TOOLE

Carnegie Tech may call upon a true son of Erin Saturday to help her stave off the rushes of the Fighting Irish when the Tartans invade South Bend for their tenth battle with Notre Dame, if experiments being conducted in the Skibo backfield this week mean anything.

Jerry O'Toole, sturdy, hard-tackling little back from Lorain, O., whose public appearances have been few so far this season, is being consistently alternated with big Joe Mihm in the Plaid alignment. Possessed of little speed and small offensive ability, O'Toole is one of the headiest defensive players on the squad, a keen diagnostician and a brilliant tackler.

With Red Jones playing as great a defensive center as Tech has seen in many seasons, and O'Toole to help him out, even the whirlwind Notre Dame running attack may strike a snag or two. Of course, Joe Mihm will also be in there much of the time, for his punting will be needed with Ray Tesser definitely out of the game.

Several other plans are being considered to bolster Carnegie's defensive strength, considerably below par as long as Co-Capt. Hooks Sample is out of the lineup. Henry Dresher, who has done duty exclusively at center this season, will be worked at both guard and center, as will Jerry Seigal, stocky basketball star.

Tony Ostrosky and Kay Burns are both being groomed to replace Tesser. Red Stewart will have to hold up all afternoon at left end under this arrangement.

STRANGLER LEWIS WINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(INS.)—Roland Kirschmaier, Californian, hailed as the latest Jewish sensation, was the newest victim of Ed (Strangler) Lewis today. Lewis flipped Kirschmaier here last night in 19 minutes and 57 seconds.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Believe it or not, but the Chicago Bears, of the National Professional League, boasting many former college stars in their lineup, have been able to do no better than to play three scoreless ties and lose, 2-0, in their league battles thus far, against the Green Bay Packers, Stapleton, Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay again, in that order . . . Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestling champion in Pennsylvania, must be getting old and soft . . . He is in favor of wrestling by rounds instead of until there is a fall, suggesting 10-minute periods with a one-minute rest between, a system in vogue in the Northwest States, British Columbia and Australia, where the idea originated . . . The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission is considering adopting this method to make the bouts more interesting.

One of the high spots of the football schedule of Geneva College appears next Saturday, when Boston University will play the Covenanters at Beaver Falls . . . It is a return engagement, the Genevans having played in Boston last year . . . One of the bruising battles of the week-end card should be the Colgate-N. Y. U. tilt in New York . . . N. Y. U. won last year's meeting, 13-0, and both teams are powerful this fall . . . Denver University is coming all the way East to play Temple University in a night game in Philadelphia, Friday . . . As a result of its great offensive battle against Harvard at Cambridge, last Saturday, Penn State has high hopes of beating Syracuse in their game at State College, Saturday, with the Orange going none too well this fall . . . It's just one tough battle after another for Yale this season . . . Next Saturday the Elis meet that rugged Army team at New Haven . . .Pop Warner's Stanford team will be out to avenge last year's 19-0 defeat when it engages Southern California at Palo Alto, Saturday.

Benny Bass, former featherweight champion, and his longtime manager, Phil Glassman, have definitely split . . . The break came after Bass recently defeated Tony Falco, a former stablemate . . . He claims he was informed Glassman thought Falco would beat him and planned to resume the management of Tony after their scrap . . . Jim Mooney Marries Tennessee Girl

SYLVA, N. C., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Jim Mooney, southpaw pitcher recently traded by the New York Giants to St. Louis, and Miss Elizabeth Wilkinson, of Erwin, Tenn., were married Saturday at Johnston City, Tenn., Mooney's relatives announced here yesterday.

The two are now on a honeymoon in Tennessee. Mooney had known Miss Wilkinson for five years. He formerly taught school in Erwin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wilkinson.

BOBCAT BACKS WORRY DUKES

Working for their last night game of the current season, Elmer Layden's Dukes are being warned to watch West Virginia Wesleyan's "B" backfield, still a great threat despite the fact that Clifford (Gyp) Battles is no longer a member. Three members of the Bobcat backfield begin their names with the letter "B." Howard Bachtel, Art Bachtel and Paul Beveridge are expected to give the Night Riders a lot of bother this Friday night.

Elmer Layden is working to perfect his newly arranged lineup to meet the Orange and Black. It might be a little far fetched to say that the Bobcats have the "Indian sign" on the Dukes, but they nevertheless have the faculty of putting up a better game against the Laydenmen than when playing other teams.

Dick Nussbaum appears to have come into his own as a right halfback. Nussbaum, former Ambridge star, is a junior. Art Strutt, fullback, has put Silvio Zaninelli into the background for a while, and if Zan does not do better work, the change will be permanent. At right tackle Joe (Tiny) Wiehl has also proved a fine addition to the lineup.

The Duquesne practice sessions have all been designed to improve the Duke running attack, making the most of the new ball-toting talent.

MRS. VARE SETS PACE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19. — (INS.) — With a 42-37—79 score, Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare today led in play in the eighth annual tourney for the Dorothy Campbell Hurd gold cup. This is a 36-hole medal play event, the second half of which will be played today. Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck, Philadelphia, was runner up with 40-42—82.

DAILEY PROVES BIG STAR FOR PANTHERS

By JESS CARVER

There are spots a whale of a sight easier to attack and attack successfully than the left end of the Pitt line and the reason is Mrs. Dailey's little boy Ted.

On every football team there are players, who shunning the spotlight, and moving along in placid serenity, fail to gain the recognition they deserve. Ted Dailey, is of that sort. He isn't very big, he has to toe an anvil to tip the beam at 165 pounds, but what there is of him is all man.

Your correspondent noticed Dailey's hands the other morning, sitting with the Panther wingman in a Pullman section en route to West Point. They are strong hands, not overly large, but well moulded. They are the mitts that are so sure and accurate at grabbing elusive ankles and flopping enemy ball-toters to earth. Ted's fast and smart and is as sure a tackler as there is on the squad. He never hits 'em higher than the knee and he seldom misses.

ENDS COME THROUGH

There was some worry among the Pitt coaches before the season opened over the end positions. The mentors were not sure how Dailey and Skladany would hold up. So far, the pair have been the outstanding performers on the line. Skladany, always a crackerjack defensive wing, has developed into a fine pass receiver. Dailey can work on a tackle with the best of them, can catch passes and can get down that field under kicks like a hobo to a free lunch.

The pair of 'em, Ted and Muggsy, figure to cause Ohio State an afternoon of trouble Saturday. Not only will they be ever-present threats on the attack, figuring in the Panther aerial game as they do, but they'll be in there messing up Buckeye plays. They gave the Army plenty of trouble last week and there is no reason to suppose they'll fall down against O. S. U.

A single change in the Pitt lineup from the one that went to bat against the Army is anticipated for Ohio State. Tiger Walton figures to be in there at right tackle, replacing the inexperienced Bobby Hoel. Walton is a powerful defensive player and teams up well with Skladany.

ATTACK CHECKED

Coach Sutherland yesterday spent some time checking all points of the Pitt attack. The aerial game was gone over, with Heller tossing 'em to Dailey, Skladany, Reider and Hogan, and when Warren grew arm-weary, Dick Matesic took up the job. The Heller-to-Reider combination did not click against the Army because the Cadet ends got away with plenty of holding. They grabbed Reider before he could get out of the line, apparently always on the blind side of the referee.

A Pittsburgher, Regis Monahan, former St. Rosalia High and Kiski lineman, may start at one of the tackles for the Bucks against the Panthers. Monoghan, of the Greenfield Monahans, stands six feet in his socks and weighs around 210 pounds.

Monahan weighed only 123 pounds as a junior in high school, but so great was his desire to play football that he built himself into his present fine physical condition and as a sophomore stands a fine chance of winning a varsity job.

The Tipoff

The Pitt-Army game belongs to the past, but so many things occurred in the titanic struggle that it will not be forgotten for some time to come. Right at present, many Pittsburghers who took in the clash are still hot and bothered over the interference ruling that set the stage for the second Cadet touchdown. The official who called the play (we'll mention no names, but it was NOT Judge Egan) might have been o. k. on the ruling, but he drew a pretty fine line.

In the first place, the decision came about two plays after Capt. Paul Reider had been warned by the official about squawking. Reider claimed he was being held by Soldier linemen as he tried to get out in the open for passes and according to other members of the Pitt caste, he was justified. The pass in question, thrown by Ken Fields to Felix Vidal, was out in the air, and the ball eventually landed out of bounds. Vidal would have had a tough time getting his mitts on it even if Lazy Weinstock, the Pitt fullback, hadn't been playing him.

Weinstock did not touch the Cadet quarterback. He was running at him, and had his back to the line of scrimmage, but he was making an honest attempt to get the ball and was not intentionally face-guarding, as the official ruled. Weinstock jumped in the air, his hands high above his head and Vidal missed the ball. In the press box, everyone saw it as just another incompleted forward, and most of the scribes had started to send just that out over the wires when the referee came out with a roar of delight as the ball was given their team on the Pitt seven-yard stripe.

One more ball game such as was played against Bates and Brown and the Yale team will be holding secret practice Saturday afternoons.

The Waynesburg-Geneva game this year ought to be, and probably will be, a honey. Games between the Covenanters and Yellow Jackets in the past have been worth the price of admission. The Jackets always give Geneva trouble, and this year, with Coach Frank Wolf apparently having a pip of a ball club, Howard Harpster Genevans will have their hands full. Waynesburg will match Geneva's track team of Crabapple, Troiana and Aultman with a setup of their own, consisting of Rab Currie, Rollanson and Donnelly.

There are few football players in the country who can stand up under hard work and punishment like way-Colin (Red) Stewart, Carnegie's terminal star, does. Red hasn't been hurt in his entire varsity career, and he seldom needs to be replaced by a sub. With Ray Tesser on the bum now, it has become necessary to take Red's sub, Kay Burns, and work him at right end, which means that Stewart faces the prospect of playing 60 minutes of football against Notre Dame this week. What a prospect!

The Dukes hope their new fullback, Howard Strgit, does just what his name implies against Wesleyan Friday night.

ANDERSON PICKS NOTRE DAME TO WIN OVER TECH

HUNK EXPECTS PANTHERS TO TOP OHIO

ANDERSON'S SELECTIONS

Purdue over Northwestern.
Indiana over Chicago.
Minnesota over Iowa.
Michigan over Illinois.
Pittsburgh over Ohio State.
Wisconsin over Coe.
Creighton over Drake.
Nebraska over Kansas.
Marquette over Boston.
Kansas State over Oklahoma Univ.
Western Reserve over Oberlin.
Notre Dame over Carnegie Tech.
Case over Hiram.

By HEARTLY W. (HUNK) ANDERSON
Notre Dame Football Coach

I'm trying my luck today with 13 guesses on Saturday's important games in the Middle West.

Hunk Anderson

Indiana meets Chicago this week in the Big Ten. I pick Indiana, even though Chicago is stronger than in the past. Coach E. C. Hayes has a fine defensive team at Indiana and he has been developing a good offense with his fine group of boys.

Another important Big Ten game brings Northwestern and Purdue together. I pick Purdue to win this game. Purdue won last year, 7 to 0, and has practically the same team, if not a better one. Northwestern has been weakened by the loss of its two great tackles, Riley and Marvil, and is not as strong as last year.

Minnesota should have little trouble with Iowa. Both have new coaches, but Bernie Bierman seems to have better material this year at Minnesota than Ossie Solem at Iowa.

PITT PICKED TO WIN

Unless Zuppke can uncover another Grange by Saturday, Michigan's great team should roll over Illinois without much trouble.

One of the week's headliners brings Ohio State and Pittsburgh together. I think Jock Sutherland has one of the greatest teams in the country at Pitt, and pick him to win by a comfortable margin, although Ohio State is very strong this year.

Wisconsin will have no trouble beating Coe. Creighton will take Drake by a close margin.

Nebraska should run over Kansas without trouble, and Marquette will nose out Boston. Case should beat Hiram.

Carnegie Tech will bring a much improved team to Notre Dame Saturday for our tenth game since 1922. It's never safe to predict this game after what Carnegie did to us in 1926 and 1928, but I'm picking Notre Dame to win by a close margin. It will be our first hard test of the season.

TARTANS PRAISED

Judge Wally Steffen had some good veterans returning from last year and also some excellent new men who have been beating last year's regulars out of their jobs. Spisak at left half is one of the best triple-threat men in the country. Stewart is one of the outstanding ends of the year so far.

Kaval is again at halfback, Sample at guard is a senior and a real star. McCurdy is back at quarterback after a year's absence and he has beaten out Bevevino. Mihm at fullback is a real comer. So we are expecting a tough game—and don't be surprised at an upset.

BROWN BEATEN BY ARIZMENDI

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Alberto (Baby) Arizmendi, Mexican featherweight, bobbed tantalizingly for 10 rounds before Newsboy Brown at the Olympic Auditorium last night to win a convincing decision. The Mexican Baby weighed 122 and his opponent a pound less.

Arizmendi won eight of the 10 rounds and had the Los Angeles battler reeling on the ropes in the third and ninth. Brown won only the sixth by a narrow margin.

Some 7,000 people, the largest crowd here in several months, cheered wildly as the lad who was only recently awarded the world featherweight championship by the California Athletic Commission defended the title effectively.

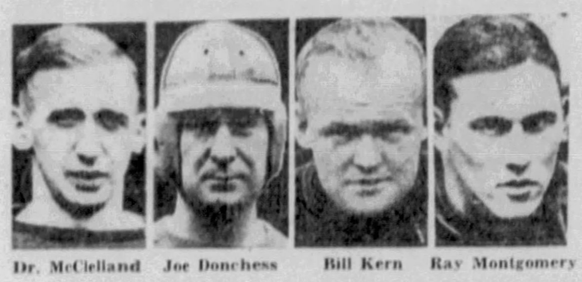
Referee Harry Lee's decision was only a gesture.

Triscaro Defeats Johnny Edwards

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 19.—Babe Triscaro, Cleveland, and Johnny Edwards, Charleston, W. Va., flyweights, battled like wildcats through 10 rounds here last night with the edge going to Triscaro. There were no knockdowns, but the Clevelander scored with the cleaner punches.

John Young, Cleveland, drew with Wallace Capel, local bantamweight, in four rounds. Johnny McLean, Struthers, O., lightweight, knocked out Jimmy Lee, Cleveland, in the first round. Alabama Kid, Lisbon middleweight, drew with Jack Kelly, Girard, in four rounds.

Pitt Stars Discuss Football With Seals Over WCAE Tonight



Dr. McClelland Joe Donchess Bill Kern Ray Montgomery

The ABC's of football play will be revealed to listeners on the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph tonight when an all-star cast of Pitt players of the past and present will appear as guest artists.

Listeners will be told by men who have won their spurs in the way of All-America mention how to detect the fine points of play at the various positions.

Here's the lineup:

Dr. W. D. (Bill) McClelland, backfield star of the Panthers in the days when Coach Dr. Jock Sutherland was an ace guard on Pop Warner's famous teams.

Joe Donchess, end, now assistant coach.

Jess Quatse, tackle, now assistant coach.

Ray Montgomery, guard, now assistant coach.

Ralph Daugherty, center, now assistant coach.

Bill Kern, tackle, now assistant coach and scout.

Capt. Paul Reider, halfback star on this year's team.

Warren Heller, halfback star on this year's team.

Harry Keck, sports editor, will be master of ceremonies, Herb McGee will be the announcer and Miss Marian Salmon will offer Pitt songs on the piano as a musical setting.

Tune in between 6:45 and 6:50 and stay with the program until 7:15. You'll find it highly instructive. You'll learn what to look for in the way of good playing at the various positions and how teams are scouted, some inside dope on Pitt's 18-13 victory over the Army last Saturday, and other grid matters that can't help but interest and entertain you.

OSWALD TAKES TWO MATCHES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Harry Oswald, of Pittsburgh, yesterday defeated Morris Fink, 100 to 65, and Eddie McGehean, 100 to 52, in the Eastern section elimination pocket billiard tournament. Bob Vile, Norristown, also chalked up his second triumph by defeating Fink, 100 to 59.

Oswald had a high run of 34 in his 26-inning victory over Fink and pocketed 24 in the tenth in conquering McGehean in 25 innings.

Vile's best run was 20, in the second, and 23 in the third, while Fink scored 20 in the tenth.

COLLINGWOOD VICTOR

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—William Collingwood, of Asheville, N. C., won his third consecutive victory in the Eastern division of the Southern sectional pocket billiard tournament here last night by defeating James Thompson, of Tampa, Fla., 100 to 84.

Paul Waner Joshes Terry at Party

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Boyish blushes bloomed on Bill Terry's face yesterday during the party given for him by the town's best folks.

Terry was used to attention as one of the National League's outstanding stars and as manager of the New York Giants, but the speakers fairly excelled previous efforts at extolling the virtues of Memphis Bill. Terry said:

"It's easy to speak at a luncheon, but when it is given in your honor, that is a different proposition."

Terry got going after his nervousness wore off, and told the celebrants how the Giants lost a double-header on the day a group of Memphis supporters presented him with a watch at Chicago a short time after he became manager of the Giants.

There were a lot of other speakers and then someone called on Paul Waner.

Waner had Terry blushing again when he started telling stories, some of them aimed at the guest of honor.

"Terry will be the first baseman on the second-place team in the National next year. I will be in the outfield for the winners, the Pittsburgh Pirates."

Dave Shade Would Enter Ring Tourney

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(INS.)—Dave Shade, veteran California boxer, still thinks he is good.

The New York commission today will consider Shade's request that he be given a chance to exhibit his wares in the Madison Square Garden middleweight tourney, designed to name a successor to Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion of the world.

GERMAN SPORTS MEET CLAN

Clan Douglas will meet the German Sport Club in the feature game of the Central District Soccer League Saturday. The unbeaten Clansmen must annex this battle to stay in the race.

At Washington High Field the undefeated Mt. Lebanon eleven will hook up with the defending champion, the Union Switch and Signal team. Everything points to a South Hills victory.

The committee, sponsored by the governing body, is expected to take drastic action to stop the rough play that marked the Mt. Lebanon-Lawrenceville game last Sunday.

Lawrenceville, also in the undefeated class, meets McKeesport at Leslie Park, while at Swissvale, the Westinghouse team takes on Ambridge.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Four-leafed clover? Phooey!

George Hines, 23, picked one in practice before a football game Sunday, and then went into the game. They carried him from the field with a broken leg.

FOXX DECLARED MOST VALUABLE IN AMERICAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Jimmy Foxx, the Maryland Mauler and new home run king of the major leagues, is the choice of the experts as the American League's most valuable player for the 1932 campaign.

The first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, by polling 75 points out of a maximum of 80 in the vote conducted by a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, beat his New York rival, Larruping Lou Gehrig by a decisive margin. Gehrig, winner in 1927 and now runner-up for the third successive year, received 55 points.

The selection of Foxx makes the most valuable player contest an all-Philadelphia affair this year, Chuck Klein, Phillie outfield slugger, already has been designated as the National League's outstanding star of the year.

Foxx is the third of Connie Mack's outstanding stars to gain this individual distinction within the past five years. Mickey Cochrane won the official award in 1928. Bob Grove was the choice last year of the Writers' Association.

Although nosed out within the last week for the batting championship by Dale Alexander, of the Red Sox, Foxx enjoyed his greatest year despite the slump of the A's as a team. The big first sacker, with 58 home runs, set a new major league record for right-handed batsmen and came the closest of anyone to touching Babe Ruth's high mark of 60. Foxx wound up with a batting percentage of .364.

The complete results of the poll, scored on the basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, etc., in the list of selections made by eight baseball writers.

Foxx, Philadelphia, 75; Gehrig, New York, 55; Manush, Washington, 41; Averill, Cleveland, 37; Gomez, New York, 27; Cronin, Washington, 26; Ruth, New York, 26; Lazzeri, New York, 21; Simmons, Philadelphia, 13; Gehringer, Detroit, 13; Alexander, Boston, 10; Cissell, Cleveland, 10; K. Ferrell, St. Louis, 9; Grove, Philadelphia, 8; J. Allen, New York, 8; Dickey, New York, 8; Goslin, St. Louis, 7; Weaver, Washington, 6; H. Davis, Detroit, 5; Harris, Washington, 5; W. Ferrell, Cleveland, 5; Lewis, St. Louis, 5; Lyons, Chicago, 5; Sullivan, Chicago, 3; McNair, Philadelphia, 3; Jolley, Boston, 3; Crowder, Washington, 2; McManus, Boston, 2; Walker, Detroit, 1; J. Scudl, New York, 1.

Harpster Cites Loophole In Time Out Rule

By Howard Harpster

Geneva College Coach. All-America Quarterback at Carnegie Tech, 1918.

Many of the spectators at the Carnegie Tech-W. & J. game at the Stadium last Saturday probably wonder what it was that Referee Red Friesell said to Coach Judge Wally Steffen early in the fourth quarter when he pointed his finger at him and started talking, or I might even say yelling. The play in question was one of the high points of the game, and three characters starred, Steffen, Friesell and Coach Hank Day. In my opinion, each was within his rights, and, although a loophole in the rules made Steffen out wrong, if ever there was a time when a man could be right when he was wrong Steffen was right on this particular play.

With the ball on the W. & J. 45-yard line in Tech's possession, with fourth down and one yard to go for first down, the W. & J. captain called time out because one of his players had been shaken up on the preceding play. This was W. & J.'s fourth time out during the second half.

The rule covering time out states that each team shall be allowed three times out each half, and a five-yard penalty shall be inflicted for each additional time out, unless it is for an injured player who is removed from the game.

PENALTY REVOKED

When W. & J.'s fourth time out was up and play was to be resumed, W. & J. had failed to make a substitution, and, accordingly, Friesell stepped off five yards and gave Carnegie a first down on the W. & J. 40-yard line. Day, the Presidents' coach, saw what had happened, and, before play could be resumed, rushed a player in to substitute for the player who had been shaken up, but evidently would have remained in the game except for the penalty.

The "injured" player had been substituted for before the ball was put in play, so Friesell brought the ball back and again made it fourth down with one to go. Judge Steffen jumped up and said:

"Don't let them put that over on you, Mr. Friesell."

And Friesell, pointing his finger at the judge, said:

"I know what I'm doing. They substituted for an injured player on the fourth time out."

Steffen was absolutely right in questioning the play, because the spirit and purpose of the rule is not to allow a substitution in order to save a penalty, but rather to remove from the game a player who is seriously injured without suffering a penalty. Steffen knew that no one had been substituted for the person for whom time had been called, or Friesell wouldn't have stepped off the five-yard penalty. Then, when the substitute came running in, it was clearly a case of substituting to avoid the penalty rather than to remove an injured player.

RULE IS EVADED

Friesell was not at fault because his instructions are that he should not penalize in case an injured player is removed from the game. In this case the player was taken out before play started again, and, even though it was merely to beat the penalty, it was within the rules. The question arises as to whether or not the player was really hurt and whether he should have been removed from the game as a matter of precaution. After all, most officials aren't doctors, and, even if they were, there are many times when a player could be injured without a physician knowing it immediately.

Day was smart in getting a substitute into the game when he realized that it was his fourth time out, for, instead of giving Tech a first down, it remained fourth down, and Tech was forced to kick. It can be readily seen that Steffen was right in complaining about the play. Friesell was within his rights in refusing to penalize W. & J. and that Day took the ball away from Carnegie by making the substitution.

From the above it can be seen that a team can have as many times out as it desires merely by faking an injured player and substituting for him before the two-minute time out period has elapsed. No rule that can be beaten that easily is a very good one, and something should be done to make it foolproof.

BURNS ELEVEN MEETS CHAMPS TONIGHT

The Dan Burns club, of New Kensington, gets its toughest home test of the season this evening, when the J. P. Rooney eleven, undefeated West Penn Conference champion, clashes with the Dunn machine under the lights at New Kensington High School Field.

Two seasons ago, the Rooneys opened their Conference season with Burns at New Kensington. A pass, Berkman to Pender, defeated the Big Green team. That was the last time a defeat was served the Rooneys.

At Greenlee Field last Sunday, the clubs put up a terrific battle. Burns went down to defeat in the final moments of the game when Harp Vaughan, playing one of the greatest games in his long career, intercepted a Berkman pass, breaking up a Burns rally, and set the stage for winning touchdown.

Tonight it will be a determined Black and White clad aggregation that will face the Rooney machine, bent on avenging Sunday's defeat. Berkman, without a doubt one of the smartest quarterbacks in the Conference, will be out there to shoot the works.

The East Liberty Paulsons are to meet the Etna Sycamores tonight at Etna. The Paulson eleven is made up of former Papale and Linwood players.

Tomorrow night the Olympics, of McKeesport, will be in town to meet the East Liberty Papales at Greenlee Field. The Olympics put up a great game against the Rooneys. The Papales have lost only one game to the Rooneys, and feel that they can take Peeny Newlin and his mates.

CITY LEAGUE SCHOOL GRID TEAMS FACE BIG TESTS

SOUTH HILLS OLIVER CLASH TOMORROW

By JULIUS LEVIN

Friday's games in the two sections of the City League present some real action for the first time of the local circuit with first place at stake in both divisions.

Westinghouse, coached by C. H. Burton, will have an opportunity to take undisputed possession of first place in Section I by handing Fifth Avenue its third defeat of the season at Schenley High School field. Westinghouse was a powerful team, make no mistake about that, and it will prove a worthy contender for the section I crown, now adorning the brow of Schenley.

RISK TITLE HOPES

With the races in both sections wide open affairs, the Peabody-Taylor Allderdice skirmish at Allderdice will prove an elimination battle, both teams staking their hopes for the Section I title on the outcome.

South Hills and Oliver clash at Oliver Field tomorrow. The game originally was carded Friday at Langley Field, but was moved to Oliver Field by mutual consent. Oliver will be out to strengthen its hold on first place in Section I.

Allegheny and Langley will tangle in the other Section II fray at Oliver High School field Friday. Both teams were involved in upsets last Friday, Allegheny bowing to a surprising Perry eleven, while Langley spilled the dope bucket by taking a fall out of South Hills.

Three members of the City League play their games this week-end. Carrick will have its hands full with Mt. Lebanon at Mt. Lebanon Friday, while Saturday finds Schenley invading Steubenville and South going to McKeesport.

THREE NATURALS

Three "naturals" are listed for disposal Friday. Ellwood City will be at New Castle, Donora will play at Charleroi and Scott High at Homestead in night contests. Sectional rivals for years, the teams seldom fail to put up their best games when opposed to each other. The Scott-Homestead duel should produce some fireworks. The two teams battled to a 12-12 deadlock at Scott Field last season.

The Duquesne-Swissvale engagement Swissvale Saturday, bring ether, as it does, two cont or the Class A title, sho e a magnet for the sch ans. Swissvale must pas urdle to continue in the ce.

YALE OFFENSE FOOLS ARMY

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Army started practice for the Yale game yesterday with a makeshift line. Lincoln, Armstrong and Jablonski were out with Winn and Hutchinson playing at tackle and Stillman at right guard.

The drill was devoted almost entirely to defensive work. The scrubs put on a Yale attack and made substantial gains. Blackburne, plebe star last year, scored twice against the varsity.

Hobson Entries Win in Field Trials

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 19.—(INS.)—C. M. Hobson, of Homestead, today held a firmer grasp on the H. F. Ward Memorial trophy, offered in recognition of canine supremacy, by virtue of the victory of Just Harry, a dog which he owns and handles, in the derby for dogs born after January 1, 1931.

Just Joe, another Hobson entry, won third place in the same event. The dogs are setters from a litter of four bred by Colin McF. Reed, of Washington, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. Dogs from the same litter, all bred by Reed, made a clean sweep of all honors in the seventh annual field trial of the $500 derby staged at the Washington County Pointer and Setters' Club at Canonsburg.

American League Ban on Radio Likely

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Banning the radio from the American League baseball parks next season will come up for serious consideration at the annual meeting in December, President William Harridge indicated today.

There is a growing sentiment, President Harridge said, against the broadcasting of baseball games. The eastern half of the league is solidly opposed to the radio, three of the clubs—Philadelphia, New York and Washington—even forbid telegraphic reports to be filed out of the park for broadcasting purposes.

South Hills Halfback

EDDIE KOPP . . . DANGEROUS BALL CARRIER

Oliver High School will have to watch Kopp when the teams battle in a Section II City League game at Oliver Field tomorrow afternoon. Oliver has beaten Carrick in its only league game so far and also has won over Fifth Avenue High, while it has been beaten by Turtle Creek and tied by Bellevue. South Hills has lost to South High, Martins Ferry (O.) and Langley, while it has beaten Perry. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

DEL VECCHIO, LUTHER EVEN

By TOM BIRKS

Perry Del Vecchio, of Greensburg, the defending champion and Ted Luther, of the Valley Heights Country Club, were all square at the finish of the morning 18-hole round in their 36-hole final round duel for the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association match play championship at the Fox Chapel Golf Club today.

The first half of the title battle produced some brilliant golf, especially on the "out" nine where Luther scored even par 37 only to find himself one down at the turn. A birdie 3 on the twelfth enabled Del Vecchio to boost his lead to 2 up at this point, but Luther won the thirteenth and fourteenth with pars to square the match. Del Vecchio won the fifteenth to regain the lead, but a win on the eighteenth enabled Luther to go to lunch all even with his Greensburg rival.

Each finalist had a medal score of 74, two over par for the distance. The cards for the morning round:

Luther out	443	643	454—37
Del Vecchio out	445	543	445—36

SCHOOL GROWTH REVIEWED

erately create an unbalanced budget that we know at the time will result in a substantial deficit to be cared for in the following year, hoping that somehow or in some way some magical result will be obtained, is bad business, is reprehensible and for us unthinkable."

PROPERTY CITED

Property owned by the board is shown as follows:

"The total property owned by the School District comprises approximately 355 acres. On this property are located 163 separate schools, which include 188 separate buildings. The School District has 5,217 employes.

Declaring the results obtained in condemnation proceedings necessary when the board has sought school sites have been generally unsatisfactory, Aaron declares:

"This problem should be considered by the Bar Association and the Real Estate Board to the end that weaknesses in the present procedure of condemnation of property for public use be corrected in the public interest."

Regarding the expenditure of funds by the board, he says:

"The funds of the School District, upon which almost $7,000,000 interest has been collected, have always been securely and adequately protected. The results obtained cannot be matched by any governmental or private agency anywhere.

AIDED PENSIONS

Citing that the board was among the first public or private bodies to realize the necessity for a sound system of pensions, Mr. Aaron said:

"We were happy to co-operate with teachers and others in securing establishment of a state pension system in 1919 for the employes of the school system. Contributions from 1919 to 1932, inclusive, by the school district of Pittsburgh, aggregate $2,320,720.14."

Declaring that further annexations of territory to the city should be postponed indefinitely until the city school district has solved its own problem, Aaron points to greatly increased enrollment in the city high and vocational schools. He says:

"Now we are serving 10 times the 1911 enrollment in our high and vocational schools. To this fact may be ascribed a large proportion of increased expenditures.

"The necessity to make both ends meet in a critical situation when delinquent taxes had increased millions of dollars within a few years without increasing the tax millage, prompted us some six months ago to discontinue our building program, thuh automatically stopping further issuing of bonds for actually necessary extension of school plant. Several years earlier the board decided to postpone indefinitely the construction of auditoriums and other accessory rooms to junior high schools included in its building program."

GOOD BATTLES BOOKED FOR LOCAL FANS

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

The decks have been cleared for some good boxing shows for the Pittsburgh fans within the next few weeks. Here's the lineup:

Friday night—George Panka vs. Charley Belanger, at Arena.

Monday night—Tony Herrera vs. Battling Gizzy, at Motor Square Garden.

Friday of next week—Buck McTiernan vs. Jimmy Belmont, at Arena.

Monday, October 31—Ted Yarosz vs. opponent to be signed, Motor Square Garden.

Friday, November 4—Tony Falco vs. Johnny Datto and Phil Zwick vs. Joe Marcus (double windup), at Arena.

BOOK FAR AHEAD

Matchmaker Lew Raymond, of the Arena, aided by Phil Dummer, the general manager of the North Side boxing plant, has the right idea. He is booking several weeks ahead to assure himself the proper matches. In addition to the bouts listed above, he is working now on a show for November 18, which may involve an outstanding heavyweight of international reputation against the winner of the Belanger-Panka battle, and for the following week, when he will show Frankie Battaglia, Canadian middleweight puncher, against a worthy opponent.

Battaglia, who stopped off in Pittsburgh yesterday with his manager, en route to Minneapolis, where he now makes his home, is one of the heaviest punchers in his class. He holds a one-round knockout victory over Ben Jeby, who stopped Paul Pironne in Madison Square Garden, New York, last Thursday night, on the Kid Chocolate-Lew Feldman card. Battaglia got a draw against Chick Devlin on the same bill, although virtually every ringside reporter said he won easily. Battaglia has relatives here and paid a social as well as a business visit.

Between Rounds

Matchmaker Jules Beck, of the Garden, has completed his Herrera-Gizzy card for next Monday night with the exception of an opponent for Davy Grove in the eight-round semi-final. Sid Silas boxes Matty Oldach, of Erie, in the second bout. Andy Kosel, of Turtle Creek, is to again Charley Burns, of St. Michaels, in the six-round opener.

The Ray Lyle-Jack Wilson semi-final planned for Friday night at the Arena has been set back one week and will serve to back up the third meeting between McTiernan and Belmont. Joey Speigal, of Uniontown, and Billy Holt, of Homewood, will be the semi-finalists Friday. Tony Rabino and Lloyd Clements are in the second bout and Ray Wimbush and Tony Constantino in the opener.

Whitey Eckwert, his trainer, will accompany Tony Herrera here for the latter's bout with Battling Gizzy Monday night, along with Manager Ray Alvis. Pittsburgh always has been Herrera's most lucrative spot, and he doesn't want to overlook a bet in his effort to win this one.

The Mickey Duris-Frankie Bojarski show in the Castle Bowl at New Castle one week from tonight, will be staged under the auspices of the World War Veterans of Lawrence County.

Johnny Ochs, of the Willow Club, and William Shuster, of the Linwood Club, will box the heavyweight bout of the amateur show for the benefit of the Jewish Home for Babies at Motor Square Garden next Tuesday night.

Jess Miller says that if they're considering naming a featherweight champion in Pennsylvania he'd like to enter the name of his Negro flash, Jackie Wilson, for consideration.

Ray Newton and Gordon Mackley will box the 10-round main bout of a show at Mansfield, O., next Monday night.

Local fans were not surprised to read that Tony Galento knocked out Natie Brown in the first round of their bout at Newark, N. J., Monday night, after having seen Galento turn the same trick against George Panka in a bout at Motor Square Garden. This in spite of the fact that Brown subsequently outscored the roly-poly Galento in a bout in the Garden ring. Galento is one of those big fellows who always is dangerous in the early part of a bout.

W. & J., Lafayette Sever Grid Rivalry

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 19.—Gridiron rivals since 1898 and having met annually for over a decade, Lafayette and Washington and Jefferson College teams will not clash in 1933, athletic authorities have announced.

The Easton school long has sought Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania as opponents and has just succeeded in signing both for next year, resulting in a disruption of the cherished rivalry with Wash-Jeff.

The elevens will meet this year at Easton October 29. The first game was in 1898, and in a series of 14 the Presidents have won seven games, Lafayette five and two have ended in ties.

By W. A. (BILL) ALEXANDER
Member All-America Board of Football
(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

No football team is great unless it has great ends. This is a new truism that rapidly is becoming recognized by every coach as he faces the problem of sorting his material and figuring on the strength of his team.

Bill Alexander

Never before in football have the ends played such an important part in the success of a team. The development of the game in modern times has placed an increasingly great value on end play.

The oldtime method of selecting a football team was to find two big, willing men for tackles, another good big man for the fullback job, a man who could master the technique of snapping the ball for center, a cocky youngster with a good twangy voice for quarterback, and the two fastest runners for halfbacks.

Then one took what was left and put them in at the ends.

That is the reason that in past years we have seen all manner of men playing on the terminals of the line. Big footed, slow ends; little, dumpy ends; tall beanpole ends; the parade looks funny as we look back on it.

In the last few seasons, however, this line of reasoning has been discarded by coaches everywhere. Now a coach looks first for good ends before he begins worrying about other positions.

ROCKNE ENDS STRONG

The late Knute Rockne was one of the first coaches to capitalize on strong end play. He was an end himself and he became the greatest teacher of end play in America. Rockne wanted an end that was strong enough to block a tackle, fast enough to cover punts, clever enough to catch forward passes and smart enough to play defense without being fooled by any maneuver.

Since most tackles stand six feet or better, it takes an end of strength, quickness and courage to put on a block that will be effective.

It makes no difference if a team is possessed of a man who can punt 60 yards, unless his punts are well covered. It takes halfback-speed to cover kicks and cleverness in footwork to avoid blockers and get at the safety man with the ball.

To be a successful pass-catcher, an end must be able to take hard-thrown balls at top speed, must be able to fake in one direction and break in another to elude defending backs, must be a master of the change of pace in running for the same reasons, must have a sense of timing if his pass-thrower is to be able to find him. After he catches the pass he must be able to stiff-arm and dodge like a halfback.

MUST BE SURE TACKLER

On defense an end who cannot smell the type of play coming toward him is bound to be caught sooner or later and permit a long run to be made past him. The end who protects only his flank or outside is a sucker for driving off tackle plays. An end that smashes straight in stops line plays and off-tackle drives often is weak on wide end runs, reverse plays and lateral passes.

The defensive end must be a student of gridiron tactics. He must know what yard line the ball is on, what down it is, how much is to be gained, the personnel of the opposing backs and any other tactical consideration that will enable him to sense the play that is coming.

In addition to all these other qualifications, the candidate will be hopeless as an end if he is not a sure tackler. If an end has the chance to tackle and misses, a 15 to 20 yard gain results for the other team. He will have during the game as many opportunities to tackle as any other man and it will cost more if he fails.

No other position on the eleven requires so much talent. Watch a good end for a full game some day and see how many things he will do well.

Kusocinski Victor Over Iso-Hollo

WARSAW, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Jan Kusocinski, Poland's 10,000-meter Olympic champion, yesterday defeated Volmari Iso-Hollo, of Finland, runner-up for Olympic honors, in a 5,000-meter race. The Polish star was timed in 14:41 8-10, far behind the world's record of 14.28 2-10.

Stella Walasiewicz (Walsh), who turned down United States citizenship papers to run for Poland in the Olympics, established a new Polish record for 800 meters, running the distance in 2:24. The old record was 2:27 as compared to the world mark of 2:16 8-10.

GRINS From the GRID

—By O. W. (Red) Severence—
Noted Southern Football Official.
(Written for Associated Press.)

No 8.

Clever coaches often break the tension of nervous football teams before a big game by resorting to comedy relief.

But the great St. Mary's team of 1931 that defeated Southern California, later crowned national champion, turned the tables on Coach Slip Madigan before one of its big games by using this very system of psychological diversity.

St. Mary's was facing Southern Methodist University, of Texas, then one of the two major undefeated teams, and 60,000 fans were jammed in the Oakland (Cal.) stadium awaiting the kickoff.

Coach Madigan, tied up at the college with last-minute details, sent the team ahead to the stadium, in charge of Toby Hunt, St. Mary's captain.

A new gatekeeper greeted the squad with outstretched hands, but mistook Toby for the coach. He said:

"How do you do, Coach Madigan? Will there be any more of your team coming through this gate?"

Toby, seizing his opportunity, solemnly assured the gatekeeper the whole squad was present and advised him to admit no one from St. Mary's without a ticket. Meanwhile, Madigan finally arrived breathlessly at the stadium, only to find a determined gatekeeper blocking his way.

Indignant protests brought the response:

"I'm on to you, Coach Madigan went in here more than 30 minutes ago."

Seeing that further argument was futile, Slip dashed over to the nearest ticket office and found the only seats available were in the $5 section. He bought one. He says:

"On my way to the dressing room, I suddenly realized my boys had played a joke on me. After having a good laugh, which relieved me of my intense nervousness, I found myself relaxed and capable of giving the necessary instructions before sending my team on the field."

Dutch Clark Star In Pro League

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Earl H. (Dutch) Clark, all-America quarterback when he was piloting the Colorado team of 1928, rapidly is establishing himself as the best all-around back in the National Professional Football League.

Clark, now playing with the Portsmouth Spartans, ranks well up with the leaders in ground gaining, kicking and passing and booted the only field goal so far recorded this season.

He stands fourth among the ground-gainers with 193 yards, has averaged 42 yards in punting, and is second only to Benny Friedman, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, in passing.

OWEN AWARDED FIRST RANK

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Marvin Owen, brilliant third baseman of the Newark Bears, was voted the most valuable player in the International League by a committee of the circuit's baseball writers, the St. Louis Sporting News announced yesterday.

Owen, the property of the Detroit Tigers, received a total of 31 points of a possible 64. He came to the Bears, champions of the league, late in the season and was considered one of those most responsible for winning the pennant.

Jack Smith, Buffalo first baseman, trailed Owen by seven points in the ranking and George Toporcer, second baseman and manager of Rochester, was third with 19 points. George Puccinelli, Rochester outfielder, received 18; Buzz Arlett, Baltimore, 17; Fred Walker, Newark, 16; and Walter Gautreau, Montreal, 15; Frank McGowan, who recently was promoted to the managership of Baltimore, 14; Hobart Whitman, Albany, 11, and Baxter Jordan, Baltimore, 10.

Fight Results

At Terre Haute—Tracy Cox knocked out Chet Smallwood, first round.

At Fort Worth—Gus Campbell defeated Wildcat Monte, 10 rounds.

At Youngstown—Babe Triscaro defeated Johnny Edwards, 10 rounds. John Young and Wallace Capel drew, 4 rounds. Johnny McLean knocked out Jimmy Lee, 4 rounds. Alabama Kid and Jack Kelly drew, 4 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Baby Arizmendi defeated Newsboy Brown, 10 rounds.

At New York—Red Barry defeated Justin Sirotta, 8 rounds.

ICE STAR SOLD

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Stewart Adams, left winger for the Chicago Blackhawks of the National Hockey League for the past three seasons, yesterday was sold outright to the Kansas City club of the American League. A star two years ago, Adams was of little use last year because of a fractured arm.

WILD CARGO

By FRANK BUCK
With EDWARD ANTHONY

freight locomotive and a narrow-gauge switch engine. But the anoa swerved adroitly to one side as before, again striking the foe amidships but this time with terrific force. His horns buried themselves in the antelope's belly.

FEARS PORCUPINE

Then I witnessed one of the strangest sights of my whole career. The anoa, with the buck impaled on his horns, lifted the enemy straight upward—an almost incredible performance for so small an animal—and then shook himself free from his burden.

The antelope—while the cowering doe looked on—hit the ground like a sack of cement and stayed there, moaning. His belly ripped wide open, he lay gasping his last. Yet the anoa—battle-crazed—was all for making another charge by way of giving the thing finality. I came up in time to prevent this last brutal assault. With the aid of several boys I managed to get a new rope over the anoa's horns and we finally got the bantam-weight champion of the animal world back in his stall.

Ali, my head Malay boy who was second in command at the compound, always suspected that one of the boys, anxious to see the anoa attack the antelope, had severed the rope—or weakened it. And Ali may have been right. For it is hard to believe that even so powerful an animal as that ornery anoa could have snapped a rope as stout as the one we used in tying him to the stake.

Ironically enough, a few days later I found Little Tough Guy cringing in a corner of his stall in abject terror. Not many yards away there was an open grate in which I had housed a porcupine. This harmless little fellow—he weighed exactly seven pounds—was rattling his quills in the matter characteristic of his species. L. T. G. trembled all over, his legs positively shaking as the porcupine went through these innocent maneuvers. The anoa was struggling to get as far away as possible from the placid little creature that so obviously filled him with fright.

BLUFFED BY QUILLS

This gave me an idea. Thereafter whenever Little Tough Guy got tough I placed a porcupine near him. Almost instanteously I would get results, whether there was any rattling of quills or not. For L. T. G., who had vanquished a buck antelope nearly twice his own weight, was scared to death of anything that looked like a porcupine. I could have frightened him with a handful of quills stuck in a sponge.

Some months later I delivered Little Tough Guy and his female companion to Dr. Hornaday, who was delighted with having the first anoas ever seen alive in America.

I was glad to please the noted director of the New York Zoological Park but I secretly vowed never to handle another of those pesky creatures. I changed my mind, however, when Dr. Penrose, then head of the Philadelphia Zoo, decided that he also wanted a pair. I couldn't turn down so good a friend. The following year Dr. Penrose had his anoas. A calf was born to the female en route—and this I sold to Dr. Hornaday.

The only anoas ever seen in America besides these five are their descendants—and there haven't been many of them.

Lucky Bucks Are Good Again!

WEST VIRGINIA WESLEYAN

is coming to Forbes Field Friday Night, determined to break the tie with

DUQUESNE

These two teams have clashed twice, each winning a game. Coach "Cebe" Ross, of the West Virginia "Bobcats," says that his team can do it. Friday night will tell the story . . . and from the present outlook it will be the real "scrappy" game of the year.

Any Boy or Girl Under 16 Years of Age Can See This Great Game for 10 Cents and TWO

LUCKY BUCKS

Lucky Buck No. 1 will appear in the Sun-Telegraph tomorrow . . . Lucky Buck No. 2 will be printed Friday. Present these two special Lucky Bucks at the Forbes Field ticket window and get your tickets.

No tickets will be sold at Forbes Field for a dime unless you present the Lucky Bucks clipped from Tomorrow's and Friday's Sun-Telegraph with your money.

STOCKS DRIFT IN FEEBLE TRADING

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—The stock market continued its slow, wobbling movement today, as speculators stopped about in hope of finding some definite clue to the trend.

Mid-week business statistics showed that the upturn in business was well maintained, but with the seasonal tendency toward contraction over the remainder of the year, Wall street failed to show any particularly bullish interpretation from the showing.

The list pushed up a point or more in the first hour, more than half its gain during the middle of the day, with fresh heaviness developing cropping out in tobaccos, where selling was in small volume. Utilities were firm for a time, with Pacific up 2, but that was completely lost. American Telephone, up 1 at one time, slid off to show a loss of a point. Gains in fractions to a point in United States Steel, New York Central, American Can and others were reverted in small losses. American Tobacco "B" lost 2 points and Liggett and Myers "B" about as much. Lorillard and Reynolds "B" sagged fractionally.

The freight car loadings reports of some of the larger railroads, showing further moderate gains for last week, were among more encouraging features of the day's corporate news, for the swing in the freight movement had already exceeded the usual seasonal proportions. Current indications point to another moderate gain in the weekly figures for all Class 1 roads, to appear Thursday. While steel production continues to gain in spots, some weakness has appeared in the pig steel market, which was not regarded as a good sign. Iron Age, however, estimated steel ingot production of the country at large at 19½ per cent of capacity, against 19 per cent a week previously. Automobile makers are buying a little steel for new models, and the steel trade is hopeful of more business from that source as the season wears on.

The selling of the tobacco stocks was said in brokerage circles to have started in professional quarters yesterday, although it is acknowledged that the competition being offered by the 10-cent brands of cigarets was rather serious. Liggett & Myers, as expected, ordered the regular quarterly dividends of $1 on the common and Class "B" shares. Although some further paring of dividends is expected this quarter, previous rates are being maintained by many companies. National Biscuit ordered the regular quarterly payment of 70 cents, though earnings came to only 60 cents a share for the period.

RISK RECEIVERS FOR PENNROAD

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 19.—(INS.)—Application for injunctive relief in receivership for the Pennroad Corporation was filed in the State Chancery Court here today by Stockholders J. W. Perrine and Julia A. Perrine, both of Philadelphia.

Other defendants named with the Pennroad firm was the Pennsylvania Railroad and present and ex-trustees of the Pennroad firm.

The bill of complaint asked that the voting trust agreement of Pennroad with the Pennsylvania System be declared null and void and that a temporary receiver be named.

The bill of complaint asked for the naming of a receiver so that the Pennroad firm might have the benefit of "independent management." A request also was made to enjoin officials of Pennroad from selling or transferring any of Pennroad's securities.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—(INS.)—Officials of Pennroad Corporation today refused to comment on the filing of receivership proceedings in the Delaware Chancery Court at Wilmington.

Flaxseed Crushings Show Big Decrease

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP.)—Flaxseed crushings for the quarter ending September 30 were reported today by the Census Bureau to have totaled 104,663 tons, compared with 213,083 tons for the same quarter last year.

Production of linseed oil amounted to 68,664,614 pounds, compared with 141,204,905 pounds.

Stocks of flaxseed at mills September 30, amounted to 74,576 tons, compared with 118,760 a year ago, and stocks of linseed oil reported by crushers were 65,863,475 pounds, compared with 76,150,682.

Agreement Reached On Credit Anstalt

PARIS, Oct. 19.—According to reports from Vienna, preliminary agreement has been reached with foreign creditors for reorganization of the Austrian Credit Anstalt. Upon completion of the agreement, it is likely other Vienna banks will be reorganized, including reduction and subsequent increase in the capital of the lower Austrian discount bank.

U. S. Shipping Going Ahead; Plan Addition

—By B. C. FORBES—

I WAS PRIVILEGED to attend a birthday party given by the enterprising American citizens who, one year ago, entered into an arrangement to put on the map America's shipping.

B. C. Forbes

The inspiring news was revealed that the United States Lines contemplates ordering another new ship, of unsurpassed size, for that Atlantic trade.

Among the United States Lines officials who attended the luncheon, given by R. Stanley Dollar, president, were P. A. S. Franklin, chairman; Kermit Roosevelt, John M. Franklin and Basil Harris, vice presidents. One absentee was Herbert Fleishhacker, dynamic San Francisco financier, who had much to do with consolidating and strengthening American shipping on both the Pacific and the Atlantic.

I asked:

"What have you accomplished for American shipping during your first year?"

Came the reply:

"It was in accordance with a request of the shipping board that exactly one year ago an alliance was made between the Pacific Coast groups, headed by Stanley Dollar, and the eastern groups, headed by Mr. Franklin, for acquiring the United States Lines. The year has really been one of accomplishment.

"U. S. Lines has launched the two largest ships ever built in America. One, the Manhattan, is already successfully in service, her sister ship, the Washington, will go into service next May.

"Each ship costs approximately $10,000,000—an important contribution to employment since about 85 per cent of the $20,000,000 goes directly to labor."

This, too, is encouraging:

"Although our contract with the United States government requires us to make only five round trips a year with the Leviathan, she has enjoyed such increased patronage that we have determined to keep her running all winter. This means continued employment the year round for over a thousand American seamen, to say nothing of the men necessary to handle her and her cargo ashore.

"The Pacific-Atlantic alliance of leading shipping interests has achieved invaluable results for the American flag in the North Atlantic."

Meanwhile, the Dollar round-the-world service, the only one of its kind, continues to earn a record for transcending anything originally considered possible by the shipping world. The Dollars, too, have been giving extensive employment to American shipbuilding during the depression.

Notwithstanding that the world's total output of new tonnage has fallen to new low levels, the United States has been able to make a creditable showing.

THE PRESIDENT of a corporation having nation-wide ramifications, and particularly interested in building construction, has shown me the latest reports furnished him by his extremely active research and statistical department. I had learned that this company's business is showing expansion for the first time in more than two years. Here are some of the more encouraging facts presented:

General business activity during September shows "quite a recovery." Public buying power last month showed the first rise since July of last year.

Residential construction in square feet rose 28 per cent last month over August, the sharpest rise in eight years. But the August level "was so low that this increase does not produce a figure of more than insignificant size. Nevertheless, the trend has considerably improved, and a basis at least is being laid for a spring revival.

"The turning point is more evident than at any previous time during the depression. The revival in textile production, begun in May, has been paralleled by a rise in textile building activity."

This may not justify hurrahing and throwing hats in the air, but it does suggest that things have begun to move less disappointingly.

BEARS MAY not enjoy the "election picnic" they are fondly anticipating.

STEEL HOLDING RECENT GAINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Iron Age tomorrow will say:

Still lacking conspicuous support from the major consuming industries—the railroads, building construction and the automobile manufacturers—the steel industry is holding the minor gains of recent weeks, but is now inclined to the belief that it may mark time until the elections are out of the way.

Ingot production for the entire country is estimated at 19½ per cent for the current week, against 19 per cent last week. The Wheeling district, at about 35 per cent, is the most active, but small increases have occurred at Chicago and Pittsburgh, while other sections are holding their own, excepting Birmingham, where a reduction from 33 per cent to 25 per cent has occurred.

In some departments of the industry there are gains, and in others losses. Tin plate production, now averaging 45 per cent, is outstanding. Bar mills are also attaining better schedules, but operations of sheet and wire mills have declined.

The automobile industry, though still proceeding slowly in work on new models, has released some orders for initial assemblies.

Delays in making commitments for steel are noticeable among the railroads, even those that have received loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Lettings of steel for building construction are not noticeably increasing in volume this month, but inquiries are heavier, forecasting improvement later on.

OIL PRODUCTION TAKES DROP

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Domestic crude oil output during the week ended October 15 averaged 2,130,650 barrels daily, a decrease of 42,350 barrels daily from the week preceding, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Gasoline stocks in the United States during the week declined 831,000 barrels to 49,779,000 barrels on October 15.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The Federal Oil Conservation Board stated that the American oil industry gives indication of being the first basic industry to emerge from the world depression. The board said the effects of the industry's rising purchasing power are beginning to be felt and will be further manifested during the fall and winter, providing production is kept on a stable basis.

Michigan Reinstates Halsey, Stuart Co.

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 19.—(AP.)—The State Securities Commission has reinstated the license of Halsey, Stuart & Co., brokers, permitting it to resume business in Michigan. The license recently was suspended. Following a hearing, the commission decided that there was insufficient evidence to sustain the suspension.

Representatives of the company contended that the state had no right to suspend or revoke its license merely because an indictment accusing the company of using the mails with intent to defraud has been returned.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Val Amazes Relatives When She Refuses to Talk To Her Husband

CHAPTER LI.

The Honorable Joel Joshua Bolton was enjoying himself if no one else was.

He shook with silent laughter. His old, leathery face was crinkled into a thousand wrinkles. His shrewd little eyes twinkled. And before Aunt Julia could fly at him again he asked her for another cup of coffee.

Aunt Julia poured it, turned to Val.

"Oh, I started to tell you that that was the party about the house, Val. I've decided to rent. What do you think of that!"

And before Val could gather herself together to answer, she went right on: "The tenants are coming sooner than I expected. They want to move in tomorrow. I hate to move today, but business is business, isn't it, Mr. Bolton? So I thought you and I'd just go on over to Miss Vollmer's for the night, and tomorrow you better start back home. I was going to Miss Vollmer's anyway. She won't mind our coming tonight."

VAL OFFERS AID

Val was on her feet. "No! I know, Aunt Julia. I know all about it—oh, I'm sorry—don't look at me so! But I know, and I have the money. We'll just pay everything and we'll keep the house. We won't sell it or rent it or anything. I'm going to stay right here with you. I'll work and in the evenings we'll go to the movies just like we used to—and have such good times and—" the old man said:

"Joe's here to take you home."

Val hardly heard him. "Do you understand, Aunt Julia? I have the money. Everything's fixed. We'll tell those people."

Aunt Julia shook her head. "Thanks, Val. It's good of you, but it wouldn't do. I did hope till the last. I even asked Millie, though I should have known better. But after I gave up I saw it was all for the best. I've been pretty lonely here."

"But I'm going to be with you now!"

"No, I won't have any divorced woman in my house. Besides" (she crossed her fingers) "I'm going to be very happy with Miss Vollmer. She and I——"

"Aunt Julia, you said you'd rather die than have to live with her, much as you liked her, when I suggested that you get her to live with you when I get married!"

"Well, I've changed my mind."

"You'll never get along with her! You couldn't stand her cooking, and——"

OFFERED JOB

"Humph. No danger of that. I'm—well, I'll be a sort of working housekeeper. Oh, I'd much rather earn my keep——"

Joe's uncle cleared his throat. "Would you consider taking the housekeeping of my home, madame? Supervising the servants? I have a large place. I spend close to $200 a month on foodstuffs and I have never had as good a breakfast as the one you served me today."

"That? It didn't cost 15 cents. You spend . . . pshaw! don't tell me? Where's this place? Be still, Val, I'm talking business!"

"I'm not going," Val said. "Even if Joe wanted me, I wouldn't go."

"Nonsense, Val. Be quiet. You say you spend all that for food, Mr. Bolton? Pshaw! That's wicked. Why, I could run that house for . . . oh! I don't see how I could . . . I'm a single woman, and to keep house for a gentleman . . . I don't know . . . hmm . . . A single woman has to think of her reputation."

"Oh, Mrs. Swensen, the under housekeeper, would chaperon us, and, of course, there are maids."

ADMITS FAILURE

Mr. Bolton rose, shook hands ceremoniously with her. They beamed at each other. "I'll have flannel cakes every morning!"

"Wait till you've tasted my corn bread. It's no more like the Johnny cake other people make than—than Val is like me!"

Val, frightfully worried, determined to tell all, cut in.

"No, that's just it. I'm no more like Aunt Julia than—her Johnny cakes is like I'd bake it! Mr. Bolton, you may as well know that I never cooked a decent meal for Joe all the time I lived with him. My negligence was the talk of all his friends. Everybody was sorry for him. Glad when I left—glad—glad!"

"Val Macfarlane. Do you mean to tell me you didn't pick up cooking?"

"You never taught me!"

"Nobody taught me! Teach a girl cooking! Hhrr, hump! Do you have to be taught to talk?"

"I didn't know how. I was a terrible failure. I——"

"That settles it. I might have hesitated before, but my mind is made up now. I'll go, Mr. Bolton. And I'll keep my eye on her. I'll soon teach her how to make Johnnycake that melts in your mouth. Val, I'll have you doing lemon meringue pies in a week. Why didn't you tell me you couldn't do things? Answer me! Why wasn't I told?"

"Oh, what was the use? What's the use of anything? Besides, it's all over now."

"Come now! Everything's arranged. Your auntie is coming with us, and Joe is waiting. He'll be hanging on the wire now, waiting to hear. I'll get him for you, tell him everything is all right."

"No!"

"The phone is in the hall," Aunt Julia said.

When he had gone to telephone she chuckled.

VAL IS OBSTINATE

Val laughed, through her tears. The first honest laugh she had had in a week.

"Joe's on the wire!" the old man called.

Val didn't move.

"Val, do you hear Mr. Bolton?"

"I'm sorry, Mr. Bolton. I haven't anything to say to Joe, and Joe hasn't anything to say to me. It's all over—finished—"

"Well, you talk to Joe. Tell him that."

Stubbornly she shook her head. "No."

"Val, you go answer that telephone this minute. It's a 10-cent long distance call!"

Joe's uncle was beginning to look worried.

"See here," he said, "you've been very unselfish right up to this point. You were willing to give up what you thought was a life's happiness to save this good lady's home. Now we've arranged something that will make her happy, and make me happy, and Joe happy, and you won't co-operate."

"Don't be silly, Val," Aunt Julia cut in brusquely. "Everything's settled, and I must say it's more luck than good management. You can't stay here alone. We're all going back to Minnesota. You might just as well make up your mind to it. I won't be here, and you know your mother never wanted you for more than six weeks at a time in her life. You haven't any place else to go. Now you answer your husband like a good sensible girl, and tell him you're sorry."

Val looked from one to the other, her eyes flashing.

"Yes, you've taken care of everything, between you. I understand. There's no place for me. Nobody wants me, so I'm to return to Joe. Poor Joe. And I can tell you that he doesn't want me either. I can tell you that he has other plans!

"Oh, you needn't look at me as if I'd gone crazy. I was never saner in my life. I know what I'm talking about, and you don't! But I'm going to tell you something else. I've got too much PRIDE to go back! I'll never go back, never, never! You can do as you like, Aunt Julia. And you, too, Mr. Bolton. And you can tell your nephew anything you like. But I won't talk to him. I won't see him. I won't ever, ever go back to him. Do you understand?"

Madge Leaves Dance to Get Mary's Report

The new arrangement put Marion and Mr. Owen together at a table with Bob Trevellan and Carolyn, with no "extra man" to save the young girl from the monotony of sitting with Owen through the main courses of the dinner and the "revue" which was Mr. Veritzen's gift to our party.

I almost repented of my decision when I saw Marion's unhappy eyes, although her lips were valiantly smiling at her middle-aged escort. But I was determined to force her to a point where she would see the full extent of her folly in flouting Ronald's clean, reverential, boyish devotion for the specious romantic wooing of the world-weary and designing Charles Owen.

I watched Marion narrowly through the "revue," an unusually artistic collection of singing and dancing acts.

When the revue ended and the dancing began again, Avis at once became the excited, simpering center of several eager suitors for dances. Mary also was compelled to turn away dancing partners, and with Carolyn dancing every dance with a cadet, alternating between Bill and Mr. Owen, I was not surprised to see her hastily excuse herself in the middle of a dance with Mr. Owen and slip out of the room.

MARION RESENTFUL

Lillian was dancing and did not see her. I was about to follow her myself when I saw Mary, dancing with Ronald, move toward the veranda with him and reappear in an instant in the hall, hurrying to the stairs. I was seated near a hall door with Dr. Jim Paige, and I watched that door tensely waiting subconsciously for what actually appeared—Mary's face framed in the doorway and her hand beckoning me.

She was gone again as quickly as she had come, but with a hurried apology to Dr. Paige, I moved so swiftly after her that I reached the top of the stairs but a few seconds later than she did. She was waiting for me, and as I came up she put her finger on her lips and drew me into the nearest room, shutting the door after her.

"The poor kid's gone to pieces," she said. "She isn't crying, but I'd rather she would than to shake the way she's doing. I never saw anybody so mad in all my life. She wants to know why she's been thrown with Owen all evening just as if their engagement had been announced; and, Auntie Madge, she referred to him as 'that old dodo.' I think she's cured, don't you?

"I could dance a tap or two in celebration, only that we can't let her whole evening be spoiled. I don't dare tell her yet of the play we've been acting, but—she ought to know."

TO END PUNISHMENT

"I'll tell her about it at once," I said decisively. "Please go down and pass the word to Ronald, to Noel—and, yes, to Bob Trevellan; you can take him and Carolyn partly in your confidence—that when Marion comes back into the room they are to rush her, and leave Avis Arlen severely alone. With whom are you sitting now?"

"Noel, much to the disgust of both Papa Phil and little Avis, although the gal is paying more attention to Ronald than to anybody else."

"Good. I'll leave it to your adroitness to switch tables at the first opportunity, leaving Marion with Noel and devoting your attention to Charles Owen."

She made a moue at me.

"And what an aunt you turned out to be," she said reproachfully, "leaving me a mess like that to ladle. But just watch little Mary. None so sympathetic as I with Charlie's woes. But I've only two wishes for this evening. One is to straighten poor Marion out, and the other is to rub Avis Arlen's nose in the rug. She's getting away with murder, that girl."

"I don't think she'll be getting away with so much, once Ronald and Noel stop giving her so much pretended attention."

Mary looked thoughtful.

"There's something else," she said. "Do you realize that several of the boys who have danced with her have not gone back for a second one?"

"Why?" I asked, staring at her.

"Because"—she hesitated—"it sounds catty for me to say it, but she's one of the world's catty dancers. But I must get back if I'm to start things, and you'll want to get to Marion as soon as possible."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

A great program was arranged for the members of the Belmar Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club Saturday. As usual there was quite a bit of excitement and noise—which was only natural, after a hard week at school—but finally order prevailed and Mr. Shafer introduced the first entertainer on the program, Marjorie Campbell, who did an eccentric tap dance—and did she tap? A very talented little girl, who, if she keeps up her present gait, is going far in the theatrical circles. The members gave her a thunderous applause.

Catherine Dublin then sang a song, going into a tap dance on the second chorus of the song. What a girl! She captivated them with her voice and thrilled them with her dance steps. It was only natural, therefore, that she be given a big ovation—and don't worry, she was.

Following Catherine, Marjorie Campbell did an acrobatic dance, composed of graceful turns and motions, every one of which received its share of applause—a finished performance by a finished performer.

'PERSONALITY GIRL'

Esther Moreland was then introduced—Esther had been here once before, so was, therefore, an old favorite. She now showed her skill as a tap dancer—and did she put it over? The little "personality girl" herself in person. Well, judging from the applause, one could easily enough say that Miss Esther Moreland "went over" in a big way.

Again the members were entertained by that enchanting little girl—Catherine Dublin—who this time offered an amazing acrobatic dance, which was well received by the club. The last number on the stage program was a tap dance given by a little girl named Catherine—the Secretary regrets to report that he was unable to get her last name, but if Catherine should happen to read these minutes, begs her not to feel slighted and wishes to assure her that she gave a very creditable performance—really she did—which was well received by the club.

ROWLAND CHAPTER

"Crazy People," "We Just Couldn't Say Good-Bye" and "A Shanty in Old Shanty Town" greeted the members of the Rowland Chapter at the meeting Saturday and they were the feature numbers played by the Rowland Junior Komic Club Orchestra.

Following these orchestral gems, 10 girls ranging from 8 to 12 years were called to the stage and each was presented with five soda crackers. On a given signal the girls started to eat the crackers and the first that finished and whistled "Yankee Doodle" was little Jane Hastings, who was presented with a "Bollo Ball" game for her efforts.

Following the cracker-eating contest the stage show took up the rest of the time allotted to the meeting and the first number was a song, "A Great Big Bunch of You," and a tap dance by Laverne Messer.

The second number was a very clever tap dance by Ruth Matoney and little Francis Lovise McAnley, a clever little "blues" singer, offered the "St. Louis Blues" and closed the meeting with a very difficult tap dance.

The Coming of Roosevelt

The Visit Portends, It Is to Be Hoped, Greater Political Independence for Pennsylvania.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is to make a speech in Forbes Field tonight. Go to see and hear him if you can. Take your children along.

Unless all signs fail he is to be the next President of the United States. It will be a satisfaction to you and to the children throughout their lives to have seen and heard this distinguished American. It will increase your interest and their interest in the government, and help to make better citizens of you.

We have, by the way, in the fact that it has been necessary to have the meeting in Forbes Field, because our largest auditorium holds only about 4,000 people, another argument for the building of a Town Hall seating at least 15,000.

The Democratic candidate's coming to Pittsburgh is an encouraging development. He would not come if he had not been assured there is a good chance that Pennsylvania will go Democratic this year. His time is too valuable to waste on speeches to people who are so blindly and obstinately devoted to the Republican Party that it is hopeless to reason with them. Roosevelt's visit is a hopeful portent, therefore. It portends greater political independence for Pennsylvania.

The last Democratic candidate for President to carry Pennsylvania was James Buchanan, the only Pennsylvanian who ever became President. He was elected in 1856.

Lincoln carried the state in 1860 with a majority of 89,159 over Breckinridge, the Democratic candidate, and with a majority of 20,075 over McClellan, the Democratic candidate in 1864. Grant had a majority of 28,898 over Seymour in Pennsylvania in 1868 and a majority of 137,548 over Greeley in 1872. Hayes in 1876, Garfield in 1880, Blaine in 1884, and Harrison in 1888 and 1892, defeated their Democratic opponents in Pennsylvania by majorities that in no case were as great as 100,000 votes. It was not until the campaign of 1896 that Pennsylvania began to turn in those tremendous Republican majorities that have made the name of the state almost synonymous with Republicanism.

When the Republicans were split, in 1912, it was not Wilson but Roosevelt who carried the state, the vote being: Roosevelt, 444,894; Wilson, 395,637 and Taft, 273,360.

Harding carried Pennsylvania over Cox in 1920 by a majority of 714,373, Coolidge carried the state over Davis in 1924 by a majority of 992,289, and Hoover defeated Smith in Pennsylvania four years ago by a majority of 987,796.

There could be no more impressive evidence of the people's dissatisfaction with the Hoover administration than can be found in the fact that Gov. Roosevelt is meeting with an enthusiastic reception in Pittsburgh today and in the possibility that Pennsylvania, which has been giving majorities of almost a million votes for Republican Presidential candidates in recent years, may go Democratic this year.

By thus asserting its independence, Pennsylvania will gain increased respect throughout the nation.

The School Budget Cut

The Public Will Be Inclined to Believe the Board Has Done the Best It Could.

There has never been a breath of suspicion against the integrity of the Board of Public Education. It has the confidence of the public, as has been shown by the storm of protest against the Rooney bill with its proposal to make the school directors' positions political offices. Hence the taxpayers will be disposed to accept the Board's program for school expenditures in 1933 as the best that could be devised.

The Board has fixed the budget at $13,936,290.11, which is $1,367,575.96 less than the total appropriations this year. The cut has been made possible through the generosity of the teachers in agreeing to take a 10 per cent salary cut. Supplies and expenses, capital outlays and bond principal and interest have also been cut down. On the other hand the appropriation for milk for undernourished pupils has been increased from $50,000 to $70,000.

The school tax rate of 11¾ mills failed this year to furnish the amount expected, because of the inability of many persons to pay their taxes. It is proposed, therefore, in spite of the cut of $1,367,575 in the budget, to let the rate remain at 11¾ mills.

That will be disappointing; but the citizens, we believe, would rather pay taxes for the upkeep of the schools than for almost any other purpose, not only because of their pride in our educational system and their belief in the necessity of education, but also because they have faith that the school money is honestly spent.

No Panthers Left

The Tioga County Story May Have Been Started to Scare Deer Hunters Away.

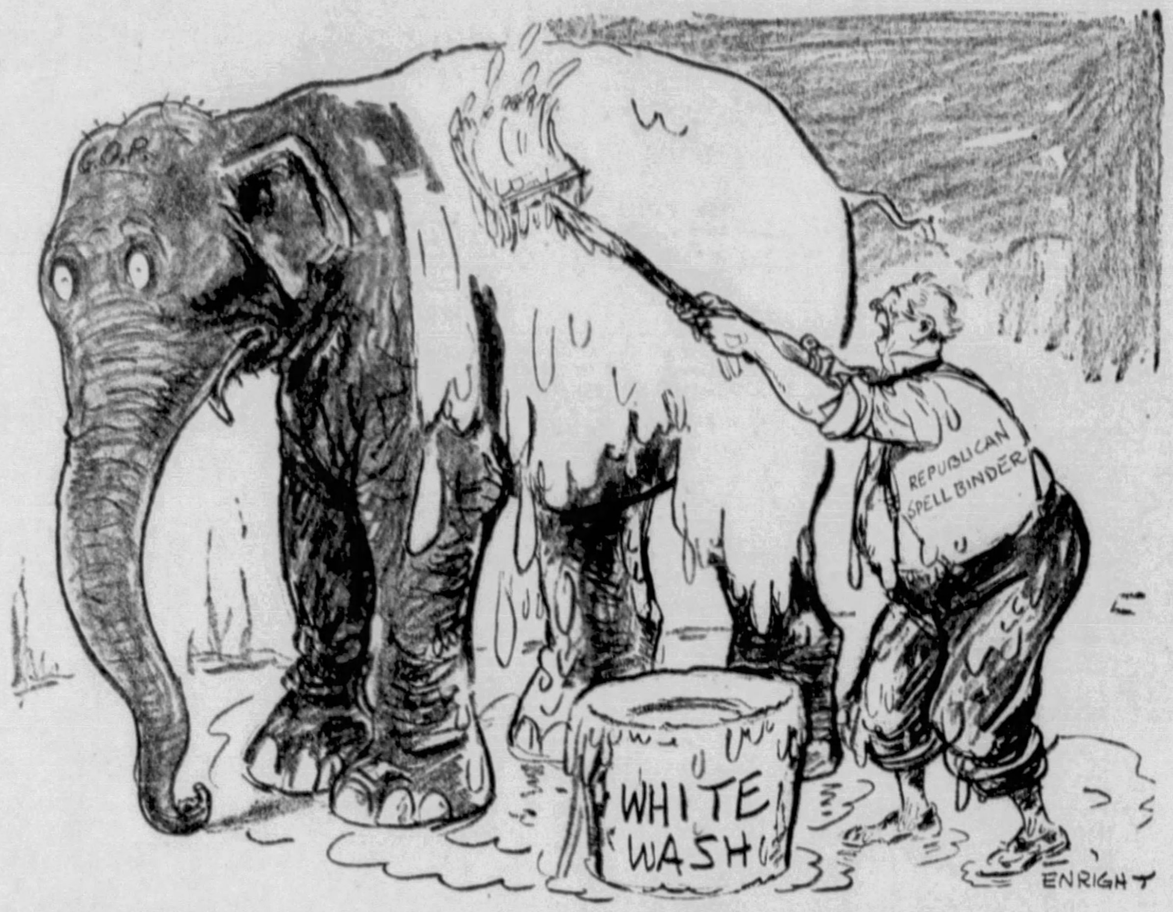
Apropos of the report from Bellefonte that deer are exceptionally scarce this year, the suggestion was made that the story may have been put out in the hope of discouraging deer hunters from visiting that region.

The same motive is suspected for a report from Ansonia, Tioga County, that a strange wild animal, believed to be a panther, is prowling around in those parts. Paul H. Mulford, district forester, says it has been a custom there, when the approaching deer season promised to be light, for the natives to start panther stories to discourage timid sportsmen from invading their territory.

There are no wild panthers in Pennsylvania, nor have there been for many years.

Why Paint a Lily—Or an Elephant?

(Copyright, 1932.)



Can a leopard—or an elephant—change his spots? Not if left to himself. But a horse can be made to look like a zebra by painting stripes on his ribs, and even the G. O. P. elephant may be made lily-white—with whitewash.

Above, you see the artist at his work. The job will keep him busy while the campaign lasts; and when the job is finished—on Election Day—the poor gentleman will have nothing but a white elephant on his hands!

Debunking the Caveman

Modern lovers are facing an awfully painful awakening. The CAVEMAN has just been debunked!

He wasn't a roughneck, after all, but a charming Romeo, according to an editorial in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. He did not woo his lady with a knotted club and a clout on the head, but with orchids and poetry. He was not brutal and masterful, but tender and timid and flattering. He probably twiddled his thumbs and fussed with his collar, just like other nervous lovers.

I knew it. I knew it. I KNEW it! I knew that we should some day get back to Adam with our "debunking." Our debunkers have proved everything, up to date, except that Nero was an altruist, Sappho was a Sunday school teacher and Solomon was a one-woman man.

But, this is the last straw! Tablets have been found in the Grotto of Isturitz, bearing sonnets full of pleading, carved by the caveman (no less!) beneath the portrait of his Girl Friend. (Of course, he couldn't paste her picture in the back of his watch—but he had ideas.)

What a blow this must be to those heart-conquerors, who have been emulating the traditional "caveman" for the last decade, and doing their courting (figuratively) with a grunt and a club.

But, to the girls who have been mauled about, roughly handled and unceremoniously kissed, on the Big He-Man principle, it will come as welcome news—this discovery that the caveman was a myth, that Don Juan had the right idea, and that Romeo was NOT a sap, but the ideal lover!

There are, of course, some women who OUGHT to be clouted and dragged around by the hair, occasionally. They would be better for a little beating. But, strange, to say, that sort of woman always manages to find a meek, devoted, "yes-dear" man, who lets her tramp all over his neck and thanks her for a pat on the head.

There are still other women—but not so many—who LIKE to be bossed, bullied and treated cavalierly. They respect a man, only when they are a little afraid of him, and they glory in being tyrannized over by a masterful, "Big He-Man," whose tenderest caress is a grapple.

Most women, however, long secretly to be wooed in the Romeo fashion with tenderness and flattery and flowers and promises. And most men, while in love, are gentle, artful, timid and doubtful. Love takes all the conceit out of a man; and, for that one brief moment in his life, he is not an egotist. Tenderness and flattery have always been the weapons with which a lover broke down a woman's resistance.

* * *

There is really no precedent for the "treat-'em-rough-and-tell-em-nothing" lover. And it will be a great shock to him to learn that the caveman did his wooing with orchids and a good "line," instead of with a club.

* * *

ENGLAND DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

LONDON, Oct. 19.—No London charm to me outweighs that of bewitching street names. Some, a bit pagan, like Topsy "just growed." A happy nickname, such as Tickle Me Bend, is carried over from long ago. Oxford Circus is really Regent Circus. No one knows why and not even the King can change it.

Houndsditch is where dead dogs were thrown in a dim past and Cockspur and Giltspur streets, Cock Lane and Cockpit Steps, as well as Pall Mall, tell of forgotten sports. The Strand, of course, was the shore of a river. But how poetic in contrast to the mathematical severity of a Forty-second or a One Hundred and Twenty-fifth!

Today we alighted from an omnibus in the East End, where streets are suddenly turned off like a tap. One cul-de-sac of dismal mediocrity was romantically Aldgate Pump. Another, Tanglewood Dell. One takes on the character of London streets. In Stepney Causeway you feel a low outcast. In Berkeley Square, a blood!

Doctors, as Sherlock Holmes taught us, group on Harley street; solicitors, in Bloomsbury, but who can tell why? Tottenham Court Road and Bethnal Green have the tick of a sonnet as have better known Covent Garden, Picadilly and Bayswater Road. And for a Times Square what beats Charing Cross—London's center.

But not all such names are so appropriate. Crooked Lane is dead straight. Cut Throat Lane is packed with respectability and Shepherdess Walk is slummy. But mostly streets echo sentimentally of original usage—Haymarket, St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Great Windmill street, Hayhill and Cornhill.

Of Alley is a slit, in close leafage, toward the embankment. It is the prepositional deference to George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, who had a street named for every word of his name and title—including the "of."

* * *

In New York tony streets change; vide the Fifth avenue or Broadway of 20 years ago. Here exclusiveness clings starchily. There is the story of one quintessence of aristocracy—Park Lane, as I recall—where a Red shouted to the footman: "The revolution is here!" and received a chilly: "All revolutions must be delivered at the tradesmen's entrance." This typifies the London of class.

In the Savoy this noon a New Yorker was trying to medicine a growing despair over a moral obliquity in jolts of Irish whisky. At home, although married, he maintained one of those cheating apartments where he is known by another name. In the midst of a cocktail party, he was handed a summons for jury duty under his alias. At midnight he scurried up the gang-plank. And is he worried!

Of all cities, London seems most permanent. Yet brambles grow and sheep graze where Thebes and Carthage stood. I thought of this material impermanence trudging up Ludgate Hill to St. Paul's. From the stone platform below the dome, silhouetted blackly against a blanched sky, one looks, as a beemaster gazing into the hive, on the huddle that is London. In queer massing, civilization dumped eight millions on a handful of earth. And, as an invalid dominates a household of healthy people, so does a sick king rule. You hear: "The King is but a figure-head!" Even Londoners joke that George is the Fifth and the Queen the other four-fifths. But every Britisher knows he is a symbol saving the empire from chaos.

In the noon melee of that vast human vomitory, The Strand, an athletic sidewalk xylophonist, suggesting a 12-stone Etonian oar, tapped out a tune with that polite indifference distinguishing curb musicians of London. When I dropped a small coin, his "Obliged, sir!" had that rising inflection so insinuatingly British. Even begging flaunts a bit of chuck!

* * *

London society writers speak of youthful married couples as "the young marrieds" and lorgnettes are being hoisted at their capers. They, more than elders, have been responsible for shaking off the gloom and giving a tooting old perk to things.

* * *

I drew a maniac taxi driver in a spin to Whitechapel today. He started like a squirt of seltzer, grazed vans, rounded turnings on two wheels and otherwise scared me stiff. Window-tapping him into a halt, I jittered: "I have news for you. I bring tidings. I'm just a neurasthenic New York boy. From now on your cab-work is between you and the Crown. I'm out of it. You are on your own." And I hopped out and onto a bus.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I WILL REMEMBER HIM ALWAYS—BUT I WILL NOT LET THAT MEMORY SPOIL LIFE.

The love we had
Was beautiful and rare.
It was the finest thing
In life.

I was grateful for it,
And so happy
That nothing else mattered
While I had him.
And I was proud.
Our love was
The proudest thing
In my life.

Now he is gone;
Dead, they say.
And I have only Memories
Of a love that
Is richer treasure
Than most lives
Ever know.

Then why should I
Act poor, or cheated?
Why should I act
As though love had been
A bad bargain?
Why should I be
So bitter, so sad
That others, watching me,
Will say:
"Love is not worth
"The price one pays?"

LOVE IS WORTH ANY PRICE,
AND I KNOW IT.
LOVE IS WORTH ANY RISK.
NOTHING CAN EVER MAKE LOVE A BAD BARGAIN.
I KNOW ALL THIS.
I HAVE ALWAYS KNOWN IT.
IF I HAD IT TO DO
ALL OVER AGAIN,
I WOULD TAKE THE RISK OF LOVING,
WHATEVER THE PRICE,
AND I WOULD BE GLAD AND PROUD.
THEN I WILL BE GLAD AND PROUD NOW.
I WILL PROVE THAT LOVE IS WORTHWHILE.
I WILL PROVE THAT LOVE ALWAYS PAYS; THAT IT NEVER STOPS PAYING.

I will prove it
By living proudly,
By living joyously,
By living so abundantly
That all who touch my life
Shall share that abundance
And say:
"Could love do this
"For her, even though
"It broke her heart?
"Make life so strong,
"So beautiful,
"In spite of pain?
"Then I, too,
"Will love!
"I will dare to love,
"Whatever the risk!"

He is gone;
Dead, they say,
But love is not gone.
Our love, his and mine,
Still lives.
I will let it
Live gloriously!
I will give him
A memorial,
Not of cold, hard stone,
But of warm joy
Of flaming pride,
Of sweet abundance
Which all may share.

I WILL REMEMBER HIM ALWAYS;
BUT NOT WITH TEARS,
NOR WITH BITTERNESS.
I WILL REMEMBER HIM
WITH PRIDE AND GRATITUDE.
I WILL NOT LET LOVE SPOIL LIFE
NOR LIFE SPOIL LOVE.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Some friend has proven false to you.

You placed him or her on a pinnacle of confidence, but when you most needed a friend the requirements were not fulfilled.

Your faith had been so strongly established that now you seem to have lost faith in everyone.

You did not make allowance for human frailty, did you?

If you expect absolute steadfastness you are doomed to disappointment.

If you are perfect in that respect yourself you are an exception.

You have your moments of weakness and so have others.

If your friend has shown that there are some temptations he or she cannot withstand it is unfortunate.

But are you able to withstand anything and everything?

Perhaps there have been times when your friends have been chagrined and even ashamed of some of your words and actions.

We all need confidence and faith in order to get the most out of life.

When we distrust everybody, a very important factor in life is lost.

Don't be so sure of yourself that you can distrust everybody.

Life is robbed of something which is precious when no one is trusted.

Text for Today

Say not, I will do so to him as he hath done to me: I will render to the man according to his work.—Proverbs, xxiv:29.

(Today's text is suggested by the Rev. Guy D. Wallace, pastor, First United Presbyterian Church, Braddock.)

An Embarrassed Oracle

Mr. Coolidge, Ignoring Counts Against Mr. Hoover, Lays Nation's Ills to Democratic Nominee

IT HAS BEEN a Republican tradition to build up a party spokesman, and to wrap him in reverence and authority. Then, when he embarks on an utterance, it does not matter what he says so much as THAT HE HAS SPOKEN.

Elihu Root, before his retirement, served as this kind of mumbo jumbo for the Republican party. Are the Republicans now trying to build up Calvin Coolidge as his successor?

Mr. Coolidge has come to the defense of his successor in the presidency, and well he may, for many of Mr. Hoover's problems were direct legacies from the days of the Coolidge administration.

However, Mr. Coolidge finds himself as embarrassed in explaining the failure of the present Republican administration as Mr. Hoover himself.

Mr. Hoover has finally decided that the depression is due to the war. But Mr. Coolidge thinks its prolongation has been due to something else and blames Franklin D. Roosevelt for not speaking out against the soldiers' bonus. Because of this, said Mr. Coolidge in his Madison Square Garden speech, "economic recovery was measurably impeded."

NEITHER MR. HOOVER nor Mr. Coolidge is disposed to admit that Mr. Hoover's adminstration encouraged the reckless speculation in Wall Street and stimulated the over-capitalization whose collapse INAUGURATED THE DEPRESSION.

Mr. Coolidge did not mention that Hoover's administration generally approved, if it did not indorse, some of the issues of worthless foreign bonds sold to our American investors by Mr. Hoover's friends and supporters, the international bankers.

Trustful American investors lost hundreds of millions, in fact, thousands of millions of dollars, in the depreciation and repudiation of these worthless foreign bonds, and in the collapse of Wall Street securities, over-capitalized at 10 times their value.

The money of our American investors was used to make bankers rich with commissions, and foreign swindlers rich with bribes. But, according to Calvin Coolidge, Mr. Hoover—who in the Coolidge phrase deserves to be compared with Lincoln—had no influence on the prolonged depression compared with the malevolent influence exercised by Mr. Roosevelt in not talking sufficiently about the soldiers' bonus.

Not even Mr. Hoover's complete subserviency to the power trust—the most disastrously over-capitalized swindle in the whole history of the United States, ruining hundreds of thousands of worthy citizens—has as much to do with impending "economic recovery," according to Mr. Coolidge, as Mr. Roosevelt's failure to discuss the soldiers' bonus has had.

MR. COOLIDGE averted his attention from the subservience of the Republican administration to every organization of wealth,

Its encouragement of Wall Street speculation,

Its express approval of the questionable activities of international bankers; its flint-like opposition to any practicable legislation for the creation of jobs,

Its preoccupation in the agreeable work of financing the financiers,

Its neglect of the interests of the farmers and the working classes,

Its partiality to foreign interests rather than American interests,

Its furtive and unceasing effort to transfer the burdens of European nations to the back of the American taxpayer,

Its discreditable double dealing on prohibition,

The autocratic attitude of the Republican administration toward the people's Congress, arrogating to itself functions which properly belong to Congress,

The contempt for popular opinion and popular judgment; which a Republican president has expressed time and again in written articles and frequently evidenced in his official acts,

The inexplicable hostility of the Republican administration to the veterans of the World War, culminating in the shameful attack upon the unarmed veterans of the bonus army with bayonets, gas bombs and armored tanks,

Ignoring all these counts in the grave and weighty popular indictments of the Hoover administration, Mr. Coolidge blandly imputes all our difficulties, present and future, to the fact that MR. ROOSEVELT IS NOT TALKING SUFFICIENTLY ABOUT THE SOLDIERS' BONUS.

APPARENTLY MR. COOLIDGE fails to realize that the question of the soldiers' bonus will come up before THE PRESENT CONGRESS when it assembles on December fifth of THIS YEAR, 1932. The question will be DECIDED BY THIS CONGRESS AND BY MR. HOOVER long before Mr. Roosevelt is inaugurated.

Mr. Roosevelt will not take office until March fourth, 1933, and the Congress which is to be elected this November, unless called in special session, will not assemble until December, 1933.

Mr. Roosevelt has not failed to express himself at appropriate times on the subject of the treatment of the veterans.

Why should he CONTINUE TO TALK about something for which he has NO IMMEDIATE RESPONSIBILITY, and which the present Congress and Mr. Hoover will decide?

NO ONE KNOWS what the conditions of the country are destined to be at the end of 1933. No one can predict what its income will be at that time, nor whether the country will be faced with a deficit or not, or what the extent of any deficit may be.

Is it not plain that the insistence of Mr. Coolidge that Mr. Roosevelt should break into utterance on this subject is an attempt to divert attention from Mr. Hoover's discomfiture on the question?

Former President Coolidge has on more than one occasion lauded the virtue of silence. He has referred to it as golden.

He would have been well advised to practice this virtue. Silence is surely golden when you do not know what you are talking about, and—so far as Mr. Roosevelt is concerned—when you CANNOT KNOW WHAT YOU ARE ASKED TO TALK ABOUT.

Electric REFRIGERATION Number

ALL-YEAR-ROUND REFRIGERATION ESSENTIAL

Preparing and Saving Perishables Enables Reduction in Expense

The primary function of an electrical refrigerator is of course, the preservation of food; as long as it does that it is doing its duty.

An understanding of why food spoils and how proper refrigeration can be depended upon to prevent such spoilage would give the housewife a greater appreciation of the advantage of mechanical refrigeration.

Too many people are of the impression that summer time alone is refrigeration time and that during winter months foods do not require this protection.

The sad part of this theory is that without refrigeration during the cold months more foods spoil and become dangerous to eat than at any time during the year. It is fluctuation of temperatures, from freezing to above 50 degrees, that encourages bacteria development.

There are only a very few days out of each 365 when outside temperatures are suitable for proper food preservation. The housewife who believes that foods can be kept fresh and safe to eat during the winter time without the protection of refrigeration is only fooling herself.

Mechanical refrigeration is as necessary during the cold months as in the hottest weather.

It is best not to gamble with your family's health or risk serving them food tainted by fluctuating temperatures. Their well-being, summer and winter, through the foods they eat, demands the scientific protection of electric refrigeration.

Through the science of bacteriology it has been discovered that microbes are chiefly responsible for the destruction of our food supplies. Bacteria, yeasts and mold growths multiply very rapidly under favorable conditions of temperature and moisture. Decomposition is an essential part of nature, and to prevent it, we must find a way to inhibit the growth of those agents that cause it.

Below the temperature of 50 degrees growth of all forms of germ life is distinctly retarded. The difference between 50 degrees and 55 degrees is very small, but in the electric re-

SANDWICH SALAD

Fill shallow loaf pan one-third full of tomato aspic. Place in refrigerator. Soak one teaspoon gelatin in two tablespoons cold water and dissolve over boiling water. Add to one cup mayonnaise and mix well. Spread this over firm layer of tomato in the pan. Again place in refrigerator. When this has set, cover with another layer of tomato aspic and place in refrigerator until ready to serve. Unmold on salad or chop plate and surround with small heart leaves of lettuce. Slice or cut in squares for serving. Serves 8 to 10. No extra salad dressing is necessary. Tomato-Sandwich Salad may be prepared in individual molds if preferred.

Buttermilk Sherbet

2 cups buttermilk, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup crushed pineapple, 1 egg white (unbeaten), 1½ teaspoons vanilla.

Combine buttermilk, sugar and pineapple thoroughly. Place in tray in refrigerator and freeze to a mush. Remove from tray to a bowl, add egg white and vanilla. Beat until light and fluffy. Return to refrigerator and continue freezing.

LUNCHEON CANAPE

3 hard-cooked eggs, few grains cayenne pepper, 1 tablespoon finely minced chives, 3 tablespoons melted butter, mayonnaise, tomato catsup, 6 circular pieces of bread, anchovy paste, parsley.

Cut eggs in halves lengthwise and remove the yolks. Press yolks through potato ricer or mash with a fork. Add cayenne, chives and butter. Moisten with equal parts of mayonnaise and catsup. Fill whites with this mixture. Chill thoroughly. Saute pieces of bread in butter and spread thinly with anchovy paste. Place on small plates, and on each piece of toast place one-half of a stuffed egg. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with parsley.

Here is how to make the Surprise Cocktail:

Fruit sherbet, 2 oranges, 2 slices pineapple, 1 banana, ½ cup fruit juice.

Pare oranges with a sharp knife, removing all white inner skin. Separate sections, discarding partitions. Slice banana and cut pineapple in small pieces. Combine fruits and pour fruit juice over all. (The fruit juice will prevent banana from discoloring.) Cover and chill thoroughly. Have ready in tray of refrigerator, some frozen sherbet—any desired flavor may be used. When ready to serve place a spoonful of sherbet in bottom of sherbet glass and fill with chilled fruit.

A variety of delicious fruit and sherbet combinations may be arranged when fresh fruits are in season.

Orange Cream Sherbet

1 teaspoon gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 1½ cups sugar, 1½ cups boiling water, grated rind 2 oranges, 2 eggs, 1 cup lemon juice, 1½ cups orange juice, 1 pint (2 cups) cream or evaporated milk; ½ cup powdered sugar, few grains salt.

Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve gelatin and 1½ cups sugar in boiling water; add orange rind, lemon juice and orange juice. Place in tray of refrigerator, and freeze to a mush. Beat cream (or evaporated milk) until stiff; add one-calf cup sugar, and salt. Separate yolks from whites of eggs. Beat yokes until thick and lemon colored, and whites until stiff; combine, and add to cream. Fold into frozen mixture and return tray to refrigerator. Freeze, stirring twice during freezing process. Serves eight.

Refrigerator Cookies

½ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1¾ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter and sugar together. Add the beaten egg. Add flour, baking powder, salt and vanilla. Shape with the hands into a roll two inches in diameter, adding a little more flour if necessary. Place in a covered dish and keep in the refrigerator, using as needed. When ready to bake, cut in thin slices and lay on a lightly greased pan. Bake in a quick oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) until a delicate brown (about five to eight minutes). If desired, cookies may be decorated with chocolate shot, chopped or shredded nuts, or raisins. Makes about 4 dozen.

Upside Down Cake

3 tablespoons butter, ¾ cup brown sugar, halves of apricots, ¼ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup apricot juice, 1¼ cups flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Melt butter and brown sugar in heavy cake pan about three inches deep. Place halves of apricots, hollow side down, which have been drained of juice, in bottom of the pan and let this stand. Cream butter and sugar, add well-beaten eggs, then stir in apricot juice alternately with the flour, sifted with the baking powder and salt. Add vanilla. Cover and let this batter stand in the refrigerator until ready to bake. A half-hour before dinner pour batter into pan containing the apricots and sugar and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 45 minutes. Turn out and serve with whipped cream, hard sauce of lemon sauce.

Refrigeration Throughout ntire Year Vital

frigerator it means the difference between proper preservation of food and rapid spoilage. The ideal temperature is between 45 and 50 degrees.

The constant low temperature maintained by the electric refrigerator makes it possible for the housewife to keep perishable foods for a much longer period of time than she did when she had to depend on other means. Consider what this means to her in safety, convenience, economy, and varied menus for the family.

The food bill is one of the major items of household expense and the small economies made possible here and there every week are important over a period of weeks or months.

There need be no food loss due to spoilage. Left-overs will keep in a wholesome condition for some time so that they can be used to best advantage. Marketing can be reduced from the daily trip to twice a week at most. For most families, marketing twice a week is the best routine because of the size of the refrigerator.

When the housewife is able to preserve perishable foods in her own home, she can take advantage of the fluctuations in food price. Canned goods may be bought in large sizes for even though the entire contents of the can are not used, what is left over can be kept safely in the refrigerator until needed.

There is one warning, however: Do not overcrowd the box. Space should be left between the container for free circulation of air, for air circulation is necessary to maintain the low temperature. Most foods should be kept in covered containers, raw meats, however, should never be covered.

Before storing fruits and vegetables, wash them and cut off parts that are not to be used such as celery stalks and cauliflower leaves. There is no use to refrigerate waste.

How Pastry Preparation Is Aided by Refrigeration

Apple Fritters

1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, 1 egg, tart apples.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add milk and well beaten egg. Mix well. Cover and place in refrigerator until ready to use. When ready to cook fritters, pare and core apples and cut in sections. Dip each section in the batter and fry in deep, hot fat until brown. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Other fruits may be used instead of apples. Serve hot with lemon sauce or with powdered sugar sprinkled over them.

Russian Canape

1 jar caviar, rounds of bread, lettuce, anchovy butter.

Spread rounds of bread with anchovy butter (well-creamed butter to which a small amount of anchovy paste has been added), and put a spoonful of thoroughly chilled caviar in the center of each round. Garnish with anchovy butter or cream cheese put through a pastry tube. Place in refrigerator until ready to serve. This may be served on a lettuce leaf or with a garnish of shredded lettuce or watercress.

Celery Trunks

Take two matching pieces of curled celery and fill the cavities with any filling used for stuffed celery. Press the two stalks together and stand upright to resemble trunks of trees.

Pastry

2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅓ cup shortening, ⅓ cup butter, ice water.

Mix and sift flour and salt. With two knives or a pastry blender, cut in shortening. Add enough ice water to make a stiff dough. Roll out in an oblong piece and dot with bits of butter. Fold ends to the center and fold again to make four layers. Press the ends together and roll out. Dot again with butter, fold and roll out. Fold again and place in a covered dish; keep in refrigerator until ready to use. Makes enough for one two-crust pie. If small pastries are desired, it will make from one to two dozen, according to size.

will safeguard your family

"Changeable as the weather" certainly doesn't apply to an electric refrigerator . . . the constant temperature below 50° maintained by an electric refrigerator is one of its most important features. It's absolutely necessary if perishable foods are to be kept healthful and tempting.

From even the most practical viewpoint an electric refrigerator is a thrifty investment. Many left-overs that otherwise would be thrown out can be saved . . . many delicious and inexpensive frozen desserts can be made . . . vegetables, meats and fruits, bought at bargain prices, can be safely kept for days. That's real economy! Reduced prices and convenient payment plans make the purchase of an electric refrigerator particularly easy and attractive right now.

Is there a better investment you could make than one which will safeguard yor whole family . . . one from which you all benefit day after day, summer or winter? Protect their health and happiness . . . invest in an Electric Refrigerator!

MORE RECIPES FOR SALADS

Tomato Aspic

2 tablespoons gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, ½ cup boiling water, 4 cups tomatoes, fresh or canned; 1 tablespoon chopped onion, ½ teaspoon celery seed, 2 or 3 whole cloves, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. Cook the tomatoes, onions, celery seed, cloves, salt and sugar for 15 minutes. Strain through fine strainer or cheesecloth; add lemon juice and dissolved gelatin. This may be molded at once or it may be kept in covered jar in refrigerator until needed. Makes about 3 cups aspic. To use, take out what is wanted and melt over hot water. Suggestions for several variations follow:

Tomato Jelly Salad

Fill individual molds one-third full of tomato aspic. Place in refrigerator to become partly set. Soften cream cheese with a little cream and season with salt and pepper. Form into balls and roll in chopped nuts. Place a cheese ball in each mold, and add a tablespoon of cold liquid aspic. When set, cover balls entirely with the aspic and return to refrigerator. Unmold on lettuce and serve with desired dressing.

Tomato Supreme

6 very small tomatoes, ½ cake cream cheese, 2 tablespoons cream, 1 tablespoon Chili sauce, 1 tablespoon catsup, ½ teaspoon paprika, salt, pepper.

Scald tomatoes, remove skin and centers, sprinkle inside of tomato with salt, and chill in refrigerator. Mix cheese, cream, Chili sauce, catsup, paprika, salt and pepper together into a thick, smooth cream. Fill the tomatoes with this mixture and return to refrigerator until ready to serve. Top with mayonnaise dressing. Serve on a small leaf of lettuce or on shredded lettuce as the first course of luncheon or dinner.

Celery Curls

Cut stalks of celery into three or four-inch pieces. With a sharp knife make five or six incisions down the stalk, stopping within 1½ inches of the end. Drop the pieces into cold water and place in refrigerator for several hours. The split ends will curl back along the stalks, making an attractive garnish for salads and "cold plates." To hasten curling, place in refrigerator.

Tomato-Celery Salad

Fold into two cups tomato aspic, which has been allowed to cool and thicken slightly, one cup chopped celery or one-half cup chopped celery and one-fourth cup finely chopped green peppers and one-fourth cup chopped olives. Turn into molds and chill. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Tomato Jelly Salad

Fill individual molds which have been dipped in cold water with tomato aspic. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Cheese Straws

Roll out pastry to one-fourth-inch thickness. Sprinkle with grated cheese and paprika. Fold and roll out again; sprinkle with paprika. Cut in strips about four inches long and bake in hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) until a light brown.

WHY TAKE CHANCES

WITH A LIFETIME INVESTMENT?

Since modern electric refrigeration pays for itself you can afford the BEST

A good electric refrigerator lasts a lifetime. That's why the few extra dollars you spend to-day for a refrigerator of unquestioned quality saves you loss and disappointment in years just ahead.

Consider this important fact before you buy. For your own protection, learn the facts about quality, price and terms of the Westinghouse Dual-automatic Refrigerator. Do this, by all means. For you'll find that by comparison your investment in a Westinghouse will pay a big dividend in years of service and satisfaction.

The name Westinghouse assures you of the best in workmanship, materials, and performance. Assures you also of every important feature in modern refrigeration...PLUS the extra economy and dependability of Westinghouse hermetically-sealed mechanism, exclusive Built-in Watchman Control, 4-Year Service Plan and others.

Prices are lowest in Westinghouse history. And, since modern electric refrigeration pays for itself, it is easy to have the BEST. See the Westinghouse Dual-automatic first! See it at Kaufmann's, Westinghouse headquarters in Pittsburgh.
